

To change formatting in the document, the paintbrush in the toolbar is where you want to go.

The style section is where you can change the style of the slides in your presentations.

To add things besides text to your document, the "+" in the toolbar is where you want to go.

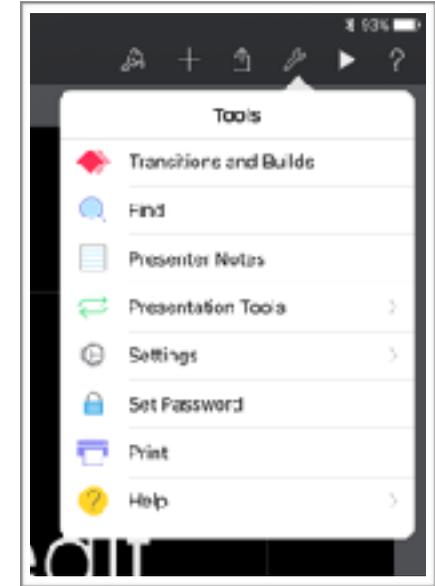

The first set of options let you insert a data table from Numbers.

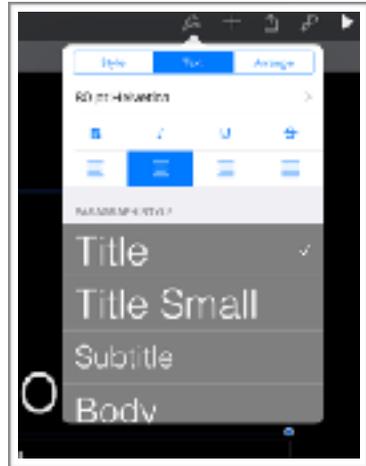

The second set of options let you turn that data table into a graph, or insert a graph from different data.

For settings and other options, the wrench in the toolbar is where you want to go.

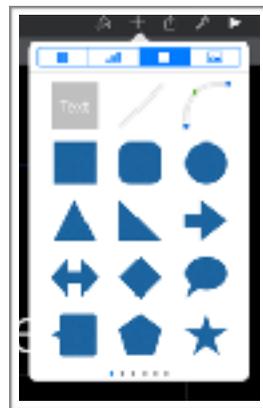

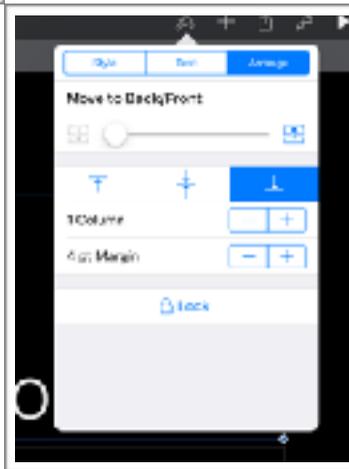

This is where you go to search in your presentation, make/view presenter notes, see settings (more details on reverse side), and get help if needed.

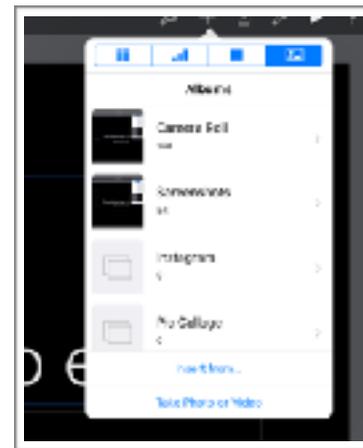

The text section is where you can make basic formatting changes such as font, size, arrangement, and also setting the paragraph style.

To add a slide, click on the plus '+' in the lower right corner.

The arrange section is where you can add or remove columns to your document and change the margins.

The third set of options let you insert a text box, lines, or shapes.

The fourth set of options lets you insert photos from your camera roll.

Once you click on the '+', you can choose the style of slide that you want.
