

August 18, 2020

Dear Families,

Thank you for your patience as we continue to navigate through the logistics of this online program. We wanted to share information regarding logins, school supplies, Teacher Student Advocates (TSAs) and virtual resources.

Accessing the Program

Student login information was sent earlier this week for the Edmentum platform. We are working to resolve account access issues as they arise. If you haven't already, please login prior to the 24th so we can provide assistance with account access if needed. Please email creekonline@gocreek.org if you have questions about logins.

Role of the Teacher Student Advocate

Building principals are working to assign each student to a Teacher Student Advocate (TSA). The TSAs will be introducing themselves to families and will share information about how they can be reached.

homesupport@gocreek.org

Your student's TSA will monitor student progress and communicate feedback as needed to provide reinforcement or encouragement for online work. The TSA will be supporting your student's learning progress and will share additional virtual resources with students if they are having difficulty with specific skills. Virtual resources to provide additional support to students, such as videos to reteach concepts and virtual manipulatives, will be shared when courses become available.

What to Expect Week 1

Traditional students have a staggered start on Monday and Tuesday where they will receive beginning of the year information and safety protocols. On Wednesday, traditional students will begin receiving course specific instruction. For the virtual students, Monday and/or Tuesday will be spent completing the orientation module and getting familiar with the digital platform. We encourage you to use these days to develop a schedule, workspace, and generate excitement for the new school year. Student course load will be available in Edmentum on Wednesday, August 26, 2020, allowing students to begin their academic coursework.
