

STUDENTS INVOLVED IN PUBLIC ACTIVITY
USE OF STUDENTS

The strongest link of communications with parents, and one of the most fertile public relations areas, is the student in the classroom. Since failure to provide students with information leads frequently to misinformation, it shall be the responsibility of the administration to see that information regarding school activities and programs of school organizations is properly disseminated through the students to the parents.

The use of letters and bulletins carried by students to their parents is encouraged. Care should be exercised, however, that such use of students shall be limited to information about the school system, a particular school, or the school district.

Student groups shall not be used for commercial purposes unless such purposes are a direct financial benefit to the school district. Such purposes must be conducted in accordance with state regulations and board policies.
