DECEMBER

Look What we are Learning!

HAPPY HOLIDAYS!

This is a short month packed with lots of fun holiday activities. We will be making Christmas presents, writing letters to Santa, singing Christmas songs, playing with snow (or homemade snow), and continuing to work on letter, number, shape, and color naming.

CEM Highlight - Jobs

If we want to teach children to be responsible, we have to trust them with responsibilities. Classroom jobs are an effective way to enlist students in the duties of running a classroom. There are many different jobs you can choose from for use in our classroom. Jobs will be rotated on a regular basis, so everyone will have a chance to participate. Your children can also have jobs at home. You may have to consider your own personal comfort level, the maturity level of your child, and other factors when you decide how much responsibility you ready to give your child. Jobs are an excellent way to teach our children responsibility.

Things to do at Home

*Match socks and put them away
*In the car count how many seconds until you get home (when you are close)
*Take turns telling a story – child start, adult add on, child say more
