

NMS School Counselors

When I began my career as a teacher 24 years ago, I envisioned that I would be a school counselor. Why, because i wanted to create change. As a teacher, I was limited to a curriculum and standards. As a counselor, I have standards to cover, but I actually have the opportunity to cater to the mental health of students. I want to empower students to work to their potential. We often are confined to what we see in our environment. I want students to see above and beyond.

I became a School Counselor to be able to help students achieve their goals, both academically and socially. It is my hope that students come to school knowing that they matter to me and that they feel supported on good days and bad. I strive to build relationships with all students and encourage them to pursue their dreams. My goal is to create a school community that feels like family.
