Hays Catholic College Defeats Newton and Emporia High Schools —Into Semi-Finals

Scores of Hays Catholic College team in state tournament games at Winfield last Friday and Saturday:

- First game—
Hays 17, Newton 15.
Second game—
Hays 19, Emporia 16.
Third game—
Hays 16, Topeka 29.
Fourth game—
Hays 17, Wyandotte 29.

The Hays Catholic College didn't win the state class "A" tournament at Winfield last Thursday and Friday but the shortgrass quintet certainly threw a fullsize scare into its opponents and in vanquishing the strong Newton basketball team with a "surprise attack," the Hays Collegians put what many critics declared was the best team entered out of the running in the first round. Newton later came back and fairly swamped all its opposition to annex premier honors in the consolation thus giving some color to the contention that it was the "class of the tournament" despite the loss to Hays.

The Catholic five was doped to finish its play soon after starting; it is even said plans had been made by the Hays players for their immediate return home at the close of the initial affray so formidable did the opposition appear while Newton, confident of a walk-away victory, had engaged Pullman berths for the trip to Chicago where it expected to cut some capers in the national tourney. Well, Hays, of course, stayed on and before the smallest basketball outfit present was finally subdued by Topeka, an invited team by the way, two of the foremost high school basketball aggregations of Kansas had been swept from the tournament by them, namely, the aforementioned Newtonians and the much feared Emporia quintet.

A straight shot "down the alley" from Clem Werth to Tony Wiesner was the wonder play that upset both Newton and Emporia in the opinion of Hays rooters who went with the boys. This seemingly impossible pass shot for the basket scored enough points to decide the pair of hard-fought games that kept Hays in the "win" column. Werth's tremendous speed which he acquired with a full-arm swing that shoots the big ball as straight and true as Walter Johnson would throw a baseball, comes too fast for intervening men to stop unless they know the play and are "set" for it. It worked often enough to get the necessary points for Hays that spelled victory. Later, Topeka, learning something by watchful waiting on the sidelines, planned a defense against this thick shot that landed the oval in Wiesner's hands to be pushed over the basket and as a result Hays didn't score via the surprise route against the capital

TEAM BANQUETED

On Tuesday, March 20, The Lions Club of Hays entertained the basketball boys at twelve o'clock luncheon at the Brunswick Hotel. The team had a very enjoyable time and wish to express their appreciation to the Lions Club.

Dr. and Mrs. O. A. Hinnerich gave a six o'clock turkey dinner to the H. C. C. basketball team Thursday evening, March 22. Everyone had a delightful time and enjoyed a pleasant evening. The boys extend hearty gratitude to Dr. and Mrs. Hinnerich for the good time shown them and for the deep interest taken in the team throughout the entire season.

SEVEN MEN EARN LETTER

At a meeting of the basketball squad held Monday, March 19, in the Assembly Hall, Coach Lewman Lane recommended to the faculty the names of the seven basketball players who are eligible to receive a letter. Following this the letter men voted for a captain of the team for 1929. Wiesner was elected by a unanimous vote.

The letter men are: Captain C. Werth, Captain elect, A. Wiesner, I. Werth, A. Giebler, R. Kaberlein, A. Roth, V. Stanton.

H. C. C. ALUMNI PLAY

"The Confession," To Be Staged April 15 and 16

On the program of the "Proscribed Hair," staged by the students some time ago appeared the advertisement "The H. C. C. Alumni Association will stage a play. What? When?"

Here is the answer: The H. C. C. Alumni Association will stage the play, "The Confession," on Sunday and Monday, April 15 and 16, at the College Auditorium.

The play is a rather serious drama lightened, however, with sparkling bits of Irish humor. It will undoubtedly hold the interest and attention of the audience from the start, gradually increasing in tension until the climax is reached at the drop of the last curtain. There is a thread of tender pathos throughout that enhances the action and heightens the interest.

The cast will be made up of experienced local talent among the Alumni and their friends, and with the able management of those in charge, it promises to be one of the most successful stage presentations of the season.

Following is the cast:

Rose Creighton, Tom's sweetheart Vera Basgall
Mrs. Mary Bartlett, Tom's mother Ida Wasinger
Michael Grogan, a sexton Ott Weigel
Patsey Moran, a hunch-backed boy Henry Drees
Thomas Bartlett, brother of Fr. Bartlett Richard Dreiling
Rev. J. J. Bartlett, parish priest Bernard J. Roth
Joseph Dumont, a French Canadian John M. Kinderknecht
Andrew Strong, a detective Jack Drees
Frank Gordon, a clerk of the Court Paulinus E. Dreiling
John Peabody, Judge of the Court A. A. Herman
J. Coburn, a turnkey P. E. Dreiling
E. P. Dustin, prosecuting attorney Geo. Gottschalk
C. B. Blackburn, attorney-at-law Wm. Toepfer
"The Confession" is a royalty play and will be produced by special arrangement with Samuel French of New York.

THE STAFF CHANGES

It is with some trepidation that the incoming members of the Journal Staff enter upon their duties as the older and more experienced officials step out of the positions that they have so ably filled.

As yet we have not become accustomed to the editorial duties and we fear that for the time at least, we shall not measure up to the high standard our predecessors left us. However with the assistance and advice of the former Staff members, we shall endeavor to keep the good work going.

The loss of Forrest Barker from the editorial position, is keenly felt by the remaining members of the Staff. His versatility of composition has contributed largely to the success of the Journal. Although George Luettens is retained as Reporter for the Senior Class, his absence will be felt since his able pen will be missed on the editorial page.

We scarcely know how to get along without our efficient Advertising Manager, John C. Grabbe. John's untiring efforts in the ad soliciting line have made him almost indispensable. For every issue, it was John Grabbe who brought in the ads, seemingly never discouraged by repeated refusals, and always working untiringly in the interests of the Journal.

But this is the way of all Seniors, they must allow their mantles to descend on their successors as graduation time approaches.

Although the new staff does not presume to suppose that they can improve on the work of their more experienced predecessors; still they do humbly hope to attain in some measure at least, to the success of those who have trodden the way before them. —O. Franklin Editor.

SAINT PATRICK

On March 17, we celebrate the feast of St. Patrick, the Apostle of Ireland.

Many countries have their own particular saint, but nowhere is any saint held in such deep veneration as is St. Patrick in Ireland. When the day comes in Ireland for "Wearin' o' the green," there is universal joy and merrymaking throughout the Emerald Isle, and the "Auld Sod" rings again with the praises of their favorite saint.

Among loyal Irish people abroad the memory of St. Patrick is one of the ties that binds the true Irish hearts to their homeland.

Centuries have passed since the Good Saint roamed the hills of Killarney, but the influence of his holy life is still felt undiminished by the ages that have come and gone.

It is said of him that he had founded more than 360 churches and baptized at least 12,000 persons by his own hand. How great must have been the zeal of this humble man to have charged the lives of a nation of people; to raise them from the abysmal darkness of barbarism into the glorious light of Christianity!

It is said of him that during his life he worked many miracles, but to us it would seem that the greatest miracle of all is that of the far-reaching influence of his blameless life and glorious example.

THE BRIGHTER SIDE OF LENT

Many people seem to have the wrong conception of the season of Lent. To them it is essentially a time of gloom and long faces. True, it is a time of meditation and reflection, penance, prayer and fasting, but these do not exemplify the true Lenten spirit.

When we stop to consider just what is commemorated at this time, and when we recall that the glorious history of the Redemption is revealed to us, then we are filled with a mingled feeling of sublime awe, religious veneration, and heartfelt gratitude to our Divine Savior.

We ought to keep the fasts and observe the penances of this season out of respect to Our Lord for his infinite goodness to us. Not, however as though it were unjustly demanded of us, but we should consider it a rare privilege to be allowed to perform such little sacrifices as a thank-offering for all Our Lord has done for mankind.

People seemingly fail to realize that true joy and satisfaction is not to be found in pursuit of earthly pleasures and pastimes. The saints were the most happy of mortals, and they probably suffered greater hardships than we shall ever dream of enduring. What, then, is the secret of their unflinching good nature and quiet joy throughout their lives?

The answer is easy. They had found TRUE joy and perfect satisfaction. Their spirits were untouched by the cares of everyday life because each one knew in the depth of his soul that his life and work was pleasing to God. It was not easy for the saints, but they were wise; they found the source of all joy.

It may be hard, at times perhaps even seem useless, to continue in the little self-denial that Christ and the Church ask of us, but after all, there is no one who will ever have to regret anything done for Christ's honor and glory. In perfect obedience to Christ's divine will we always find true contentment and perfect happiness.

—O. F., '29.

Our Patron Saint

The Patron of our College is St. Joseph, the head of the Holy Family. His feast is celebrated by the Church on the 19th of March. In St. Joseph we have a Patron who is considered outstanding among the Saints. His life was a representation of the noblest of virtues, for he was obedient to God, humble in his life, chaste in all things, and a kind and loving foster-father to the Son of God.

The life of St. Joseph records nothing surprising or different from the lives of ordinary men. He was an humble carpenter of Nazareth, earning a living for his Holy Spouse and her Divine Son in an unassuming and honest way. And yet, our Lord, Jesus Christ, was dutifully subject to him in all things. This was to teach humanity the lesson of obedience.

St. Joseph has been declared the protector of the Universal Church on account of his watchfulness over the Holy Family. In one respect, he was favored by all men in this, that he had the privilege and honor of dying in the arms of Jesus and Mary. Thus he is the patron of the dying. We should often pray to him for the grace of a happy death. He is the model of purity and chastity, and hence we should all emulate him.

A LOSS AND A GAIN

After several years of faithful and efficient service, Fr. Florence has retired from the management of the College Journal. Under his able supervision the Journal has improved a great deal and the staff members have enjoyed the benefits of his knowledge of journalism. He is now in charge of the College printing shop, known as the Friary Press, and with his work on the St. Joseph Bulletin, his schedule is just a little too heavy to devote the necessary time to the Journal. The editors extend their sincere thanks to Fr. Florence for his deep interest in the Journal and for the good work he has accomplished on the college paper.

To fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Fr. Florence, our energetic Prefect, Fr. Dennis, has kindly consented to take over the active management of the Journal. With the staff reorganized, and a number of new ideas put into practice we have high hopes for the continued success of the H. C. C. Journal.

SPRING IS COMING

The season of Spring is here. The signs of the arrival of spring are present everywhere. The snow and ice of winter have melted before the gently southern zephyrs and the north winds have lost their biting chill. Omens of awakening life in the grasses are present, and small tender buds are beginning to appear.

In the classroom too, the gentle touch of Spring is felt. Students are beginning to allow their eyes to wander from their books and gaze dreamily at the landscape through the windows. An intense desire to be outdoors is felt, and other symptoms of the proverbial "hook worm" may be observed.

The usual spring poetic urge has attacked a few, but we know from sad experience that it is destined to die a natural death in the burning rays of the summer sun.

Children grow up, TAOINNNMIL and die, but spring will always continue to be novel and interesting, and will ever be considered the most beautiful season of the year.

JUNIOR NOTES

February 23 was a hard luck day for the Juniors; all except Oscar Vogel. Here is the sick list of the Juniors on that date.

Tuff Spies, sick in bed.
 Fred Wiesner, sick in bed.
 Alfred Giebler, sick in bed.
 Oliver Franklin, sick in bed.
 Leo Roth, sick in bed.
 Tony Wiesner has a bad cold, but is too stubborn to go to bed.
 Joe Schueler has a cold, but still is able to wiggle.

Dick Brull has a cold in the right eye, but still is good enough to read baseball stories.

That makes eight out of the nine Juniors.

In a class discussion of Jesse James recently, Oscar Vogel told us his grandfather once shod the horse of the famous outlaw who was being pursued by a posse. As soon as the horse was shod, Jesse James mounted, and tossing Mr. Vogel a five dollar bill, rode quickly away. The posse rode up to the shop soon after and informed him that the man whose horse he had just shod was Jesse James. The outlaw had left his riding whip in the shop, and this was kept for a long time by the Vogel family.

Frankie Stroemel beat Oliver Franklin in pinochle, sixty-six, dominoes, checkers and handball. But now Franklin is in his glee because he can beat Stroemel on the tip-off in basketball. Franklin is a little short fellow six feet tall and Stroemel is a big tall chap four feet and two inches high.

When our classmate, Giebler, was down at St. Mary's for the tournament, he entered a restaurant and ordered two bowls of soup.

A team-mate asked: "What's the idea, Giebler?"

"One is for myself," was the reply, "and the other for my vest."

Which goes to show that perhaps the boys were a little nervous, after all.

When you talk about loud voices, Dick Brull takes the cake. Last week at the tournament Dick's voice was heard above all the others. He broke a few ear drums, but aside from that the tournament was a great success.

When Russell drew a "bye" in the basketball tournament some of the boys didn't know what the word meant. So some one asked Tuff Spies: "What do they mean by the word 'bye'? Is it a town or what?"

"Tuff: 'Bye' is a town up north. The place has a good basketball team and I'm afraid they'll beat Russell."

Albert Spies has become a boarder at the College for a few weeks. We think he will like it so well that he will decide to stay.

Freshman: "Spies has come to the dormitory and brought two dumbbells with him."

Vogel: "What Two more Freshies? Why, we have too many now."

Freshman: "Awe, they're iron dumbbells."

Giebler knows the names of 193 favorite movie stars. He claims that is more than anyone else in the school can name. Come on, you fellows of the other classes. Try and beat that Junior.

Tony Wiesner scored 40 points in two games in the recent tournament.

Prof.: "Satan is more clever than man."

Student: "He ought to be, he has about 6000 years more experience."

Two Juniors made the trip to St. Mary's. They were Tony Wiesner and Alfred Giebler. They also made the trip to Winfield.

While the Coach was at St. Mary's the class had to write a 400 word essay on "The Cause of the Revolution." It was not so easy to write such a paper. But we had to do something to keep us out of mischief.

Tony Wiesner gets a silver medal in typewriting. He wrote 42 words a minute with only three mistakes. Congratulations, Tony.

The HISTORY of HAYS CATHOLIC COLLEGE

THE REV. MATTHEW PEKARI, O. M. CAP., M. A.
 (To appear serially in the H. C. C. Journal)

CHAPTER VI.

THE BOARDING-SCHOOL

The school, that opened September 12, 1910, had changed its character completely. Founded to be exclusively a day-school it now became primarily a boarding-school. Only those students whose parents, brothers or sisters, lived in Hays were permitted to live outside the College. The number of professors had been increased from six to eight by the appointment of Fathers Stephan, Edmund and Didacus. (Father Bernard had been forced to retire because of ill health.) Later in the year Capt. Gordon Mullen, U. S. A., joined the staff to take charge of the bookkeeping department. The number of boys registered climbed to eighty-four, a number that augured well for the future of the boarding-school.

A new departure was made this year by the opening of a Business Night-School for the accommodation of those who could not attend the classes during the day. An evening class in commercial branches was conducted by the commercial teachers of the College, giving all persons an excellent opportunity to acquaint themselves with business methods. Branches taught were Twentieth Century Bookkeeping, Business Arithmetic, Business Correspondence, Spelling, Business Practice, Penmanship, etc. The full course could be completed in ten months, but an energetic student could complete the studies in a shorter time. The instructions were wholly individual, so that one student was not held back because of the others, and the time of completion depended entirely upon the application of the individual, not of the class.

In this school persons of all conditions in life, irrespective of creed, were accepted as students. The instructions were all individual and so no intermingling was permitted. The first year the night-school carried a register of sixteen young men. Of these three, viz.: John A. Keiner, Peter A. Basgall and Aloysius A. Beilman, were graduated in June, 1911. In a town the size of Hays a night-school of this sort gradually outlives its usefulness and so the Business Night-School gradually sank into the discard after several years of genuine service.

The year 1911 also saw four young men complete the commercial course at the College and receive their diplomas. The four graduates were Charles C. Staab, Fred W. Arnold, Maurice M. Zeigler and Aloysius J. Pfannenstiel. The students of the classical course were still plodding onward with three years separating the first class from graduation.

With the opening of the boarding-school the authorities at the College assumed the obligation of caring for the health of the boys under their charge. The occupation of a student is of a sedentary nature, and therefore bodily exercise becomes an absolute necessity if the boy is not to grow up a misfit. The saying, "A sound mind in a sound body," has always been one of the basic principles of sound pedagogy. A day-school need not have such extensive playgrounds as does a boarding-school for after school hours a day-scholar will go home and not return until the next session. Having been built as a day-school, the College was not equipped with extensive playgrounds in its immediate vicinity. The space for play around the building was very limited,—to use a boyish expression, "it was hardly large enough in which to swing a cat." A tract of land west of town was obtained from J. H. Ward in the early days of the College. This tract has remained the College Athletic Field, and has seen many a contest in which teams representing the College or the City defended their laurels against the invader. Here the boys found ample space in which to romp without fear of shattering windows and breaking furniture or trying the patience of the neighbors. The College was always in sympathy with good, clean athletics in as far as they do not draw the student away from the domain of literature and science. Special time was set aside for athletics, to guard against the wasting of talents and the stifling of enthusiasm for higher aspirations. Baseball, handball, basketball, football and soccer kept the athletes busy and the ensuing years saw first the H. C. C. and later the H. C. A. battle for athletic honors on the diamond and gridiron.

For the indoor sports, however, the space was not so easily obtained. There are bound to be times when the weather forbids outdoor exercise, and then if there is no indoor space for play, there is no telling what the boys will do next. The following excerpt from the "Hays College Progress," (Vol. 1, No. 1, pp. 9-10) will give the reader a good idea of the manner in which the boys spent their free time indoors:

"During the winter season when the outside athletics are not much appreciated, abundant indoor sports were at the service of our aspiring youths. The boxing gloves, which, through the kindness of Emery Catudel were brought to supply those who wished some day to tackle Jack Johnson or some other well versed boxer, are certainly well patronized by all.

"Come up to the College corridors some evening from six to seven (o'clock) if you don't believe that the Indian clubs are extensively used. You will have the hardest time to get through the corridor; and if you are not cautious, the Hospital might be patronized—and not the Shoe Hospital, either.

"Some of the other famous indoor sports and games are pool, checkers, 'Jack and the Bean Stalk' and Parcheesi".

The foregoing gives us an adequate idea of the manner in which the boys spent their evening free time. Incidentally, it also gives us an insight into the crowded conditions with which the young institution had to contend as long as it shared the same building with the Parochial School. This condition was relieved somewhat when the grades were moved to their present quarters on Fort Street.

The opening of the College as a boarding-school was the beginning of its success. With the opening of the scholastic year 1911-1912, a full staff of ten professors was in attendance. This number has remained constant during the last seventeen years. The number of students fluctuated and depended chiefly on the condition of the crops and the resultant harvests.

city boys. This coupled with the further fact Hays, a team of midgets compared to most of the other teams in the play, short of substitutes of first-string calibre, didn't have the endurance to keep up the killing pace. Hays was fairly smothered in the first half with the team play apparently demoralized. Fatigue, Hays adherents said, was accountable for this slowing down. In the last period however, the home boys regained both their speed and their range of the basket and held their opponents creditably.

Against Wyandotte high school of Kansas City—Well, there was less to fight for and the boys were tired—tired. Hays rooters will contend that in this last encounter which gave them fourth place in the ranking of the tournament, the home quintet could have triumphed if the genuine will to conquer had been there as it was in the first two games.

It is specially worthy of note that two Hays players, Werth and Wiesner, received honorable mention for places on the all-Kansas five.

NOTES

(By Mrs. Lewman Lane)

We left Hays at 12:30 Wednesday. Eight players were taking the trip: C. Werth, I. Werth, Tony Wiesner, Vic Starton, A. Giebler, R. Keberlein, H. Mackey and A. Brucher. The boys were accompanied by Dr. Jameson, Dr. and Mrs. Betthausser, "Heinie" Herbig, Coach and Mrs. Lane.

East of LaCrosse we encountered muddy roads, which made the trip very tiresome and nerve-racking. Two cars finding it even necessary to caress the ditches. Dr. Jameson saw fit to occupy one of those said ditches for three hours, arriving in Wichita at 1:20 Thursday morning, while the other two cars were more than willing to pass the night in Hutchinson.

Continuing the ride Thursday, we reached Winfield at 3:30 p. m., and were directed to the Bretton Hotel, at which place the team and fans were "quartered" during the tournament.

Although the tournament began Thursday evening, the Hays boys were put to bed, due to their strenuous ride. The next morning at 11 o'clock a cock, over-confident, condescending team, otherwise known as the Newton players, strutted onto the floor, and such size! To the Hays fans it seemed only a matter of how large the score would be. As one paper stated the largest Hays boy was smaller than the smallest Newton boy, and how true.

Then the small Hays boys entered the "arena" with a look of determination on their faces that would have shamed a martyr and those boys played basketball,—and HOW! The Newton boys, although crack long shots had decided not to exert themselves and would just tip the ball in under the basket, but they didn't reckon on the scrap Hays would give them.

Well, we came out on the long end of a 17-15 score. The crowd simply went wild—jumped down and patted the small Hays boys on the back and pandemonium reigned for a few minutes. Here let it be said that the Winfield crowd was with our boys all the way, encouraging whether we lost or won. Winfield was happy. First, because we eliminated the strong Newton five doped to meet Winfield in the finals, secondly because there is bitter rivalry between Newton and Winfield, and, third, because a very small team did the unexpected.

Friday night, Hays met Emporia at 10 o'clock. A nice looking big team, although not as large as Newton. Another close, strenuous contest, but Hays kept their own, emerging again on the long end of a 19-16 score.

However, the strain of a third tournament in as many weeks; the affects of a hazardous ride and the overtaxing of their strength against two of the largest and best teams in the state, was telling on the boys, and before the Topeka game they remarked, "If only we had a few more hours to rest; we are simply exhausted." Topeka had played two easy games and had kept their first team fresh, while our same five had used every ounce of their best, in those two hard struggles.

But in both the Topeka and Kansas City games they made a brave fight and deserve all the credit that can possibly be given them.

When message after message came from the loyal Hays supporters the boys and their coach were filled with boundless gratitude and pride, and as each wire was read a more determined look came over the faces of the boys and, now that it is all over, the boys say that before the games they encouraged each other by saying: "Everyone in Hays is for us; we've got to do it for them." And they did as long as their endurance lasted.

We left Winfield at 7 a. m., Sunday. Reached Salina by auto and were forced to take the train. Upon arriving in Hays at 8:15 we were met by the student body and loyal fans.

We want to thank the loyal townspeople for their wonderful moral and financial support; we wish also to thank the drivers who were so splendid and uncomplaining; also Dr. Jameson and Heirie Herbig who acted as chauffeurs and trainers and who quieted the nerves of the coach with bloody bridge fights.

SENIOR CLASS NOTES

Professor Weigel thinks that trains 169 and 170, or the "plugs" ought to stop running, because they do not have business enough to pay for the conductor's chewing tobacco.

Edmund Gerstner has been awarded a Remington silver pin for typewriting at the rate of 40 words per minute with 2 errors.

Frankie Stroemel makes a lot of noise during the day, but most of it is broadcast when he sleeps.

English Prof.: What is a vulgarism?

A. Ruder: It is an expression often used, but not "good to taste."

Oscar gave us a little demonstration of his strength the other day. He couldn't even lick a one half cent stamp.

Some Freshman made the remark that a certain Senior has broken more windows than any other student. Well, that is not saying anything favorable to the Freshmer. When they have been here four years instead of two-thirds of a year they may count up and compare figures.

Mr. Louis Christensen had charge of the Economics class during the absence of Prof. Weigel, who attended the basketball tournament at St. Mary's. The class knew their lessons quite well, which was probably due to the size and stature of Mr. Christensen.

Charlie: What are the last three hairs in a dog's tail called?

Eddie: Well, truthfully, Charlie, I don't know. You tell me.

Charlie: Why, dog hairs, of course.

CRACK! CRACK!

Boys Boys! have you ever had anybody crack your neck or your back? If you have, you know what the basket-ball squad went through the time they were all laid up.

Coach Lane did the "cracking" up in the dormitory and one could hear the Ah's. and Oh's! all over the building. The boys seemed to like it because they all went back for more. The team seemed well and able to go again the night of the game. Much obliged, Coach. Come again.

The class "A" game was between two of the Union Pacific League teams, Quinter and Hay Catholic A. The Hays team won by a 2 to 1 tally. The Catholic team played a beautiful game, scoring almost at will. They represent a well coached team and attend solely to the business of playing basketball. They are good sportsmen. The League is glad to have such a team among its members.—Ellis Review-Headlight.

CATHOLIC COLLEGE WINS TOURNAMENT

QUINTER IS SWAMPED IN THE FINALS HERE SATURDAY

Coach "Lew" Lane's Protoges Prove Their Championship Calibre by Winning Finals in Class "A" —On to Winfield Next

Displaying remarkable court technique Coach "Lew" Lane's Hays Catholic Academy quintet won the class "A" title of the Hays state high school elimination basketball tournament last Saturday night by defeating Quinter 45 to 20.

From a position at the top of the Union Pacific League the Hays Catholic five swept through their division of the tournament held in the Coliseum last Friday and Saturday to earn entry to the state meet at Winfield this week-end. At Winfield the Lanemen are paired in the first round with Newton, the fast Railroaders who took second place in the Arkansas Valley league this season.

Eleven teams started the grind for the class "A" district title last Friday. They were Beloit, Hays High School, Hays Catholic Academy, Gove, Hoisington, LaCrosse, Oakley, Pawnee Rock, Russell, Quinter and Wakeeney.

The Hays Catholics reached the finals after drawing a first round bye when Larned failed to show up for the meet Friday and consequently had to forfeit. This threw the Catholics into a second round game with Pawnee Rock Friday evening, which was won by the Catholics decidedly, 40 to 20. Going directly into the semi-finals with Russell who had eliminated Oakley for the privilege the Catholics met their fiercest opponent Saturday afternoon.

An indication of the opposition offered by Coach Ben Wood's Russellites is the score at the half in that game when Russell was leading 8 to 6. In the second half some long shots by Geibler and the offensive attacks of C. Werth finally won out for the Lanemen 21 to 17.

Then it was in the final game of the two-day tournament that the Catholics presented their court ability. Before a large crowd in the Coliseum Saturday night Coach Lane's men went into action against Quinter who had fought a difficult way for the right to play in the finals.

Thus when the Hays Catholics faced Quinter, well known Union Pacific league rivals who rested near the bottom of the season's standing, it was yet doubtful what might be the outcome. But a few minutes early in the game sufficed to demonstrate the real strength of the Lanemen. Before Quinter was able to tally a score the Catholics rolled up 14 points.

Weisner's height at center together with his uncanny ability to hook baskets set up the Catholics on the offensive play throughout. Coupled with the attack of the guards, C. Werth and Stanton, the forwards I. Werth and Geibler had no trouble in rolling up their shares of counters to put a proper finish to the tournament play.

With all the exhibition of play presented by the Catholics they were kept at the peak by the constant threat of Quinter, who made every effort to gain a title chance in the game. It was a much better game, in other words, than the score would indicate.

H. C. A. Defeats Pawnee Rock

The H. C. A. five defeated the Pawnee Rock high school team in the second round of the district tournament at Hays K. S. T. C. coliseum by a score of 40 to 20. The game was a closely fought one until the fourth quarter, when the Hays boys started to sink baskets from all angles. The score at the end of the half was 12 to 9 with H. C. A. leading. The systematic passing and team work in general evoked many favorable comments from the sport critics. Weisner was the high score man with 21 points to his credit, and his success in scoring was due in large measure to the consistent playing of the Werth boys.

Wins in Semi-Finals
The strong Russell High team, with whom we had split two games earlier in the season went down to defeat at the hands of the H. C. A. five by a score of 21 to 17. In the opinion of many this game was the most closely fought contest in the tournament. After the first quarter neither team had at any time what might be considered a safe lead. The score at the half was 8 to 6 with Russell leading. Weisner, Hays center, was guarded very closely, as were I. Werth and C. Werth. With but a few minutes of play remaining and the score tied 17-17, Giebler shot two pretty baskets that won the game for H. C. A. The Russell mentor did not know of the shooting ability of Giebler until in the latter part of the game. A few seconds after Giebler's last basket the game ended. I. Werth was high score man with 9 points to his credit. The H. C. A. boys all played well.

A Good Samaritan

The H. C. C. extends sentiments of sincere gratitude and appreciation to Dr. Hennrich for his interest in the basketball squad during the Hays Tournament. We feel that it is due largely to his attention that the team survived the fatigue and injuries incurred during the Tournament, and made such remarkable come-back after Russell game.

When the boys were bruised, sore-muscled, and exhausted Dr. Hennrich appeared on the scene to administer to them, bandaging and easing the players until they were in tip-top condition.

The team played a remarkable game against Quinter, but that was because the Coach and Dr. Hennrich worked the players over before the game and gave them attention between the halves. Dr. Hennrich was with Coach Lane during the entire final game in order to meet any emergency that might arise.

The faculty and student body of H. C. C. take this opportunity to express their heartiest thanks and appreciation to Dr. Hennrich.

THE H. C. C. BASKETEERS

Some men are born great; some become great through their own efforts; others achieve greatness and fame by playing basketball under the guidance of an excellent coach. Under the last classification come our far-famed basketeers. Clean living, hard work, and splendid coaching are the explanation of the fourteen games won and two lost; winners of first place in the Union Pacific League, and champions of the Hays District elimination tournament. A lot could be said of the individual stars, of the outstanding team work, of the total number of points scored and the low scores to which the opponents were held, but that is the work of our statistician. Let us be concerned here only with a few general observations. The team enjoyed a very successful season. They were losers twice, once to Ellis and once to Russell. At that, they were only beaten by two and one points, respectively. Both games were hotly contested.

And such battles as these basketeers furnished for the spectators! Fit for gods to feast their eyes on! Clean, clever and thrilling throughout. It might have been well said of all opposing teams: "All hope abandon ye that enter here."

The H. C. C. squad has gone to Winfield, where they shall represent this district in the state tournament.

Seldom is it the good fortune of a school to be represented by so willing, clean, modest and efficient a squad of athletes, plus such sterling coaching as they received. May Coach Lane be with us for a long time to help us on the map of athletics. —Contributed.

CATHOLICS WIN FROM ELLIS

H. C. A. Noses Out An 18-13 Score In Last Home Game

The H. C. A. quintet defeated the Ellis five 18 to 13 Tuesday February 21 at Hays. The H. C. A. boys were off their usual form due to four of the regular five players just recovering from illness. The Hays boys started strongly playing good offensive ball the first quarter and thereby piling up an 8 point lead. In the second quarter they went to the defensive. During this quarter captain C. Werth was injured and forced to leave the game, being replaced by Giebler. The score at the end of the first half was 10-7 in favor of Hays. At the start of the second half captain Werth was again in the line-up with Giebler, replacing Stanton at Guard. The H. C. A. boys came back strong playing an offensive game most of the second half. Urie of Ellis seemed to have trouble finding the basket.

Nicholson and Fuller performed well for the victors. The H. C. A. boys all played well. The high score man was I. Werth of Hays with 7 points to his credit. This was the last home game for the H. C. A. They have only two more league games on their schedule, Ellis at Ellis, and Quinter at Quinter. H. C. A. is now leading the league with 5 wins and 1 loss. Hays High is in second place having 4 wins and 1 loss.

Hays Lost to Ellis

The H. C. A. quintet was defeated by the Ellis High team, 20-22, in a hard fought game. Hays had a comfortable lead at the end of the first half, but the Ellis boys came back in the second half and displayed an altogether different brand of basketball. In the second half it was a nip and tuck battle, with neither side having much of a margin at any time. With the score tied at 18-all and scarcely two minutes to go, Giebler of Hays made a dandy basket. But that wasn't enough. The next minute Urie of Ellis hooped a basket which tied the score, and a second later he dropped in another which won the game. The game was well played throughout.

Wins from Quinter

In a hotly contested game, the H. C. A. five defeated the Quinter quintet at Quinter, Tuesday, February 28. Hays started the scoring when Weisner, stellar Hays center, sank a nice basket. Quinter tied the score when they shot a field goal, and from then until the last quarter, when Hays forged ahead, it was an evenly fought game with the score at the end of the first quarter 9-8 in favor of Hays. At the end of the half the score was Hays 13 and Quinter 12; at the end of the third quarter it was 17-16 in favor of H. C. A.

The Hays boys, with the exception of Weisner, seemed to have difficulty in locating the basket. Weisner was high score player with 21 points to his credit. He played a very aggressive game. Practically every time he would shoot it would mean a basket for Hays. Wylie of Quinter also played a nice game.

ing an extra three-minute period necessary to play off the tie. St. Benedicts scored three points in this period and won a real basketball game. Weisner, stellar center for Hays, was guarded very closely, but at that he performed well. All the Hays boys fought furiously during the entire game and had the ball in their possession four-fifths of the time, but they seemed to have difficulty locating the basket. Coach O'Rourke of St. Mary's complimented the H. C. A. team very highly; and many of the spectators remarked that it was the best high school basketball game they had seen.

H. C. A. defeated the St. Paul's high school 42-12, in the consolation. In this game the H. C. A. boys were off form until in the last quarter when they found themselves and piled up a large score.

The squad is deeply indebted to Coach Lane's father and mother for the warm hospitality which they received while in St. Mary's. The Bushy family are also the beneficiaries of the team's effusive thanks.

The H. C. A. basketball team are champions of the Union Pacific League. Hays High and H. C. A. tied in the number of games won and lost, but earlier in the season the coaches of the two Hays schools agreed that in the event their teams should tie for first place the school having most points scored against their opponents would win the trophy. H. C. A. had 202 points to their opponents' 120, while the Hays High had scored 201 points against their opponents' 162.

Members of the H. C. A. five have been placed on three "all tournament" mythical fives. At St. Marys where the State tournament for Catholic high schools was held, March 2 and 3, I. Werth, H. C. A. forward, was given a berth on the first "all tournament" team.

At Hays where the district high school tournament was held the 9th

At Winfield where the State tournament was held on March 16 and 17, Captain C. Werth received honorable mention as a guard, and captain-elect A. Wiesner as center. It is without doubt that if H. C. A. had won in the semi-finals these two players would have made the first "All State Five."

BOYS ENJOY "RUB-DOWNS"

Coach Lane's basketeers were layed up with the "flu" a few days prior to the Ellis game. The boys just had to get well in a hurry for they were indispensable for the Ellis contest. What was to be done? The Coach solved his own problem. He being a staunch believer in osteopathy summoned the team to his home Wednesday afternoon—two days before the game—and got to work on their aching bones and muscles.

The boys arrived about 2:15 and just for the proper psychological setting the new osteopath took his proteges for a short imaginary flight over his own College days and athletic experiences. He then took the boys, one by one, into his private office to "crack" their backs, as the boys put it, while the rest played bridge with Mrs. Lane until their fatal turn arrived.

After being refreshed by the rub-downs the Coach gave the boys a few pointers in the game "Twenty-One." A luncheon prepared and served by Mrs. Lane followed. The boys enjoyed the eats very much and ate to their hearts content. Ask Clem and Tony, they know.

After the luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Lane entertained the boys with several musical numbers. The songs were enjoyed immensely. The Lanes were kept busy satisfying the likes of the different members of the of the squad.

Time passed very rapidly and was not noticed by anyone save the Coach, who after having sung himself tired, suggested that the boys go to practice.

Every member of the squad thanks Mr. and Mrs. Lane for the wonderful time they had and the boys all extend a special vote of thanks to Mrs. Lane for the good eats.

Joe: Bill, what do you think would be the best thing to do in a dry season in order to keep cows from starving?

Bill: I think the best thing to do would be to have the cows wear green goggles, which would make the dry grass look fresh.

FRESHMAN JOLTS

Anton Wassinger was in the Hospital from the 18th to the 21st of February.

The lost is found. Schulte came back to us after a two weeks absence. He possesses three carbuncles.

Mackey, the freshman basketball player, made the trip to Winfield.

Coach gave us a theme to write on "America's Good Will Flier. Everyone is unearthing old magazines and papers.

All the freshmen are hoarse from yelling for our team at the tournament.

Vincent Temaast is thinking seriously of entering the oratorical contest.

Peay and Koch made a trip home over the tenth and eleventh. Koch has been home-sick for months.

The Freshies are helping to make a tennis court on the campus.

Wassinger has a newly made part in his hair. Where did it come from, Wassinger?

Roy Eaton is high-hatting us. He never got below the one hundred mark in Religion.

Among us there are some pretty tough freshies, for instance, Johnny Robben, who sprained Froelich's ankle. The Sophomores aren't too big.

Quite a few of the boys wanted to kiss Schulte on his return, but "sister" does not approve of petting.

All freshies who are Irish celebrated on March 17.

Every one is looking forward to the fourth of April.

Many of the freshies were disappointed because it snowed and they could not go home.

Among the Freshman class there is only one tennis player but we will wager that he can beat Schlyer or Basgall.

Bill Start was absent two days during the month. He claims he was sick.

Prof. Weigel has offered a reward to anyone who sees Huser sitting still during Agriculture class.

When some of the boys went over to congratulate Fr. Gregory on his name-day, you can rest assured that the Freshies did not remain at home.

The Freshies expect to pick a team to represent them in the inter-class basketball tournament.

One morning Coach asked Palen to give the nine parts of speech. Palen gave eight but could not think of the ninth one. We do not blame him.

A few of the freshmen intend to go out for baseball.

The religion Class is trying hard to make an average of ninety percent. So that they will not have to take the finals.

There is only one thing that the Freshies do not possess and that is the record for breaking windows.. The record is held by John Grabbe, a Senior.

AMONG THE FACULTY

The director, Rev. Father Justin made a business trip to Topeka and also attended the tournament at St. Marys.

While Father Julius of Ellis was away on business Father Florence substituted for him at Ellis on Sundays.

The pastor at Gorham, Kansas, Rev. Charles Weber is in the hospital at Salina. Father Herbert supplied for him on several Sundays.

The feast of St. Joseph, Patron of the College, was solemnly celebrated. Father Justin was celebrant of the Solemn High Mass assisted by Father Florence as deacon and Father Dennis as sub-deacon. Father Camillus acted as master of ceremonies. In the evening Father Alfred held the solemn services with Father Herbert as deacon and Father Cletus as sub-deacon. Father Camillus again was master of ceremonies. Father Florence preached at both the morning and evening service.

Father Camillus and Father Florence attended the funeral of Mr. James Walsh at Collyer.

Father Richard accompanied the team to Winfield.

Under the direction of Father Dennis the tennis court was put into fine shape. He boasts that it is the best tennis court in Ellis county if not in the State.

At the banquet given the Traveling Men Friday, March 23 Father Alfred and Prof. Weigel represented the College and were asked to address the gathering. Father Alfred spoke on the future of St. Joseph College and Prof. Weigel on the part of Hays Catholic College.

The following has been contributed: "Prof. Lane is busy providing space in his home for letters and messages of congratulations received during and since the tournament. He is also practicing his fine old hearty smile which he had lost during some of the close tournament games. Mrs. Lane tells us that he has almost stopped talking during his sleep, a disturbing habit acquired during the St. Mary's games and kept up until after his homecoming from Winfield. We understand, according to good authority, that he even has made inquiry as to the whereabouts of the "deck". We have an idea that the coach professor will soon be "Lew" again.

SOPHOMORE STUFF

The term examinations were held two weeks ago. We all thought our grades were at least fair, but it seems our professors disagree with us.

Harold Logan went to sleep one day during geometry period and on awakening started to sing, "Sweetly Sings the Donkey."

Father Camillus substituted for Father Richard in English during the Winfield basketball tournament.

Boucher, a member of the basketball squad and a sophomore, had the privilege of attending the basketball tournaments at St. Mary's and Winfield.

Three members of the sophomore class have the opportunity of entering the oratory contest. They are Tony Schlyer, Lucius Schmidt and Hilary Weigel. Good luck to you, boys!

Tony Schlyer is the busiest man on the College campus. He is building a tennis court on the campus, but the rain and snow have held up his work.

Arthur Froelich was in Wichita last week for eye treatment. When he returned he was confined to his bed on account of a sprained ankle. This was due to some rough treatment by a freshie.

Ed Schmidt was absent from his classes several days last week. He claims he had a real headache.

Fisher: "I wonder how old Father Dennis is."

Schmidt: "Quite old I imagine, as he taught Ceasar."

Virgil Basgall is so bright this year we have decided to call him "Sunshine." This is a result of his love for "sunshine biscuits."

Whenever we have a geometry test we have our ponies saddled and ready to go. But when we start riding the thing balks, then we have a different tale to tell.

Ott Kreutzer was missing from school a few days last week. He also missed his music lesson. Ott says he is up to the "chromatic" scale.

R. Keberlien and V. Stanton, our two regular (sophomores) on the basketball squad, went to St. Mary's to play in the tournament and also went to the state tournament at Winfield on March 14.

Our class is well represented in all activities of the school.
