TO THE FAITH Through SMC

Bob Thomas

Bob Thomas is a member of Holy Cross Catholic Church in Overland Park, KS. He and his wife, Karen (Wilbert '62) Thomas, were married at Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church in Pittsburg, KS in 1966.

During the summer of 1962, Bob played for a local American Legion baseball team. On the team were three players, Jim King ('62), Frank Cujkati ('62), and Marshall Lenne ('63), who attended St. Mary's High School. "Our team would travel to other cities for weekend games. Every Sunday morning, these three players would get up early and go to mass at a nearby Catholic church." Bob said.

Bob was impressed with the example and dedication these three showed for their faith. Bob then began attending mass with them when they were out of town for baseball games.

Bob enrolled at Kansas State College (KSC), now Pittsburg State University in the fall of 1962. One afternoon, Bob went to the church rectory where a priest answered the door. Bob told the priest he would like to join the Catholic church. They then discussed what needed to be done to become a member of the church.

Bob returned to his apartment and told his roommates what he had done. Much to his surprise, and without discussion, one of his roommates asked if he could go with Bob to his first session with the priest. On occasion, Bob will remind his three children and six grandchildren that they can be thankful for St. Mary's High School, Jim, Frank, and Marshall, that they are members of their current Catholic parishes.

Cody Spencer

My journey to the Catholic Faith began with an introduction of St. Mary's Colgan schools.

I remember my first day around campus which involved an interview and a campus tour. I was met with a strong sense that St. Mary's Colgan was a very special place and I loved how community centric the culture felt. This welcoming community led to my decision to accept my first role at St. Mary's Colgan High School as the athletic director in the Spring of 2020. When I accepted the position, I was not set on becoming Catholic, but I wanted to learn more about the distinguishing practices of Catholicism so I could relate to our students as much as possible. To learn more, I began attending RCIA and our school President, Mr. Dennis Burke, was gracious to serve as my sponsor. As I began to learn more from Father Jerome Spexarth and Mr. Burke about our saints, the Eucharist, and the teachings of the Catholic Church, I really began to lean more into the idea of becoming Catholic. It was informal conversations with these leaders, Nick Dellasega, RCIA volunteers, our priests, and a resounding desire in my mind and heart that moved me to begin my journey in life in the Catholic Church. The conversation topics that led to this life changing decision revolved around three main ideas: the

DICK SHAW

Throughout Dick Shaw's ('56) career in academics, he authored several books designed for use in the classroom. But during the pandemic, Dick wrote a book for everyone to read. He has recently published, Tales from the Professor: Life is a Hoot. The book consists of a series of funny short stories that Dick recalls from his life. Stories about life at St. Mary's, growing up in Pittsburg, working in Pittsburg—including summer work at the Newman Center. Some of these stories have appeared in the Morning Sun in J.T. Knoll's column. You can hear the Professor Emeritus from Rockhurst University laugh as he tells stories of his early life, adolescent years, college days, Army life and how he accidentally stumbled onto a 43-year career in teaching—high school, junior college, university, graduate school, executive education and even on public television.

Both books, Tales from the Professor: Life is a Hoot and Bobby the Bear are available in Pittsburg at Books and Burrow or online at Amazon.com.

RYAN O'CONNOR

Ryan O'Connor ('97) always wanted to write books, but never thought they would be children's books. Armed with a journalism and master's degree in Education from Pittsburg State University, Ryan began his journey as a sportswriter. He soon drifted into the education field and began teaching middle school and high school English in Rhode Island. In 2009, Ryan could see the writing on the wall at his school as budget cuts meant a trimming down of staff. With the encouragement of fellow SMC graduate Jerrod O'Nelio ('97), Ryan investigated teaching jobs in China. That began an 11-year stint in China where Ryan taught literature and writing at the University in Shang Hai. He also taught at an International School in China.

Not only did Ryan's teaching career take shape in China, but more importantly his personal life. In 2017, Ryan and his wife Susie (her English name) were married. Over the next several years, Ryan and Susie lost four babies to miscarriage. Shortly after, as he was teaching how to use description in character development, Ryan created the character Bobby the Bear. He soon realized that the stories he was telling through Bobby we stories he wanted to tell his own children, but probably never would. The process became very cathartic and healing. Ryan has now written an entire series of Bobby the Bear books. He is currently involved with the long and arduous process of publication, taking about 6-8 months for each book to be released.

Ryan and Susie have moved back to the States, currently making their home in Blue Springs, Missouri. Ryan continues to teach in China, but now it is all online. He has started writing a novel, and an outline for a second novel. But through Bobby the Bear, Ryan has found his voice and place in children's literature.

SPENCER CONTINUED

Eucharist, the Catechism, and the origin of the Catholic Church. Each time we get to enter into the Holy Mass and receive the Eucharist is a special occasion. I loved the fact that we would share this experience with Jesus Christ in a literal way as he intended, and not in a symbolic way. I also loved the clear-cut nature of how a good Catholic should live their life as outlined in the Catechism. In a world that is full of relativism and sometimes a hedonistic gospel being preached, the clarity of the Catechism granted me freedom and peace.

Finally, I loved the design that Jesus Christ had for our spiritual leaders, our priests. These individuals lay down their life for their friends and spiritual family. There's truly no greater love than this. I feel so blessed to have been called to and welcomed into the Catholic Faith. It is a journey I've embarked on that feels like a lifelong endeavor of spiritual growth and discovery of the greater plan that God has for my life.

AUNTS & UNCLES, NIECES & NEPHEWS...

At the same time while you were a student at SMC, elementary or high school, did you have an aunt or uncle that was also a student...or where you the aunt or uncle who had a niece or nephew that was also a student? Or maybe you remember classmates like this? Send me your names (or your classmates names) and hopefully a picture, either then or now, for use in future SMC Alumni publications to alumni@ollsmc.com

SMC theatre teacher Lola Wade was recognized June 29, at the NFHS (National Federation of State High School Associations) Summer Meeting in San Antonio, Texas, as the 2022 Recipient of National High School Heart of the Arts Award. SMC President of Schools & Interim HS/JH Principal Dennis Burke, vice-principal Cody Spencer and former principal Wes Streetter honored Mrs. Wade by joining her at the awards ceremony.

Under the direction of Lola Wade and Angela Suarez, SMC students dazzled the audience with their fall production of Fiddler on the Roof. Squeezed in the middle of football playoffs, the volleyball and cross country teams appearances at State competitions, nearly 50 high school, junior high and a few elementary students, did an amazing job.

WILLIAM MITCHELSON

William Mitchelson graduated in the SMC Class of 2012. William moved to New York City where he studied Business & Political Economy at New York University's Stern School of Business. His academic pursuits also encompassed Middle Eastern history, politics, and development. During his undergraduate career, he spent 3 ½ semesters pursuing an international education, living abroad in London, England, Shanghai, China, and Abu Dhabi, and the United Arab Emirates.

After college, William spent the 2016 Presidential campaign cycle as a political operative, first on the staff of the Republican National Convention, preparing for the party's nomination of Presidential & Vice Presidential candidates, then on the campaign trail with the Republican Party of Wisconsin, working to elect the party's slate of candidates at all levels. Following the election, he moved to Washington, D.C., starting at the 58th Presidential Inaugural Committee, helping to build out and execute inaugural events. Over the next four years, William worked in The White House, the Department of Homeland Security, and final, the Department of the Treasury, where he remained through the end of the Administration. During his four years in the Administration, William served five Cabinet Secretaries in their immediate offices, culminating as Director of Scheduling & Advance to Treasury Secretary Steven T. Mnuchin.

William now resides in New York City, where he works as the Head of Product Development at Triton Research, a software technology startup building a platform for private company data targeted toward the financial sector.

Despite not being much of an athlete even with the best intentions, his favorite memory from his time at St. Mary's Colgan is the tradition of prayer and song at the Convent and Church following home football games, where generations of students have come together in community to celebrate victory and (sometimes, though hopefully not too often) show resilience in defeat.

MATT O'MALLEY

After graduating from St. Mary's Colgan in 2002, Matt O'Malley earned a Bachelor of Business Administration from Pittsburg State University with an emphasis in Management. He began working full time during college and left the family business in 2010 to join AmeriCorps where he was stationed in Kansas City, Kansas, for his year of national community service. He ended up being hired by the organization he served at, Cross-Lines Community Outreach, where he worked his way up to being their Director of Operations & Volunteers. Matt returned home in 2016 to become the first Site Director for The Lord's Diner of Pittsburg. He spent a couple of years there before joining Live Well Crawford County where he works as their Director of Outreach & Development. He also works in a consultant role for the Kansas Food Action Network.

Matt likes to keep busy through volunteerism. He lectures twice a month during Saturday Masses, serves on the Invocation Committee for the Pittsburg Noon Rotary Club, and is the Treasurer of the Crawford County Community Coalition. Matt sits on the Boards of Pittsburg Beautiful, the Pittsburg Area Chamber of Commerce, and the Pittsburg Area Young Professionals where he serves as Board President. Matt also belongs to KU Med's Local Health Equity Action Team, Kansas Appleseed's Southeast Kansas Hunger Action Team, and was recently selected by the Kansas Leadership Center to take part in their Civic Facilitator Fellowship program.

While living in KC, Matt met and married his wife, Lacy. Together they have two boys, Dylan Parker who is two, and Lincoln Harrison who is five and a kindergartener at St. Mary's. Matt is proud to raise third generation Panthers and hopes that the school system has as much of a positive impact on his boys as it did on him. Matt credits his education at St. Mary's Colgan and the culture of Our Lady of Lourdes with teaching him the importance of being kind and helping those in need, living by the golden rule, and giving his best effort at all times.

LISA (McCLURE) FARRIS

Lisa (McClure) Farris, class of 1992, currently resides in Parsons, KS and works as a physical therapist at the CORE at Labette Health. She has three adult children: Jessica, a neonatal intensive care nurse at Overland Park Regional; Andrew, a Firstie (senior) cadet at the United States Military Academy at West Point (GO ARMY!!); and Lauren, who recently started college at Missouri Southern State University and is majoring in Criminal Justice, Crime Scene Investigation. She has embraced wearing the collegiate colors for each of her children, but admits it is a little harder wearing green/gold since she has been a life-long Pitt State fan. Professionally, she holds an NDT certification in the treatment of adults with brain injury and stroke, CAPP I certification in the treatment of women incontinence and pelvic health issues, as well as a passion for working with pediatric patients and others with neurological disorders.

After Lisa graduated from Colgan High School, she completed her Bachelor of Science in Biology at Pittsburg State University. From there she was accepted to Creighton University in Omaha, NE, where she spent three years attaining her Doctorate in Physical Therapy. After living in Kansas City for nearly two years, Lisa and her family spent six years in Waterloo, IA, where she worked part-time at Covenant Medical Center and Ravenwood Specialty Care Center. For the past 18 years (this coming January), Lisa has lived and worked in Parsons, KS. Her passion is found in helping people overcome the physical obstacles that life often throws at them and is blessed to do so alongside some of the most passionate rehabilitation professionals (and friends) in Southeast Kansas. The Farris family is members of St. Patrick's Parish in Parsons. Prior to this year, and a new season of life, Lisa could be found at most every sporting event cheering on her children and the Parsons Vikings. As she looks to the future, Lisa is excited to marry Patrick Duncan and start their adventure together. He has four children (Erin, Ian '15, Kylee '16, and Collin) and one granddaughter, River.

Lisa holds the traditions of SMC close to her heart. Some of the best memories she has, come from the football game day tradition: Mass, walking back from the field, singing to the Sisters, and the post-game prayers in the Church. And cheering at the State Football game (in the snow) was the perfect ending of the 1st semester of senior year. Lisa would like to thank the teachers and coaches of Colgan, as they truly helped instill the values of ethics, hard-work, and tenacity all while keeping God and our Catholic faith first.

CHES JONES

Ches Jones graduated with the Colgan High School class of 1982, but how he came to be at St. Mary's was different than his classmates. In December of 1975, Ches' family began a car trek across the US beginning in North Carolina with an expectation to go cross country to California to connect with relatives and for Ches's father to find work. With no money for the Will Roger's turnpike, the family had to get off at the last free exit on I-44 and headed towards Pittsburg, Kansas. The next year Ches would enroll in St. Mary's in the 7th grade and began the longest stretch at any single school system after having attended eight different schools from K-6th grades. "I remember my first day in the 7th grade with Mrs. Laposky as the teacher and we played Scrabble. Since I had never played the game, she assigned me to the same group as Audrey (VanBecelaere) Dickey, who was well versed in the game." After graduating from Colgan in 1982, Ches would attend Pittsburg State University. Ches would take the long route after following Mike Hessman to Kansas State University for a 1-year stint while considering an engineering degree. At KSU, Ches finally figured out what he wanted to do and went back to PSU and graduated in December 1988 with a BSEd in Physical Education and a math minor. From 1989-1990 Ches taught math and coached football, basketball, and sports conditioning at Anthony-Chapparral High School in Southcentral Kansas. With life goals focused on teaching at the college level, Ches applied and was accepted as a Graduate Assistant at the University of Alabama to teach personal health and work towards a PhD in Health Education and Health Promotion. Four years later Ches graduated from the University of Alabama-Birmingham in 1994 and was fortunate to be offered an assistant professor position at the University of Arkansas where he is currently a full professor teaching and doing research in injury prevention. In 1999, a couple of students in one of his classes thought that a local elementary teacher and Ches would be a good couple. After the first blind date and several dates after, Ches and Holly Taylor married and now have four children, Clay, Mary Claire, Ethan and Carter. Currently, Clay and Mary Claire attend the University of Arkansas majoring in Archeology and Education respectively. Ethan is in the 10th grade and attends Har-Ber High School in Springdale and is in the marching band. Carter attends JB Hunt Elementary in Springdale as a 5th grader and loves to play the guitar. Of all the memories while at Colgan-St. Mary's, Ches's favorites were playing football, hanging out with friends and being involved in the Colgan community. "Every teacher at Colgan had an impact of some kind on me but I remember Coach Smith, Fr. Ken and principal Pat Forbes going above and beyond to help me and my family. I really feel blessed to have had the opportunity to attend Colgan and is one of the best things to happen to me." Ches has three younger brothers and two sisters: David, Kenny ('84), Steve ('89), Caroline and Cindy, who each attended St. Mary's while the family lived in Pittsburg.

She and Hilary enjoy watching murder mysteries and playing card games. Rebecca wrote, "Some of my fondest memories of high school include having to be at the Pittsburg high school football field at 7 in the morning to practice for drill team in which I was the bass drummer, being in my Uncle Father Joseph's Gorenz's religion class, Sister Paula's short hand class, becoming life long friends with Sr. Prudentia's after being in her Home Ec class. Following retirement from full-time teaching in 2006, Karen continued to substitute teach for the Shawnee Mission School District.

Since retirement, Karen has enjoyed many summer vacations with family, cruises with friends and her husband's fraternity brothers, and several trips abroad. Now that her children and grandchildren have grown up, her time spent at ball games, music recitals, and other grandparent activities have come to an end. She now spends her time reading, doing jigsaw puzzles, attending church circle activities, and spending time with her high school friends.

Some of her favorite memories while at St. Mary's include playing drums in the high school band, parents of the students fixing lunch on some days, singing "Good Night Irene" at the convent, and being named Homecoming Queen her senior year. Karen is so grateful her parents sent her to St. Mary's School. Her education there inspired her to become a teacher in Catholic schools.

Prior to that, he had attended five different grade schools and one high school. Jim's family had moved frequently after the War and to follow work for his father's construction business. Jim wrote, "I was used to being the 'new kid' and the sometimes rejection that comes with it. To my surprise, my new classmates accepted me on the spot, a testament to their profession of faith. Seems I found a home at St. Mary's along with many lifelong friends." Jim attended Pittsburg State University and graduated with a Business degree and a commission as a reserve officer in the US Army. Jim married Barbara Bushnell in 1957. After serving at Ft. # GIRLS GOLF TAKES STATE

When the SMC Fieldhouse was built, State Championship banners were hung on the north wall. All of the sports State Championships were won by boys teams. These blue banners with white lettering served as an inspiration to the young women of SMC who wanted to hang their own banners, which they wanted to be white with blue lettering. The first of those "white banners" came in 2010 with State Softball. With the Girls Golf team 2022 State Championship, there are now six white banners.

Congratulations to the SMC Panther Girls Golf Team for winning the State Championship. After starting Girls Golf at SMC in 2019, the Panthers have captured the State Championship in 2020, 2021 and 2022.

Those who attended the SMC Reunion banquet last summer each received a custom-made rosary that you see in the picture. With the artistic help of Matt Wilbert ('92), and the business help from Nick ('03) and Daniel ('05) Dellasega at US Awards, the rosaries were commissioned, and custom made for Our Lady of Lourdes parish and St. Mary's Colgan schools. The crucifix is a miniature of the one that is above the altar in our church. On one side of the center medallion is a replica of the Our Lady of Lourdes stained glass window which is the center window above the altar and on the other side of the medallion is a picture of Our Lady of Lourdes Church. We place SMC under the protection of Mary's blue mantel which is represented by the blue beads and our school colors.

After dinner, at the Alumni Banquet, all were treated to some words of wisdom from Coach Chuck Smith, followed by a trip down memory lane of the history of the singing of Good Night Irene as told by National Public Radio. The evening was capped off with entertainment provided by Nancy (Walker) Daugherty ('67).

Rosaries are available to purchase at the St. Mary's Religious Gift Store.

Fr. Labenz led an all-school Eucharistic Procession throughout our campus to start off the school year. In this Year of the Eucharist it served as a beautiful reminder that Christ Himself is the Source and Summit of all we do at OLLSMC.
