Why Google Classroom?

Assign classwork

Educators can create assignments and add in all the necessary documents for students to work on. Students receive an email notification when there is a new assignment and are able to turn the assignment in on Classroom. Classroom sends a notification out to students once the homework is graded, so students can review grades and feedback.

Share all relevant classroom materials

Within Classroom, educators can share learning resources, reading materials, videos, links, and handouts. This allows students to refer to them at any time, or collaborate with their classmates on learning.

Integrate with other apps and content

Students have access to thousands of educational apps that spark creativity and create endless opportunities for learning.

Make announcements

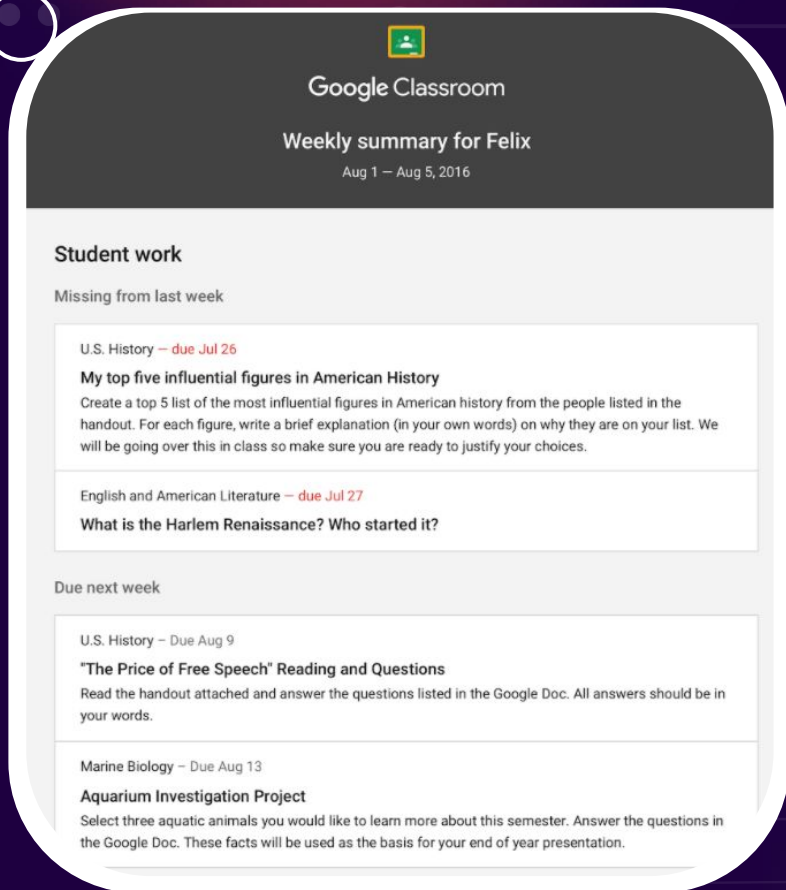

Educators can send announcements to the whole class, which students receive via email. They also see these announcements when they log in to Classroom, through a web browser or Classroom's mobile app, available on iOS and Android.

Collaborate one-on-one or with the entire class

Students can message educators directly with questions and/or comments on assignments and announcements. Students can also collaborate with each other for team assignments by working on shared projects in Docs, Sheets, and Slides at the same time.

Google Classroom

In email summaries, you can review:

- Missing work—Work not turned in when the summary was sent.
- Upcoming work—Work that's due today and tomorrow (for daily emails) or that's due in the upcoming week (for weekly emails).
- Class activities—Announcements, assignments, and questions recently posted by teachers.
- If there's no activity to report or if a teacher turns off email notifications, you might not get an email summary.
