

Dear Parents,

This week in library class, your students heard about a book that was written and illustrated by a local West Valley resident. Author Holly Bailey is a library volunteer and recently published a book based on a real fox she enjoyed watching in her yard, who had no tail. It's a short chapter book that is fictional but at the end of the story there are fox facts and photographs. Holly's Mom is the illustrator. The title is A Tale of No Tail. Several copies are available in the library but if you are interested in purchasing a copy for your child, I am attaching an Amazon link. Thank you.
