

SHOWING OUR APPRECIATION

WANTED:

- tough decision maker
- late nights
- good communication skills
- zero pay

If you looked in the want ads and found this job description, how many of you would apply? Our school board did!

These are people who receive no pay for their dedicated efforts, and not only volunteer but go through the process of standing up for public education.

These public servants donate their time and talents to ensure that the children of GISD have the best schools we can provide. These people sit through meetings, read detailed reports, listen to parents' concerns, and do the hard work to benefit the students and the community at large. And make no mistake about it, the whole community benefits from good schools.

Each January, we pause in our regular activities to say thank you to these dedicated volunteers. We appreciate their generous sharing of time and energy on behalf of our children. The GISD school board members are truly heroes for our schools.

GISD campuses, in a combined effort, teamed up at the board meeting in January to show our board members what superheroes they really are. They were given bags, boxes and baskets of goodies collected through the classrooms and faculty. They were thanked personally by each campus principal, and entertained by the GHS Chamber Choir. The Miller family cooked an awesome meal in their honor.

We truly appreciate all they do for our district. Gunter wouldn't have the outstanding reputation we have without their continued efforts.

Thank You!

S'MORE FUN!

Mrs. Pelzel's 3rd grade class is studying about economics. In order for them to understand the assembly line, they were "put to work" producing a popular snack. Each student had a special job and they worked together on an assembly line to create a delicious s'more to enjoy together! Success never tasted so good!

With help from friends
the work gets done.
Together is better
and a lot more fun!

The Big Idea this month is cooperation. Cooperation means working together to do more than you can do alone. We are fortunate to be with lots of friends each day here at school.

Losing a tooth in Mrs. Driskill's class is always exciting; everyone celebrates!

WALK LIKE AN EGYPTIAN

GES Discovery students recently learned a lot about Egypt. They each picked a topic about Ancient Egypt and did some research. In four different computer sessions, they collected information and pictures. Some topics they covered included mummification, the Nile River, Hieroglyphics, and the Great Pyramids. After their research was complete, they each created a visual aide and presented their findings to the group. I'm not sure they discovered how to actually ... "walk like an Egyptian" :)

GMS Gifted & Talented Students Lend Helping Hand

As part of a class service project, 11 gifted and talented students traveled to Sherman to lend a hand to the Grand Central Station warehouse. Their task was to open and sort boxes of food.

Mrs. Bullard learned about Grand Central Station through her church and how they needed volunteers. The students learned that the rewards of helping others weren't only received by those who are on the receiving end, but the "givers" also were rewarded with a sense of well being. They learned that it doesn't take a lot to help others, and if people work together, much can get done.

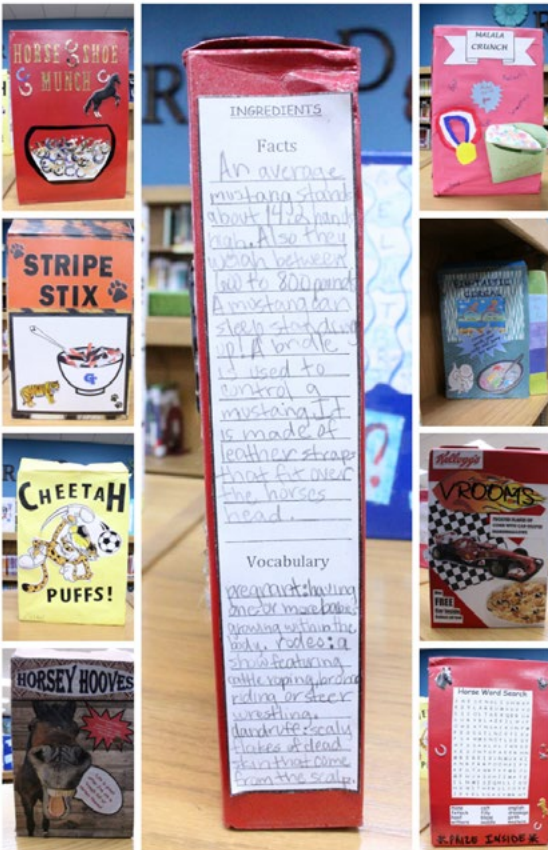

All the food donated to the warehouse is used for the GCS dining car lunches and Children's Express meals. This program prepares food for students who qualify for the free and reduced lunch program, and provides meals when school is not in session.

Learning to give back is a lesson worth teaching. Thank you, Mrs. Bullard, for showing our students the importance of helping others.

5th graders have fun learning with cereal

After reading a non-fiction book in Mrs. Schroeter's reading class, 5th graders had to create a cereal box that was based on the book they read. The box had to depict the story that was read, and had to include: facts, vocabulary, a game, a review of the book, and a prize. The boxes were great!

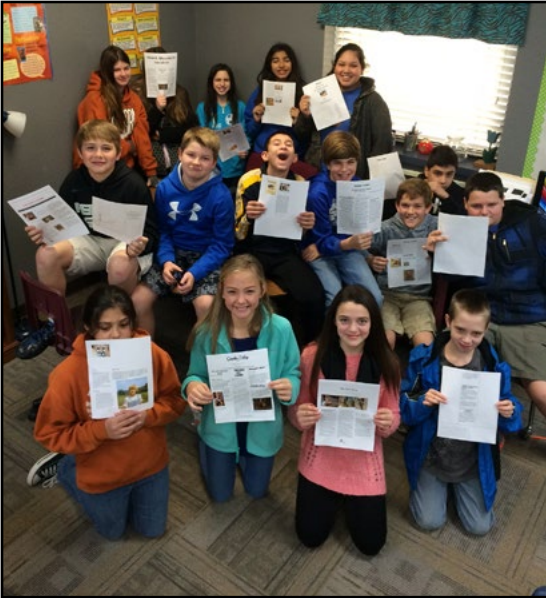

Mrs. Bon's science students used cereal and coffee to learn about sedimentary rocks and fossil fuel formation.

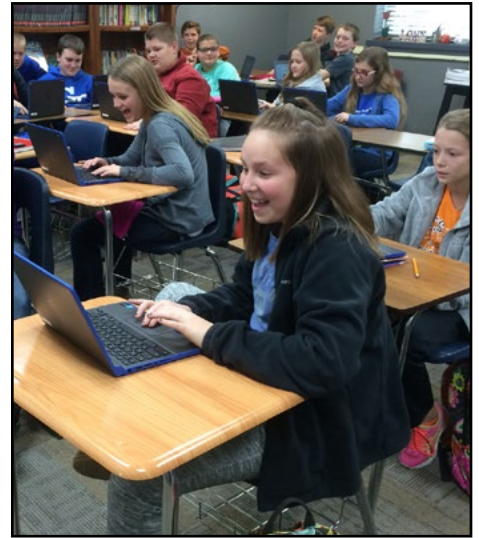

Coffee grounds mixed with cereal simulate coal which is a fossil fuel. Other crushed up cereals will model the foundation of rocks. Another layer of crushed cereal will simulate sand. Layered together in a clear plastic cup, the students can see what happens to the layers when pressure is placed on it. Genius!

Reading, Writing & Reporting

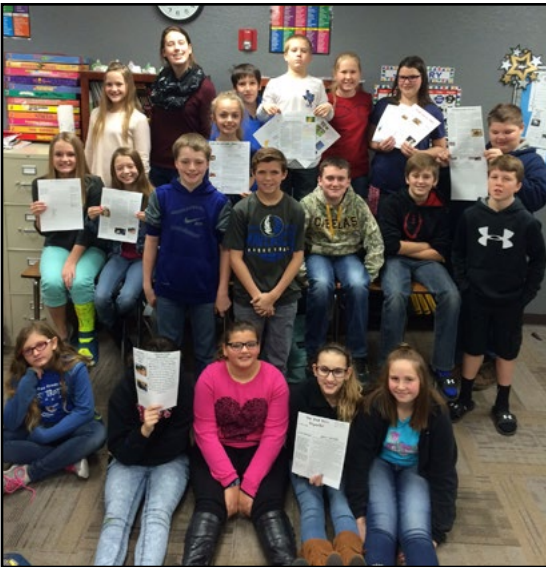

by Landon Pelfrey, 6th grade

Have you ever dreamed of being a writer for a newspaper? Well, neither had I. Mrs. Morrison, my 6th grade English teacher, assigned us the challenge of making a newspaper based off of the book Where the Red Fern Grows. I thought the project would be hard, but as long as your group members did their part, it was actually not that hard.

We were assigned to groups of three to four students. We all had to work together to complete all of the tasks assigned to the newspaper. Some of the articles we had to include were a lead story, character profile, advice column, and a book review. We also were able to choose from some optional ideas such as an obituary, wanted ad, weather section, and advertisements. The only real hard parts were writing the lead story and making the pictures and stories fit in the space. The pictures were pretty tough to fit in since you had to take a lot of steps to get them. Even though they were tough, they were the best part of the project. It gave us a new appreciation for everything that goes into publishing newspapers and newsletters. The assignment was really not that bad and was even a little bit of fun.

This was definitely one of the best projects we have done so far this year. I was lucky and had a good group who worked well together and worked really hard. This project was pretty fun, and I hope that Mrs. Morrison will assign us another project like this.

Another great example of how students and teachers are putting our Chromebooks to good use!

Students worked together using Google Drive to complete their projects.

Collaboration is a skill that will come in handy throughout their lives.

Great job on the newsletters :)

On September 11th, eleven middle school students gathered in the middle school cafeteria to compete in the 2nd Annual GMS Spelling Bee. It was a tough battle for the first place spot, taking 22 rounds before 8th grader Erin Robertson spelled the championship word to take 1st place. 5th grader, Gray McDowell was the runner up. His performance was outstanding!

On Wednesday, February 3rd, Erin and Gray will go to the Grayson County Spelling Bee which is held at Grayson College. Erin will compete against the champions from the other participating schools in our county. The winner of this spelling bee will then travel to the Dallas Morning News Regional Spelling Bee which will be held on March 26. The Regional champion will represent the 38-county Dallas Region at the National Spelling Bee in Washington DC.

Good Luck Erin! We know you will "bee" terrific!

Paris' Pawsitive Pals

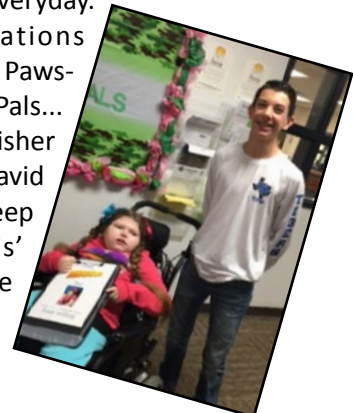

"Paris' Paws-itive Pals Army"! This army is inspired by Paris Crosby, a student at Gunter Middle School, who teaches everyone she meets to smile in the face of adversity. Paris experienced a stroke before she was born that affected her ability to walk, eat, and talk

Gunter Middle School is excited to enlist recruits for its "Paris' Paws-itive Pals Army"! This army is inspired by Paris Crosby, a student at Gunter Middle School, who teaches everyone she meets to smile in the face of adversity. Paris experienced a stroke before she was born that affected her ability to walk, eat, and talk but she still has a smile that lights a room. Each week 2 students are selected to be "Paris' Paws-itive Pal" based on demonstrating qualities such as thoughtfulness, kindness, trustworthiness, and friendliness. Paris presents the awardees with their certificate and they take their picture together, which is then proudly displayed on the bulletin board. The goal is to have an entire army of kids that know how to interact and will take the time to get to know children with special needs such as Paris. In return, Paris' message to kids and all of us is that everyone matters, everyone has a purpose, and no matter how hard life gets...there's something to smile about everyday. Congratulations to the first Paws-itive Pals... Malison Fisher and David Denton. Keep Smilin' Paris' Paws-itive Pals!

February GHS Student of the Month

by Chris Dodd, Principal

Our Class of 2016 is making choices that will set the foundation for the rest of their lives. The decision of “where do I go now” is never an easy decision and for some the process of selecting their choice for further education began many years ago.

Jake Whitteker is the son of two Canadian immigrants who relocated to the Metroplex. Jake was born in Plano. He is a “first generation American/proud Texan” and indicated so on his applications to our Nation’s esteemed military academies.

The “process” started in Mrs. English’s class during his 8th grade year. A “sailor” that served in the Navy visited as part of the careers curriculum. “I knew I didn’t want a desk job – trapped in the corporate world – trying to provide for a family but limited in options,” Jake recalled.

“I also knew I wanted to do something impactful, something challenging.”

Jake set his sights on the Naval Academy. His father Greg bought him a book about what it took to get in; to get an “appointment”.

“It was over 300 pages and it laid it all out there for you,” Jake explains. “There was no question I wanted in.”

Later on Jake would meet someone with ties to the Air Force and suggested they check out Colorado Springs. “I hate to say it was about ‘location’ but I am a ‘mountain’ guy having Canadian roots. I was hooked.”

During Jake’s 10th grade year he met with a liaison officer from Prosper that was a former Academy grad. The meeting would seal Jake’s fate. “He gave me a reason to do things that were not popular; strive for the best grades possible, do more activities and do them well, just ‘try’ harder because that’s what it took to get that opportunity.” Jake’s long term goal would have short term results. Jake’s GPA rose and so did his class rank in to the top ten percent. He went from role player, to special teams contributor, to starter, to all-district player on the football field. Jake attended RYLA camp and found new direction as a “leader”. Instead of just going to school, Jake found ways to make the school better.

His junior year he applied to Summer Seminar, a summer program at the Air force Academy for prospective candidates. An opportunity to attend the prestigious Academy prep event would greatly boost his opportunity for an “appointment”. He was denied. “Initially I was crushed but just for that moment. I saw it as another obstacle but not a closed door.”

Jake applied for “pre-screening” which is annually solicited by over 20,000 US students. Less than 10,000 are deemed “eligible” for further review. The exhausting application process includes numerous essays, evaluations from school personnel, letters of recommendation, a physical, documented transcripts demonstrating success, and hopefully an interview. Most students never complete the application due to the rigor. “I took the ACT six times in order to get the ‘average’ score needed for consideration,” Jake recalls. “I met with a tutor weekly. I took the test every time they offered it for two years.”

The application wasn’t the hard part. A “candidate” must also receive a nomination from our Congressman’s office or from one of our two United States Senators. Each district can nominate two candidates. Only thirty seniors per year are reviewed as applicants for each district. Hundreds, and in our region thousands, apply.

“Somehow I got an interview. It was the day of the Waskom game (playoffs). I had 15 minutes.” The panel comprised of former Academy graduates pepper candidates with a number of questions requiring rapid-fire responses. Jake had sought the help of Peggy McKee, a local resident with students in Gunter. Mrs. McKee is an author and specializes in assisting people with public relations, advancement in career, and achieving personal goals. “I was prepared. Mrs. McKee had me ready. I didn’t even have to think. I just responded with confidence.”

Several weeks later Jake would receive word that he had secured a “nomination” to the United States Air Force Academy, the Merchant Marine Academy, and the United States Military Academy at West Point (Army).

Half way there.

“I was considering every military academy in the United States. I was looking at ROTC options with colleges. I was spending an hour a day filling out applications and seeking recommendations. There were no guarantees I could get in to an Academy even with a nomination.”

December 31st was the first break through. The Merchant Marine Academy in King’s Point, New York wanted him. He had secured an “appointment.” Jake now had a strong option.

Three weeks later the call would come. “I got a call that went to voicemail and I immediately called it back because I didn’t recognize the number.” It was Congressman John Ratcliffe. “I couldn’t believe he was calling me in person. You rarely get to talk to or meet the Congressmen or Senators. Their staff people handle everything.” Congressman Ratcliffe told Jake the Superintendent of West Point wanted him. Jake had impressed the review committee. Congressman Ratcliffe wanted to meet in person soon.

“West Point, man...the history. To think you can go walk the same path of the greatest leaders that shaped this Nation. And be with other guys like you...better than you. People who will push you,” Jake pondered. “Humbling”

Congressman Ratcliffe made a surprise visit to Gunter on January 28 and on that special occasion explained to Jake it was more than just making good grades. “The things that got you to this point can’t be graded. It is something deeper.” “Jake you were not just a solid candidate,” Congressman Ratcliffe would admit. “You were the #1 applicant coming out of reviews, and that is why I am here today.”

It all started with a Navy veteran visiting an 8th grade teacher’s classroom, impressing a boy with two Canadian parents, in small town Gunter, Texas. What a country.

And that is why Jake Whitteker is the Gunter High School February Student of the Month.

Congressman Ratcliffe Honors Senior, Ryan McHone

Being called to the office isn’t always a good thing, but in Ryan’s case, it was. He was not aware that when he walked into the conference room at GHS that he would be greeted by Congressman Ratcliffe.

The US Congressman made the special trip to honor two of our outstanding seniors, and Ryan was one of them. In the October issue of The Tiger Times, we highlighted Ryan for an act of bravery. He and his mother came upon a vehicle that was in an accident, and on fire. Ryan jumped into action to free the passenger by cutting the seatbelt that was holding him in the vehicle. He pulled the victim to safety and kept him alert until emergency vehicles arrived.

Congressman Ratcliffe presented Ryan with the Lone Star Award. He has only given two of these awards, and Ryan is the 2nd. Congratulations, Ryan, and thank you for your service to the community. Ryan plans to continue to serve his country in the military after graduation.

Meet Our Mathematicians!

Three members of the UIL Math Team traveled to Flower Mound High School on January 9th for a Practice Meet. For two of the three contestants, it is their first year on the Math Team and the first time competing along with other schools. Not only were we in a huge facility that would hold five or more of our building, we were one of only two schools below 4A classification. Our goal for attending the meet was experience and that was certainly the case. We will be attending a few more of these practice meets prior to the UIL District Academic Competition on April 6th at S&S High School. With each experience, the team members become more comfortable with the testing environment and adhering to all of the contest rules.

The Math Team members are Chris Jackson, Sr., Josh Potapov, Sr., Taylor Smith, Jr., Alyssa Smith, Jr., and Cameryn Warren, Jr. They compete in Number Sense, Mathematics, and Calculator Applications and are coached by Leslie Hindman. We are looking for new members for next year as we will be losing our two seniors. If you are interested, come see Mrs. Hindman at the high school, and for the 8th graders, see Mrs. Miller at the middle school.

In Memory of Dennis Bostick

You have probably seen him on the field many times standing behind the line marker. Dennis Bostick gave many years of service to the GHS athletic department running the chains on the sideline and helping out in the field house, but his service didn't stop there. He could also be found in the parking lot before the game helping elderly citizens get to their seats via the golf cart. He simply had a servant's heart. He began his journey in 1991 and continued to run the chains until the middle of the 2014 season. When he no longer could run the chains, you could still find him on the sideline / end zone cheering the team on.

Dennis made a lasting impression on the coaching staff and students, and his memory will not be forgotten. This is evident in the statements below.

"I can remember Dennis from when I participated in the football program here at Gunter. My teammates and I all called him "Our biggest fan." We really didn't know his name we just called him that for the longest time. His support for the program has meant a lot to many generations of football players that have played for Gunter."

~ Daniel Castorena

Dennis Bostick is one of the most pure hearted men I know. He had a heart of gold and loved our kids here in Gunter. He was behind the kids and coaches 100% of the time. He served and helped in whatever capacity he could and was truly a great example for our young people. I never knew anyone to say anything negative about Dennis because there was nothing negative to say. He will be missed greatly by many here in Gunter.

~ Jake Fieszel

Dennis was a tremendous asset to the football program. And he was without a doubt, our biggest fan. He was at every game as well as every scrimmage. From running the chains to helping count plays at scrimmages, Dennis was always there for the football program. The memories of Dennis that I will always remember are the post-game locker room celebrations. Dennis loved the wins just as much, if not more than the players and coaches. It was always a very enjoyable experience to be around Dennis after a big win. There is no doubt that he will be missed. However, Dennis will always be a Gunter Tiger.

~ Charlie Roten

Angel on the Sideline

Always there, rain or shine,
Ready for the game.
Next year's football sideline
Just won't be the same.

His tasks were endless.
He worked for the team.
Whatever needed "doing"
Was done with a gleam.

When the lights come back up
In the fall of '16
The chains will still move
But he won't be seen.

He will be there,
Just look for a sign.
In a breeze or a shadow
You'll find him...
... an Angel on the sideline.
