Introduction

"So this is Brewer High School!" exclaimed Charlie Brown. "Good Grief! Look at the size of it!"

"Well, come on, let's go!" said Linus.

"You blockhead! Don't you see the sign that says all visitors have to get a pass from the office?" answered Lucy. "And give me that stupid blanket!"

"In here, everyone," said Charlie Brown.

"Hop to it! Okay, let's go! Do it now!" ordered Lucy.

"You'd make a rotten queen," said Linus.

"So this is the office," remarked Lucy. "Quite a place. Let's look around . . ."

* * *

"Let's stop in the guidance office now," suggested Linus, as they emerged from the main office.

"GUIDANCE OFFICE?" shrieked Lucy. "If you need guidance, you come to me! I will relieve the frustrations of modern life in one visit. Can the guidance department claim to do that? Ha! That'll be five cents, please."

* * *

"Look! There's the cafeteria!" shouted Sally. "Let's eat!"

"Hey, Charlie Brown," said Linus. "Did you see that girl with the red hair walk by? You got sort of nervous when she walked by, didn't you, Charlie Brown?"

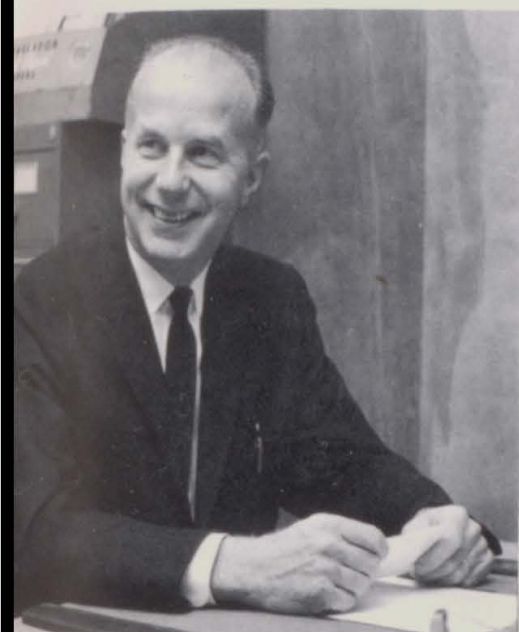

"What makes you think I got nervous?"

"You tied your peanut butter sandwich in a knot."

Students

"Hey! We're going to meet the students now!" shouted Violet. "That reminds me. Did that boy who sits in front of you cry again today?"

"He cries every day," answered Lucy. "He has all the simple fears that go with being a student . . . fear of being late for school, fear of the teachers, fear of the principal, fear of not knowing what room to go to, fear of forgetting his lunch money, fear of bigger kids, fear of being asked to recite, fear of missing the bus, fear of not knowing when to get off the bus, fear of . . ."

"Oh, good grief!"

Mr. Mealey, as principal of Brewer High School, you have guided us in all our endeavors and have given us your wholehearted support. Your untiring efforts to make our school one of which we may all be proud have borne fruit, for you have instilled in us, the students of Brewer School, the desire to serve our school with alty. Therefore, with gratitude and respect, we dedicate the Students' section of the 1966 TRIDENT to you, Mr. Philip R. Mealey.

Senior Class Officers

Marshal; Mr. Edward Revello, Adviser; Mr. Edwin Libby, Adviser; Danny Fox, Treasurer.

SENIOR CLASS PROJECT COMMITTEE

The Senior Class Project Committee planned and put into action several fund-raising projects in order to obtain financial support for graduation. The first of these was the sale of Christmas cards and stationery. The other major project was the Senior-Faculty Basketball Game, which is now becoming an annual project of the Senior Class.

A Summer In The Philippines

The American Field Service is a nonprofit organization devoted to the promotion of world peace and understanding between nations of the world. Each year more than three thousand students participate in the programs of AFS. During the 1964-65 school year, more than two thousand foreigners from more than sixty-three countries came to the United States to study in American high schools. The Americans Abroad Program also sent over one thousand American students to study in foreign high schools. It was under this program that I spent this past summer in the Philippine Islands.

There were forty-five American students from all sections of the country who spent the summer in the Philippines. Santa Rita, Pampanga, a farming town on the Central Luzon Plain, was my home town for more than eight weeks.

My foster parents were both school teachers in one of the local elementary schools. My two foster sisters were doing college work in Quezon City, the capital city of the Philippines, and my foster brother was a fourth-year school student at the local high school. My home was flooded during much of my stay because the rainy season occurs during July and August.

The last ten days of my stay were spent with the other forty-four students. We all went to the Capital and from there took many short trips to better acquaint ourselves with the beautiful country.

The American Field Service is a worthwhile and beneficial program. It is designed so that every one can help the cause of world peace. The best way to accomplish this is simply to follow the AFS slogan:

"Walk together, talk together,
O ye people of the earth.
Then, and only then, shall ye have peace."

The Underclassmen, The Leaders

Junior Class

William Knight plans ahead by looking at the various pamphlets available in the guidance office.

Junior Exhibition is one of the highlights of the school year. Pam entertains Jim Gallant and Paul Cote while practicing her speech tryouts.

Of Tomorrow, Diligently Pursue

is Nichols, varsity football manager, enters the office for consultation with Mr. Mealey concerning ball games.

After class, David Tonini and Marcia Bull inquire about a history assignment.

Their Studies, In Anticipation Of

The Day When They Too Will Step

Bill Morin, Mike Mitton, and Jimmy Coleman, sophomore football players, check the charts to see how much they have improved during the season.

Sophomores Gail Gunn and Margaret Guthrie stop by their lockers between classes.

The two sophomore library assistants, Ralph Townsend and Pam Foss, help Miss Haskell by covering books.

Out Into The World And Assume

Freshman class officers are seated, Shirley Campbell, vice-president; Mrs. Travis, class adviser; and Lynn Duhaime, secretary. Back row, Mr. Harmon, class adviser; Richard Franks, president; and Bill Gallant, treasurer.

Mark Proulx, Steve Tardiff, Vicki French, Cheryl Emery, and Margaret Rowe are among those students entering Brewer High as freshmen this year. They are wearing beanies given them by the Student Council.

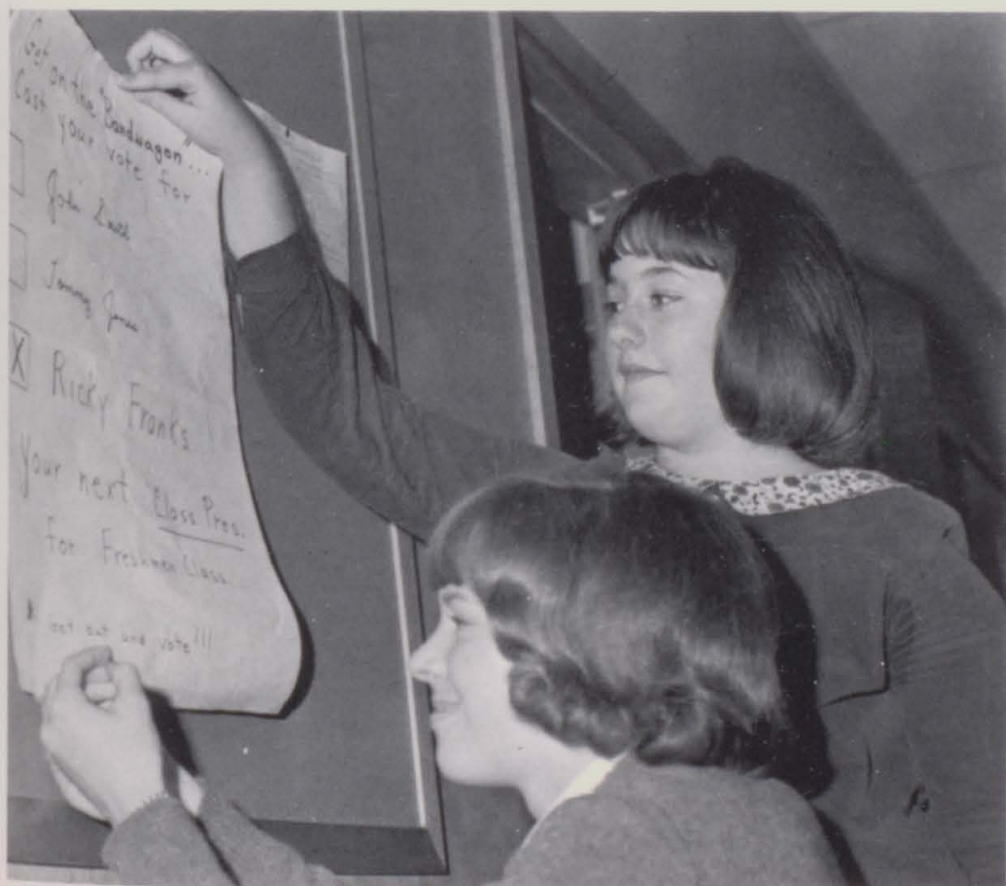

Their Responsibilities As Adults.

searching for a book for his report, Dennis Lydick becomes familiar with the library.

As Cathy Wright thumbs through the dictionary, she finds homework can be amusing as well as educational.

Nancy Davis and Barbara Treat assist in the Freshman campaign to elect class officers.

Charlie Brown And His Friends Have

Charlotte Derby, Carol Heilsberg, Bonnie Wright, and Joanna Calderwood assist in serving refreshments.

Gail Kirkpatrick and Brian Hallowell enjoy a moment of music furnished by the orchestra.

The Opportunity To Observe The Many

An annual event before the Bangor-Brewer football game is a rally, which includes a bonfire and the burning of the Bangor ram. Participating in the burning of the ram this year are Terry Geaghan, Dave Wing, and Mr. Hadley.

School Rally

the crowd watching, one of the Brewer witches casts spell on a Madison rival.

Diana Orsini, Carol Bailey, and Cheryl Emery taunt the Madison bulldog, Betty Ellen Lawrence, at a student rally before the Brewer-Madison football game.

Social Activities, An Integral Part

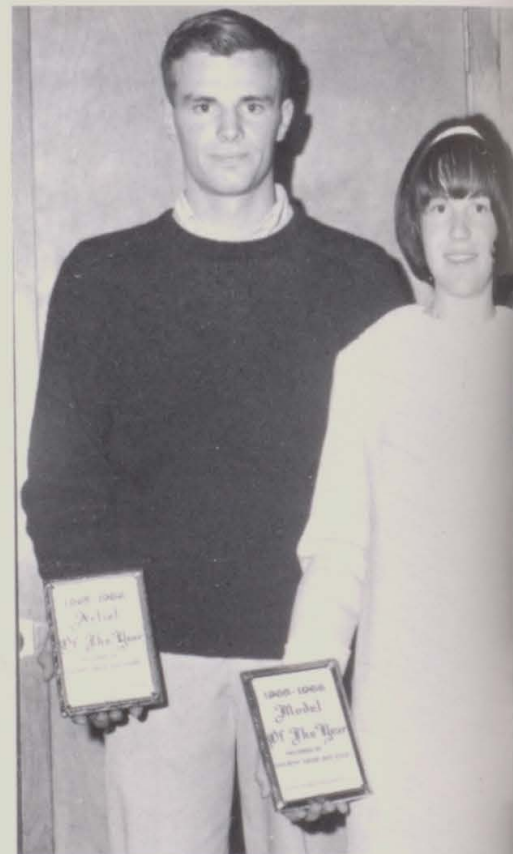

Eric Kenney and Shirley Campbell, freshmen; Terry Faucett and Gayle Briggs, sophomores; Dick Martin and Lorna Rand, juniors; Jim Sawyer and Tanya Morin, seniors were candidates for the 1965-1966 Artist and Model.

Artist And Model Dance

Each year the Art Club sponsors the Artist and Model Dance. Previous to the dance, nominations for Artist and Model are held in each class, followed by voting with pennies. The pennies are counted on the evening of the dance when the Artist and Model are announced.

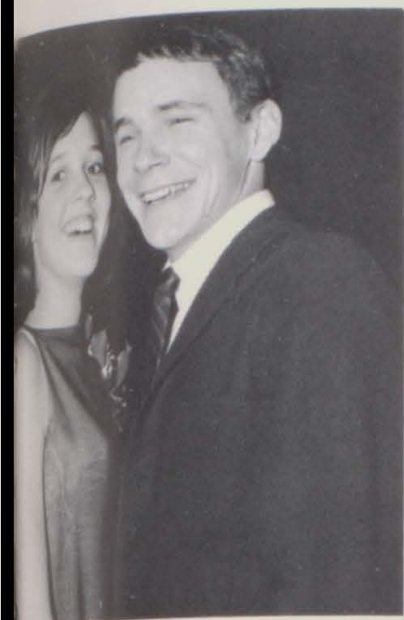

Dancing to the music of the Chancellors are Linda Soucy and Terry Faucett.

Chosen Artist and Model by the student body are Dick Martin and Shirley Campbell.

Of Student Life At Brewer High School.

Amice Savoy and Lester Bonzey are participating in one of the many dances.

Mike Arbuckle, Carol Bailey, Pam Pomroy and guest are admiring the Christmas tree decorations.

White Christmas Dance

Each year the Commercial Club sponsors a semi-formal dance, which is one of the highlights of the school year. This year the club selected the theme of "White Christmas."

John Musters and Susan Hodgins are securing tickets from Barbara Lunt.

Terry Hopkins, Jackie Cyr, Tom Simpson, and Kathy Cote are relaxing between dances.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Bailey were among the chaperones at the dance.

Curricular Activities

"We haven't met the teachers yet," said Sally. "How come?"

"I guess we'll see them when we visit the classrooms," answered Charlie Brown.

"Oh."

"Don't you like school, Sally?" asked Lucy.

"Well, I would like to say I do. I realize the teachers have put in a lot of effort, and a host of administrators have worked hard to develop our curricular program. Yes, I would like very much to say I enjoy school. But I don't."

"We're going to visit the classrooms anyway."

"I was afraid of that."

Mr. Melvin T. Leighton

In many ways, both little and big, you, our teacher and our friend, have guided us in our pursuit of knowledge throughout our high school years. Each one of us has felt your sincere interest in our welfare, and will not soon forget your tireless devotion to high academic standards. It is for these reasons that we the students of Brewer High School, dedicate the Curricular Section of the 1966 TRIDENT to you, Mr. Melvin T. Leighton.

Is Essential For An Understanding Among

ENGLISH I - The Freshman English program is designed to provide students with the fundamentals of grammar, literature, and writing, which will be broadened with each successive year. A major literary character which Freshmen meet is Charles Dickens' DAVID COPPERFIELD, who transports the reader into the world of 19th century England. Nancy Booker and Barry Leland are pointing out the various characters of the story before choosing one on which to write a character sketch.

ENGLISH I - English I students also delve into the fictional world of IVANHOE, the legendary character of Sir Walter Scott's famous novel of the same name. To help their fellow students gain a better understanding of the story, Carol Bailey and Lynn Duhaime exhibit a group of dolls wearing costumes of the 12th century, which they made themselves.

II - As in all years of the English program, the English II classes are d with acquainting the students with all phases of literature. Reading ries is a major way of improving a student's knowledge of this sub- hard Kidder and Frances Gilley are examining the literature book they in their Sophomore year.

Men. Proper Construction Of Sentences,

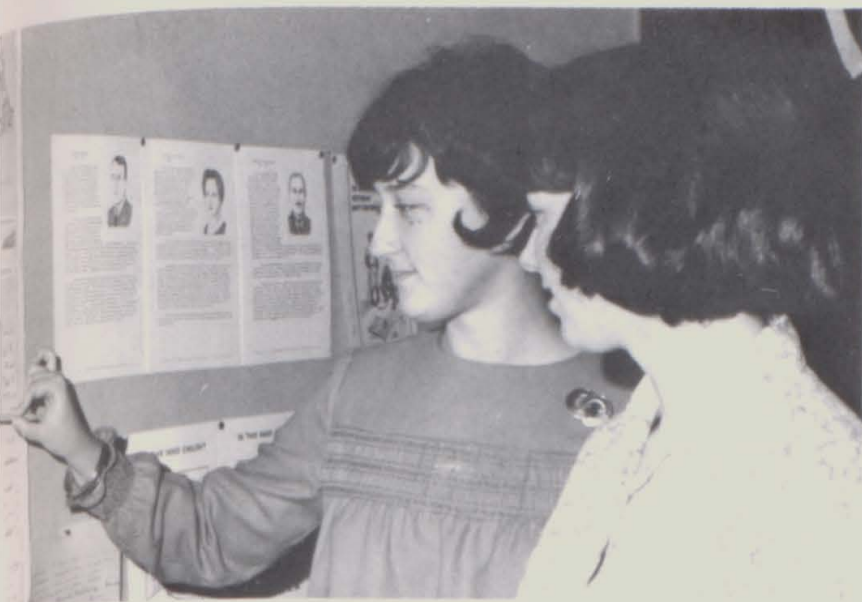

ENGLISH II - A part of the Sophomore English program devoted to reading improvement. Increasing speed without sacrificing comprehension is the major aim of the reading laboratory. Tanya Green, Dan Goodrich, and Ann Junkins are selecting cards from the colors which designate their reading levels.

SPEECH - The aims of Public Speaking are to further the student's knowledge of good speech habits and instill in him those qualities which will make him comfortable before an audience. One of the major phases of speech class is the study of debate. Cynthia Parsons, Jeff Martin and Ann Herrick are preparing for a class debate in which they will take part.

ENGLISH IV - HAMLET is read in the senior year to further develop the student's understanding of Shakespeare and his works. Recordings are used along with the play itself to give meaning to the characters and the dialogue. Viles, Dave Hokans, and Allen Buchanan are reading Hamlet's soliloquy.

A Pitfall For Charlie Brown In Theme

ENGLISH III - Jane Austen's novel, PRIDE AND PREJUDICE, is one of the classics read by Juniors in English III. Its story of a conflict between a young couple is set in 18th century England. Cathy Brooks and Jody Wiswell are pointing out the exact location of Hertfordshire, the scene of the action in the story.

SPELLING!

ENGLISH IV - The English IV program is concerned mainly with broadening the knowledge of the various classics. William Shakespeare is one of the major playwrights and two of his works are read in the Senior year, including MACBETH. Danny Fox and Linda Kirkpatrick are examining exhibits made by the students as extra credit working during the study of MACBETH.

ENGLISH III - THE HOUSE OF THE SEVEN GABLES by Nathaniel Hawthorne portrays life in the 1800's when trains and carriages were the modes of transportation. Daguerreotypes were also popular during this period. Mary Ann Vienneau and Brian Hamel are examining a daguerreotype belonging to the collection of Mr. James Vickery, one of the English teachers at Brewer.

Writing, Is Necessary In All Languages.

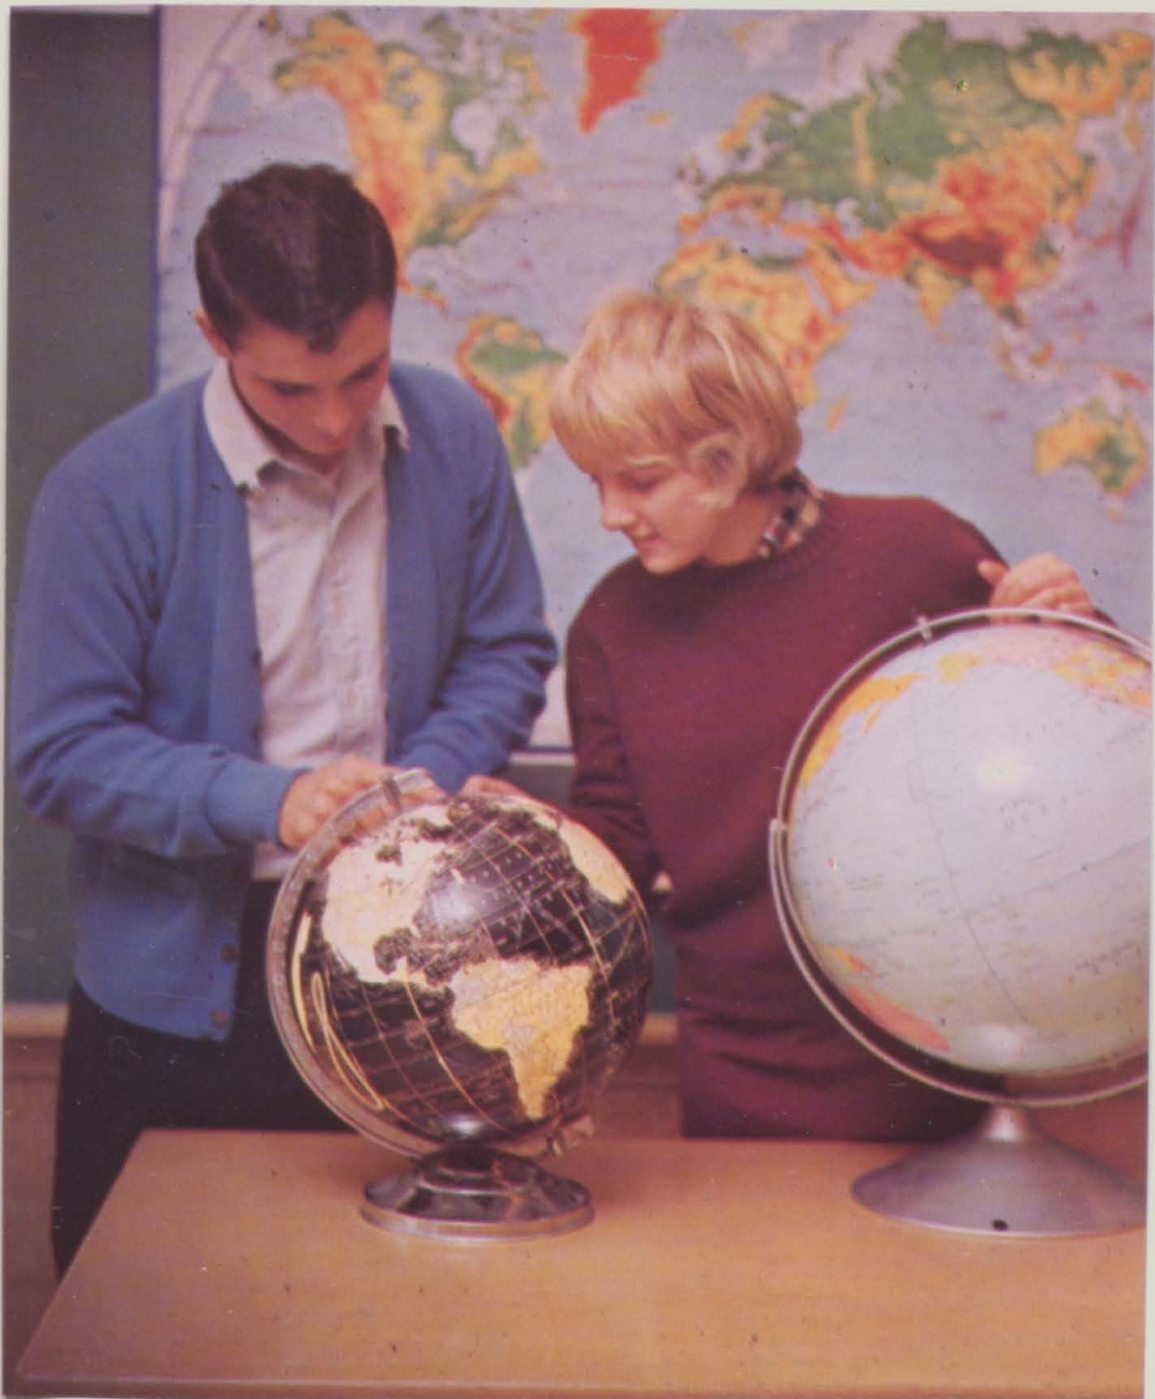

LATIN II - The second year of Latin is mainly a course in Roman history and the conquests of Caesar read in the original Latin form. The program embraces all the phases of grammatical construction learned in First-Year Latin. Marcia Gunn and David Robertson are learning of Caesar's path to power, which has been plotted on a map of ancient times.

LATIN I - Latin I is primarily concerned with the study of Latin vocabulary and grammar. The students must learn to construct sentences properly in order to read stories with understanding. Linda Plummer tries to memorize the conjugation of a group of nouns that may appear on a quiz in class.

FRENCH LAB - French is the major foreign language at Brewer High School. The French Lab, first used in 1964, has brought about a great improvement to the department and a boon to those who learn to speak the language by listening and repeating. Lawson shows Kathy Marston how to operate the control panel controlling the individual desks.

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT - The study of the structure of our federal government is an essential part of the education of many high school students. The structure of government, however, is not the only area to which the student is exposed. World problems, conflicts which affect our American way of life, are also explored in depth. Joe Melchionne, Ron Cramer, and Tanya Morin are reading newspapers which were sent from one of the most troubled countries on earth, Viet Nam.

GEOGRAPHY - Geography is the study of the countries of the world and their importance to us from a topographical viewpoint. Today, in our world of the cold war and atomic bomb, we are primarily interested in the trouble spots of the world in relation to our own country. Joseph Beaulieu points out these places of unrest while Gail Hesseltine comments.

PSYCHOLOGY - Sociology, the study of man and his relationship with environment, provides the student with an insight into the problems now faces and those he will meet in adulthood. Judy Parker, Tom [unclear], and Rosemary Sullivan are preparing for a discussion on the forms of compensation and their importance in the development of a mature attitude toward life.

Orderly Society Is Necessary For World Peace.

CIVICS - In Civics, students learn the major policies and which shape our democratic way of life in America. An important part of the course deals with Maine government, which is most concerned with our own local problems. Wayne Robinson and Mary Peterson, reading the Maine Constitution, are giving not only ideals of our present State administration but also those of the fathers of Maine.

AMERICAN HISTORY - Our country's birth, its growth and problems over two centuries, and the progress it is making in our modern world - these are the three most important aspects of the American History program. Before the War Between the States, a conflict arose in Kansas which earned for the state the name of "Bloody Kansas." Ci Sullivan reports to the class on the skirmish as Darrell King points to Kansas on the map.

DRIVER EDUCATION - A better understanding of the rules of the road and the psychology of the driver develops through an extensive course in Driver Education. Tests are given at the beginning of the course to examine a person's natural ability to adapt to the conditions of the road. Steve Joy measures Mary Lou Condon's distance perception on a machine especially made for that purpose.

EARTH SCIENCE - Earth science includes the study of the formation of the earth's surface. George Molinski shows Gail Jolley how to classify some of the earth's minerals according to hardness, color and texture.

BIOLOGY - Biology is the science of life. Students enrolled in this course learn through experimenting. They also learn that cleaning the lab is an important safety factor. John Libby and Ralph Townsend are washing their lab equipment after doing an experiment.

CHEMISTRY - Chemistry students learn the structure of atoms, elements, and molecules, thus obtaining the background which is essential for doing laboratory experiments. Future chemists Cathy Pierce and Bruce Dunbar are concentrating on a diffusion experiment.

Which Invites The Inquisitive Mind To

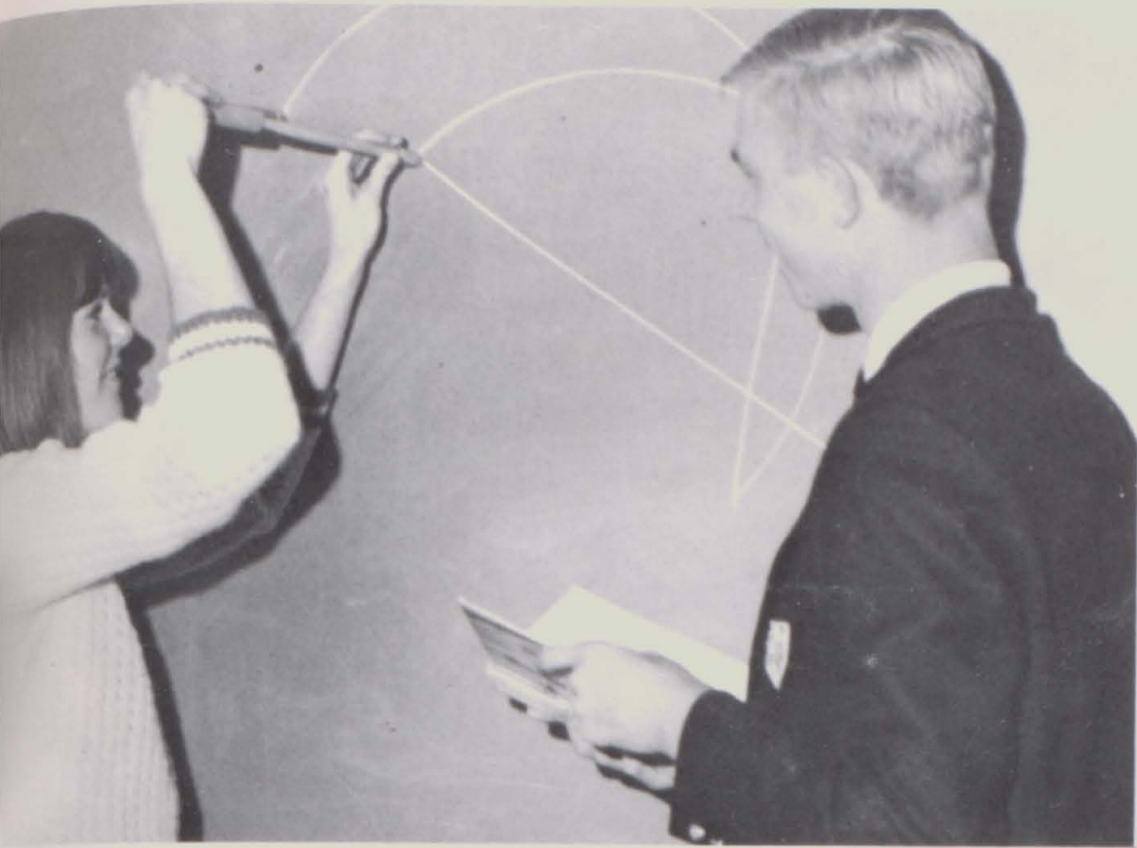

PHYSICS - Physics deals with the relationship between matter and forms of energy such as light, heat, and sound. Ricky Jordan and Stephanie Scanlin use a tuning fork to demonstrate how sound waves travel.

GENERAL MATH - General Math consists of algebraic and mathematical problems. By solving these problems, students learn more concisely. Brenda DeCsereis solves a difficult equation on the blackboard.

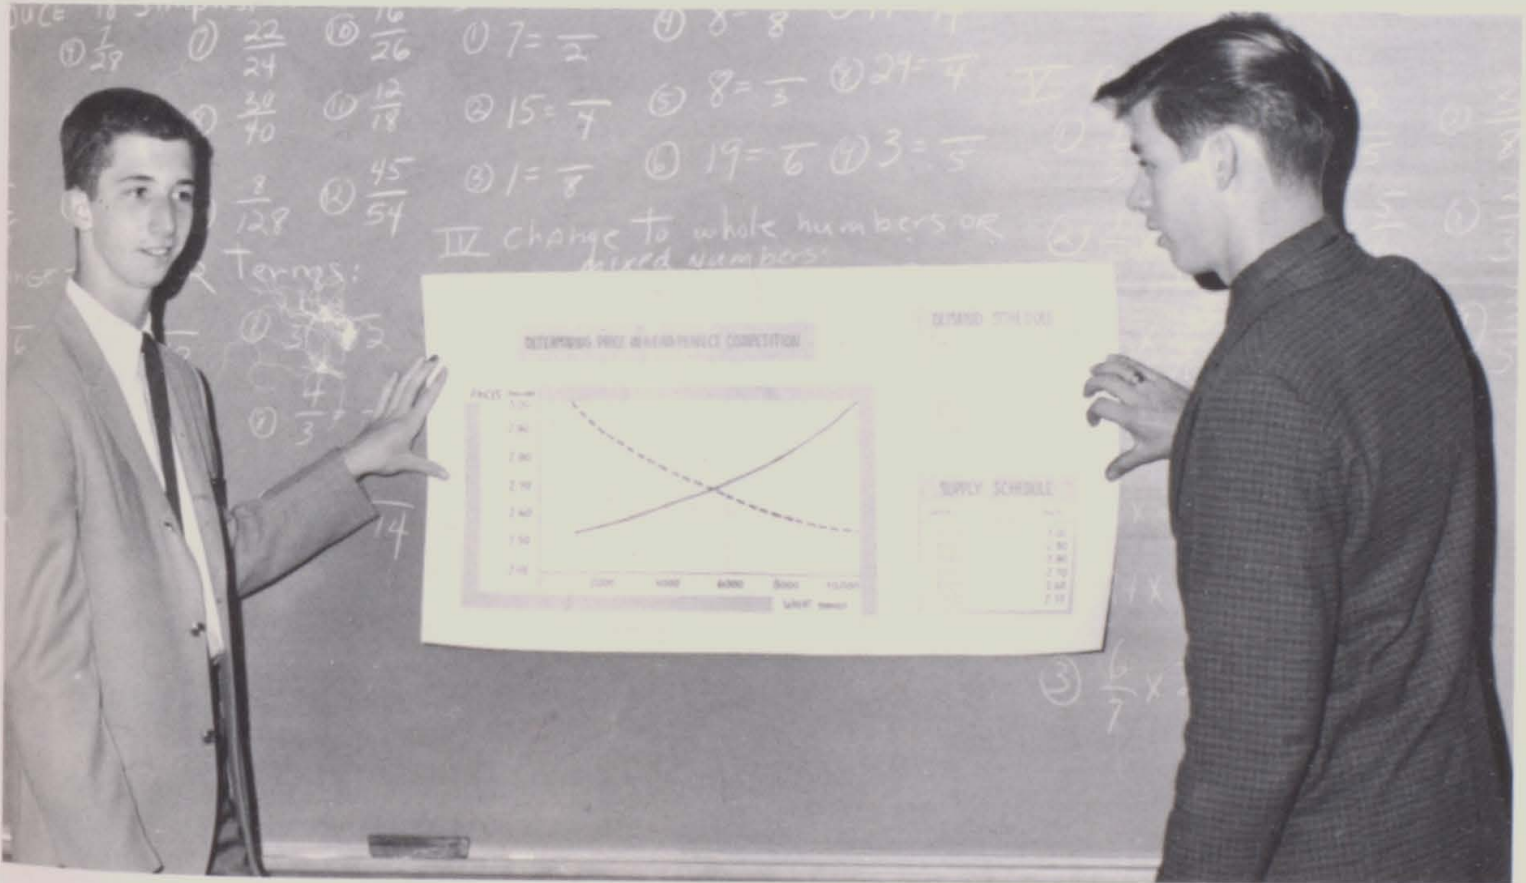

ALGEBRA - In Algebra students learn the basic fundamentals of Algebra and later those of intermediate and advanced algebra. Rideout, Craig Rand, and Robinson are looking at a cone.

Delve Into The Technical World Of Square

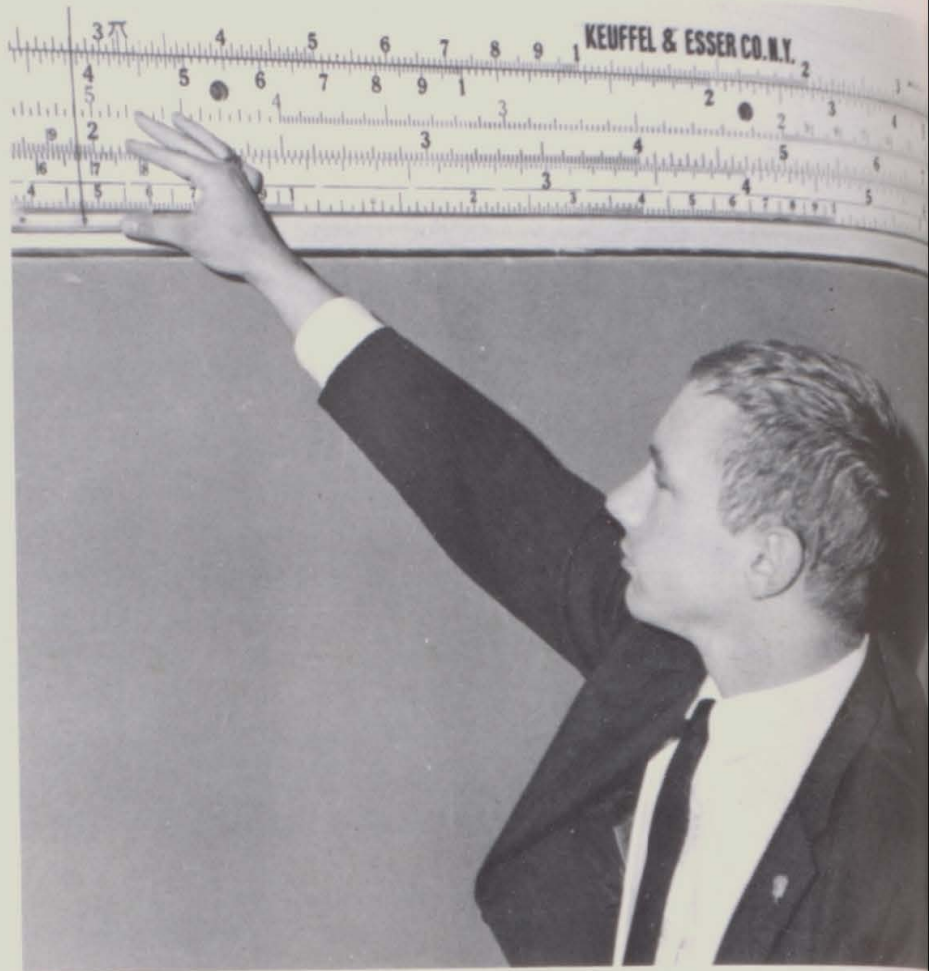

Y - Learning to prove theorems from given facts is one phase of plane geometry, the study of five books of Euclid. Darlene Ford and Fred Danforth are constructing a problem on the chalkboard for the class to solve.

ECONOMICS - In Consumer Economics students discuss the solutions to many problems of everyday life. Dick Norton and Ray Grass are discussing a chart on supply and demand.

Roots, Formulae, And Intricate Experiments.

SLIDE RULE - Once a week during activity period instruction on the use of the slide rule is offered to interested students. James Sawyer is showing the class how to find square roots quickly and easily by using a slide rule.

ADVANCED MATH - Advanced math consists of trigonometry, solid and analytical geometry, and calculus. Susan Tussing and Carol Heilsberg are using knowledge gained from the slide rule class to solve a difficult trig problem.

BOOKKEEPING - Bookkeeping is offered to commercial students in their Junior and Senior years. This course enables students to learn the process of keeping records of business transactions. Kathy Cushing and Lois Greene are setting up a journal.

SHORTHAND - Jackie Carroll and Jane DeRusha are practicing shorthand to acquire accuracy needed to become a proficient stenographer.

APH - As a preparation for future employment, Junior commercial students are taught the operation of the rexograph. Erlene Perkins is instructing Kathy Moore in the operation of this machine.

Stand, Is A Necessity In The World Of Business.

TYPING - One of the most important phases of any commercial education is typing. In this class students learn basic techniques of typing, setting master copies and cutting. Gail Mailman and Diana C. are practicing drills to improve typing speed.

E.B.T. - In Elementary Business Training Freshman students learn many of the elementary business procedures needed in their course of study. Claire Patterson and Nancy P. are practicing writing checks in their notebooks.

FILING - Filing is a twelve-week course given to commercial students. Belinda Trueworthy is helping Linda Verrill with her filing set.

Extracurricular Activities

"I wonder what everyone here does when classes are over," said Linus.

"I found out while you were visiting the classrooms," said Pig Pen. "There are all kinds of clubs, such as Key Club, Se Beowulf, Chess Club, and Photography Club. Sports are very popular, and there are quite a few musical activities."

"Ah, music!" exclaimed Schroeder.

"You think you know so much about music," said Lucy. "I'll give you three names and I'll bet you can't identify any of them: C. G. Neefe, Antonio Salieri, and J. G. Albrechtsberger . . ."

"Those were three of Beethoven's music teachers."

"You drive me crazy!"

"He drives YOU crazy?" shouted Charlie Brown. "You, Lucy Van Pelt, have no sympathy for anyone. During the baseball season I pitched my arm into a sling for our team, and all you did was make sarcastic remarks. The X-Rays revealed separation and fragmentation of the epiphysis of the right medial epicondyle and loss of facial markings about the elbow suggesting hematoma."

"I think the doctor was just trying to tell you in a nice way that you're a lousy pitcher."

"I think it's the only organization at Brewer High School that requires girls to obtain points by participating in various sports, each having a different point value. Miss Hoit told me that fifty points are required for membership."

"What recognition do members get?" asked Lucy.

"At the end of the year the girls receive a certificate or letter of recognition, according to the number of points they have."

"That must give the girls an incentive," said Pig Pen.

Not only that, but since the main purpose of the B-Club is to show that Brewer High School strongly upholds the policies and codes of good sportsmanship, your calm and sportsmanlike conduct on the pitcher's mound certainly qualifies you to give the club some important pointers in that area."

"Oh I fully realize that I have an outstanding record in sports, but I have never been on a Brewer team; consequently, I cannot join the club," said Charlie Brown.

"The Debate Club certainly has high standards," said Violet. "Why, I've heard that to be a member a person must become proficient not only in public speaking but also in learning to think quickly and to come up with an answer to an opponent's question on the spur of the moment. The new adviser, Reginald Merrill, said that a good debater must also be able to express himself so that he will not be misunderstood."

Perhaps The Smooth Running Mechanism Of Chess Club

"Do you play chess, Charlie Brown?" asked Pig Pen.

"Him?" cried Lucy. "Why, he couldn't tell the pawn from the bishop. In chess a person has to concentrate, which is something Charlie Brown simply can't do. I don't think even the experienced members of this Chess Club, many of whom have participated in matches with other schools, could teach Charlie Brown how to play."

"Do you play, Lucy?" asked Pig Pen.

"Don't change the subject."

Tom Hanson and Mr. Dombek observe as Joanne Cassidy and Ralph Foster play over a chess game.

Library Assistants

Susan Hughey, Kathleen Cote, and Brian MacFarland are assisting in the library. Their work consists of issuing and receiving books and signing permits.

"I think one of the most rewarding things a person can do is to devote his free time to helping others," said Linus. "That is exactly what the library assistants do. They help Miss Haskell, the librarian, by mending books, classifying lists, making card catalogs, and checking out and returning books. The experience gained will be a great asset throughout life."

"With all your liability, Charlie Brown, you could use an asset like that," said Lucy.

"You ought to join the Photography Club," said Charlie Brown. "You'd learn all about taking pictures, and even about developing them, because the Photography Club has its own darkroom. Last spring, Bob Shand, one of the members, received an honorable mention in the National Photography Contest, so, you see, you'd be in good hands."

Band

"Where is the music room?" demanded Schroeder. "Let's see if we can find it down this way. I understand the band here at Brewer High is exceptionally well balanced."

"Well, look at me!" cried Lucy. "I'll bet they're no better balanced than I am. I haven't been in the state hospital yet."

"You blockhead! I wasn't referring to their emotional stability. I was referring to the balance . . . but you wouldn't understand. Just keep walking."

"The band has been very active this year, starting with the football season and carrying right through the year," continued Schroeder. "I was at the Veteran's Day Parade when they marched."

"So what else have they done?" asked Lucy.

"They marched in formation at football games, and they played at basketball games and assemblies, too."

"Do they ever sit down?" asked Lucy.

"Of course. February the 17th they had a concert. I hear it was superb. The whole performance was conducted by Mr. Campbell, the band director. There was a fine turnout of the public, too. Susan Tussing played a solo by Mozart."

"Who's Mozart? Didn't he play the piano?"

"Really, Lucy!"

"Well, I don't know quite everything," Schroeder."

"Some kids in the band are very talented. In fact there is a woodwind and clarinet quartet for those students who want to do more music."

Woodwind and Clarinet Quintets

"Hell-o, Snoopy," said Schroeder. "We're on our way to the music room. I've been telling Lucy all about bands, and you missed the first part. I haven't actually told her all about the quintets. You may as well hear the story,

"A quintet is actually an orchestra on a smaller scale," lectured Schroeder. "All the various levels of sound, from flute to bass clarinet are represented. However, because of the smaller number of instruments, much more attention must be given to dynamics.

"Take the Brewer High School Quintets, for example. Although they are composed of band members, they are both a part of and a part from the band. They have performed at various functions this year as two individual groups--at the teacher's banquet, the Dirigo Elementary School (as a part of a Federal program to bring culture to grammar school children), and, of course, at band concerts--and their success has been measurable.

"These are things you should know, Snoopy. It's very educational. Oh well, you're only a dog."

Chorus

"This must be the music room," said Lucy. "Are all those people in the chorus?"

"It's not the football team," commented Schroeder.

"That big group must take a lot of handling."

"I'm sure it does," said Schroeder. "There must be about eighty people in the chorus this year."

"And I can count twenty-two boys!" sighed Lucy.

"I understand they held a concert last March. Listen. Isn't that thrilling? Bach's 'Glory and Honor' is being sung just the way a chorus in Bach's time would have sung it."

"Who's Bach? Is he . . . ?"

"Come on, Lucy. It's getting late."

"May you never darken my door again!" yells Tschubukov as he prepares to strike Lomov, his neighbor.

"Schroeder is always telling me I'm a dog," thought Snoopy. "But even if I am, there are some things I know. For instance, I can tell you about Brewer's one-act play, called Marriage Proposal." I guess it was pretty good, too, because it placed in the top three out of sixteen plays in the area contest, earning the right to go to the Regionals. Someday I'll do great things, too! I'll stand up on the stage and swing my sword and cry out 'Et tu, Brute'."

Lomov stares in disbelief after Natalia proclaims her dog is better than his.

"In court!" shouts Tschubukov, middle, as Lomov threatens to sue his neighbor in a dispute over the meadows. Tschubukov's daughter, Natalia, echoes her father's exclamation.

"How did Brewer's football team do this year?" asked Linus.

"Mr. Hadley's Witches had a successful season, finishing with five wins and four losses," answered Charlie Brown.

"Their first game was on September 11 with Gardiner, and they avenged last season's loss by beating the Tigers 32-12. The player of the day was Laughn Drillen.

"The next week Brewer traveled to Belfast for its first away game, but was disappointed with a 19-13 loss.

"The Witches third game was at Skowhegan, where both teams scored during the first half. Brewer, however, was unable to score in the second half; Showhegan scored twice, ending the game with a score of 21-6."

"Didn't the Witches get discouraged?" asked Sally.

"Oh, no," answered Charlie Brown. "The next game was home with Lawrence of Fairfield, and the Witches were able to come out with a 26-0 victory on touchdowns by Laughn Drillen, Terry Faucett, and Gus Frey.

"On October 16 Madison traveled to Brewer for a hard-fought game which, at the end of the first half, seemed to be going to Madison, the score being 13-7. In the second half, however, Brewer came back and tied the score 13-13. The extra point attempt was successful but the point was nullified because of an offside penalty. The second try was also successful. The winning point was caught between Goodness's knees.

"Fired up by the victory over Madison, Brewer went to Winslow where scores in the second and third quarters led the Witches to a 14-6 victory.

"The following week at Old Town, Brewer fought a mainly defensive battle. The Witches were in top form as they swept to a 20-0 victory over the Indians."

"What was the big game of the season?" asked Linus.

"I'm coming to that. On November 11 the Witches played the John Bapst Crusaders, their arch rivals, under the lights at Brewer. This year was the first year Bapst had beaten Brewer for 13 consecutive years, and the Crusaders were trying their best to make it 2 years in a row. They were able to make only one touchdown, but Brewer couldn't get the ball over the goal line so were defeated 7-0.

On November 11 the Witches traveled across the river for the traditional Veterans Day game against Bangor. The Witches scored the first touchdown, but Bangor came back to tie the score. Several costly fumbles by Brewer enabled the Rams to make two quick touchdowns, defeating the Witches by a score of 19-7.

"Brewer's cross country team had a new coach this year," said Charlie Brown. "His name is Mr. Parker. Although the team didn't have a very successful season, they did beat Bangor and Ellsworth and they gained a great deal of valuable experience. The Witches were led by a number of young runners topped by Ardie Small, who was first in the PVC."

"Did the Witches have a good season in basketball?" asked Lucy.

"The team did fairly well after getting off a slow start," answered Charlie Brown. "Even though Brewer lost two more games than it won, the Witches almost reached the tournament, losing out to John Bapst by .18 of the vote."

"You can't come much closer than that," Linus.

"The first game was against Bucksport," Charlie. "The Witches played well, but were beaten by a score of 75-61."

"After losing the second game to Ellsworth, the number one Class L team, Brewer beat Old Town, but wasn't able to gain a victory."

"On December 17 the Witches went to Fort Fairfield hoping to win their first game, but were again disappointed with a 68-59 loss."

"Brewer then met Stearns on their own court, but weren't able to beat the Miners, undefeated in three seasons."

"The next game, against Presque Isle, was Brewer's first win of the season. In this game Billy Armes scored a total of forty-three points."

"During the Christmas season Brewer participated in a tournament at Windham. By defeating St. Louis of Biddeford, and Mount Desert, the Witches were able to win the tournament."

"The next game of the regular season was a close one, but Bangor defeated Brewer 48-47."

"Stearns played the Witches next at home, defeating them 95-76, but Brewer came back to beat John Bapst 86-73 and Presque Isle 85-74."

"After suffering a defeat in a game with Ellsworth, Brewer gained wins over Rockland and John Bapst."

"The Witches then traveled to Bucksport, hoping for a win which would move them closer to the tournament, but were beaten 51-47."

"On February 8 Brewer played an exciting game with Old Town, winning it in an overtime 68-66."

"The enthusiastic Witches next hosted Fort Fairfield, and avenged their previous loss by defeating The Fort 89-76. Billy Armes scored forty-five points in this game, breaking his previous high of forty-three."

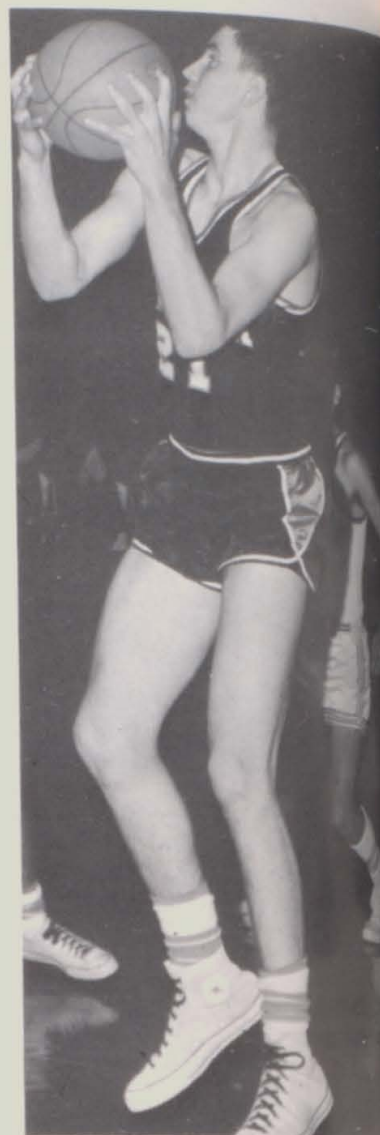

"Brewer's second game with Bangor was a good fight, but the Witches were beaten 85-71."

"Here's the golf team," said Sally. "I once thought I'd like to learn how to play golf, but I can't really see the point in it. Someone hits a little white ball, and tries to get it to go into a little hole. If he's good, he gets a birdie or an eagle, but if he isn't, he gets a bogie. Who ever thought up such a silly game?"

"I don't know whose idea it was, but I do know that it's a popular game," said Charlie. "It's a varsity sport at Brewer now, and the team wound up with a 8-8 record for the season. A senior named Pete Blais did the best; he lost only two matches during the whole season. The coaches, Mr. Hadley and Mr. Trudel, were telling me that Hazen Danforth was third man most of last season, and he should be a good player next season, when most of the team will be returning."

"I still think it's a silly game," said Sally.

Girls' Sports

Each year a tennis tournament is held at Brewer High to select out the most skillful players. Susan Maines and Dale Ouelette won the tournament this year and are shown preparing to volley the ball in a round of tennis.

Olympic Sportsday Entrants

FIRST ROW: L. Soucie, C. Simons, L. Amata, L. Maines, L. Getchell, C. Gilleland. SECOND ROW: D. Cameron, P. Jameson, M. Ames, D. Ouelette, J. Goupee. THIRD ROW: M. Kiah, Miss Hoit, D. Ford, C. Haskell, R. Soucie, P. Brooks.

The second annual Olympic Sportsday was held at the Garland Street in Bangor last May 15. It was sponsored by the BANGOR DAILY NEWS in the interest of girls' sports. One hundred and fifty girls, representing fifty-two schools throughout the state, competed in twelve events, one of which was won by Brewer's Darlene Ford.

Darlene Ford made a spectacular landing, scored second in the broad jump. Later she set the State's high jump record by jumping 4'10".

Before you accept that first job . . .

Look over your employer
as carefully as he does you

What's the Company like anyway? Would I be proud to work there? Reputation for square dealing with employees? Pleasant surroundings?

Will I be working with others my own age? Are they friendly? Do they socialize after hours?

Will the boss be reasonable? Appreciate good, hard work, but won't explode if I make a mistake?

Will I make a decent week's pay? Have a chance for raises, advancement, more responsibility? How about fringe benefits?

Is the work challenging? I had what it takes to get through high school. Will they give me a chance to use my brains?

Note: Many young men and women in this area can answer "Yes" to these questions. They work for New England Telephone Company . . . New England's largest employer.

Why not talk with our employment interviewer soon . . . before you graduate? Ask your Guidance Counselor to tell you when and where to apply.
