Intermediate School Improvement Agenda

Electives Choices

Responsive Classroom: Katie Morrison

When students can't read, we teach.
When they can't subtract, we teach.
When they can't kick a ball, we teach.
When they misbehave, we punish.
Looking at the why behind our students' "thorny" behaviors...

Number Talks: Marc Fogal & Annie Smith

This will be an engaging session designed to help 'new to number talks' staff understand how to implement a number talk within the framework of math workshop. We will demonstrate an actual 10-minute number talk, give some guidance on resources for planning them, and answer questions for how to utilize the SMARTboard to best help with number talks in the classroom.

Engaging with Text Through Questioning: Mary Kraus

Let's Switch Questioning Around - Are you looking for ways to get students to engage with texts? Using questions can be a powerful tool! Explore ways to help students use inner voice to interact deeply with the text.

D108 Resources: Stacey Melloy

Are you curious about what resources the district has provided for instruction? Join us for a quick walkthrough of the Calkin's Units of Study and some Math Solutions materials.

Researchers Workshop: Bridgette Clements & Kiah Snider

Researcher's Workshop dedicates time to teach science, social studies, and language arts in a way that reflects the rich, textured, intriguing nature of these disciplines. The intent is to illuminate the research process with compelling content to spark curiosity in our students through questioning. The gradual release framework helps both students and teachers launch the inquiry process by modeling how we think and become researchers, then slowly releasing students to become independent researchers.

Sensory Processing and the Classroom: Nicole Rodgers & Tiffany Johnson

Join us for exploring the defining features of sensory processing, what it looks like in a classroom/school setting, and ways to help alleviate it from keeping students from learning and classes from being distracted. This session will also give you a few items to walk away with and use in the classroom.

Sounds fabulous! Thanks for the invite, Deb!

Rough agenda draft for Julie and I:

- Check in on data tool
- Pre-letter for CAC presentation
- TLC's (Toughest little cases)
- Sharing ideas on presenting mindfulness to our students

What time would you like us to report?

Erin and Julie,

Please join me and the Literacy Leaders at PFEC, room 14 this Friday, October 11th. I would like to use your expertise during the first part of our meeting. I have a menu of possibilities to offer during the second part of this time, but want to ask for your input first. Please let me know what work (if any) you two need to do together as of this date so I can add it to your District SWIP agenda. Thanks so much!
