

HARRISON COUNTY SCHOOLS

The Harrison County School District has been made aware of a social media post circulating the Internet. The post references a threat to a "Harrison High" but gives no information regarding the location be it city, county or state. There are multiple Harrison Highs across the country, and we are taking the precaution to consider ourselves as one of the potential locations. In late October, a similar post circulated social media in other states.

The post circulating today has been turned over to law enforcement for investigation. The Cynthiana Police Department, Harrison County Sheriff's Department, and Kentucky State Police are working to determine the source of this information. While this may be something as simple as disinformation shared on social media, the school district holds the safety of our students and staff as our number one responsibility. The next few days you can expect to see an increased presence of law enforcement on our campus as we want to ensure all students, staff and community that our schools are as safe as humanly possible. We will continue to work with our law enforcement partners to investigate and respond to this situation. Anyone found responsible for such actions will be held accountable and prosecuted to the full extent of the law.
