Discipline Guidelines

The staff at McNabb Elementary School is committed to high standards of student achievement. These standards can only be met in an orderly environment. To allow students to be successful, McNabb practices Stephen Covey's 7 Habits for our Guidelines for Success to promote leadership and 21st Century skills. The 7 Habits help students make the best choices. We use CHAMPs to teach routines and procedures. CHAMPs promote success and also serves as our classroom and school wide rules. Every classroom has CHAMPs charts displayed in their classrooms. The CHAMPs chart should be with the classroom teacher at all times. Each of the letters In CHAMPs represents a rule that the students are to incorporate into their daily behavior while at school. Please see teacher's sub (guest teacher) folder for more information.

| 7 Habits                                           | CHAMPs        |
|----------------------------------------------------|---------------|
| 1) Be Proactive                                    | Conversation  |
| 2) Begin with the End in Mind                      | H elp  |
| 3) Put First Things First                          | Activity      |
| 4) Think Win Win                                   | Movement      |
| 5) Seek First to Understand, Then to be Understood | Participation |
| 6) Synergize                                       |               |
| 7) Sharpen the Saw                                 |               |

During the school day when a student does not follow the CHAMPs rules, his/her teacher will give a mark to indicate the rule that was broken. It is our goal that a student will behave in such a manner as to have no marks. The CHAMPs rules are to be followed at all times and during all aspects of the school day.

The rating period and reward schedule will be weekly for the entire school year. Each reward or special privilege will occur on the Friday at the end of the rating period. Some rewards may also be given at random times. There will also be consequences, which will be used for students who have difficulty behaving during the rating periods.

Alerts

An alert paper is any paper that leads the reader to suspect that the writer is in a life-threatening situation or might be considering harming him/herself or another person. The writer might indicate (directly or indirectly) that he/she is dealing with one of the following problems: abuse, violence against another person, violence against him or herself, depression or suicide.

Kentucky statutes require adults to report suspected abuse or neglect. Certain statutes also specify a duty to prevent or warn of impending violence. Schools and districts should make sure that teachers and scorers understand the meaning and intent of the Kentucky statutes. Teachers may want to refer to Kentucky Revised Statutes 620.030-050, 645.270, and 202A.400 (see the following pages).

Consider the following information prior to reporting an alert situation.

- 1. Suspected problems of abuse, neglect, or dependency (children under improper care, custody or control when the matter is not due to an intentional act) by parents, guardians, or other adults exercising custodial control or supervision should be reported to the Health and Family Services. When the suspected problem of abuse, neglect, or dependency is committed by someone other than the parent, guardian, or adult exercising custodial control or supervision, report the suspected problem to the local law enforcement agency or to the County Attorney.
- 2. In cases where there is violence threatened against another person, whether identified or not, information should be reported to the local law enforcement authorities or the Kentucky State Police. If violence against an identifiable victim is communicated, notify the law enforcement office closest to the student and the victim's residence. Communicate the threat to the identifiable victim.
- 3. If nothing is communicated to indicate abuse or neglect by a parent as a contributing factor to depression or suicide, notify the school counselor and, together with the counselor, arrange a meeting with the student and parents, as appropriate. After discussing your concerns with the parents, document the conversation and any follow-up referrals. This documentation is important in establishing a pattern of depression and suicidal tendencies over time. If the parent's reaction is to downplay something the teacher and counselor feels is serious, then the teacher and counselor should contact the Health and Family Services.

If parental abuse or neglect is communicated as contributing to depression or suicide, notify the Health and Family Services.

In any portfolio that contains an Alert paper for which authorities have been notified by school personnel, place a "Notification of Authorities" form (found in section 3, Forms for Photocopying) in a secure file at your school. To avoid duplication of notification in cases where this portfolio should go out of the district for scoring (e.g., for a state audit), place this form in the portfolio before it is sent to a state audit or scoring session. When scorers read alert papers in a setting away from the school (e.g., writing portfolio audit, scoring and analysis session), they need verification that required procedures have been followed. The "Notification of Authorities" form will signal to KDE personnel, testing contractors, and others that action has already been taken, so that KDE does not duplicate those actions.

The Essentials of Classroom Discipline for Substitute Teachers

Randall S. Sprick and Lisa M. Howard

Introduction

- Your role as a substitute teacher in schools is both difficult and important.
- Your skills in effective behavior management can significantly influence the ease or difficulty of a particular assignment.

Do's and Don'ts" of Subbing

Things TO DO When Subbing:

- Be aware that your presence can make students feel anxious.
- Develop a file (or files) of filler activities.
- Greet students at the door of the classroom.
- When a classroom is chaotic, ask for student attention and wait until you get it.
- Guard teacher editions of texts and answer keys to tests.
- Lock the door when you leave the classroom.
- Present a professional appearance.
- Maintain your composure and confidence.

Things NOT TO DO When Subbing:

- Don't let students know that their teacher left poor lesson plans.
- Don't get defensive or demonstrate a superiority complex.
- Don't use the teacher's future lesson plans.
- Don't make up due dates for assignments.
- Don't write in the grade book (unless specifically instructed to do so).
- Don't correct students' work (unless specifically instructed to do so).
- Don't get offended if someone asks, "Who are you today?"

The Essentials of Behavior Management

COMMUNICATE with the students.

- Share your expectations for student behavior at the beginning of the day (or class).
  - O Use the teacher's posted rules when possible.
- Have your own rules in mind in case there are none posted. For example:
  - Ask before you leave the room
  - o Respect whoever is talking
  - Be productive
- Guidelines for developing rules:
  - o Limit the number to three or four
  - State the rules positively
  - o Give a rationale
  - Cover the most essential issues
- During the day (or class), interact with students as much as possible.

ORCHESTRATE student behavior during and between activities.

- Begin each activity by clarifying your expectations for student behavior during that activity.
- End each activity by giving the class feedback on how well they met your expectations and by preparing them for the next activity.

CIRCULATE throughout the classroom.

- Move among the students as much as possible.
- Be unpredictable in your route when circulating.
- Visually scan the entire classroom as frequently as possible.

MOTIVATE students to follow the rules and to use time productively.

- Use praise frequently and appropriately. Effective praise is:
  - o Descriptive
  - Businesslike
  - Based on something important
  - Age-appropriate
  - o Reasonably private (for older students)
- Reinforcement systems may be useful with younger students (K-3):
  - o Self-monitoring form
  - Stars or points on the board
  - o "Good Work" certificates
  - Mystery Motivators
  - o Names of responsible students on the board (use with care)
- Let the students know that you will be reporting back to their teacher
  - o Be overt when writing notes, and share the basics of your report.
  - o If an activity has gone badly, let students know that the next activity provides a fresh start.
  - O Do not use the report as a threat.

CORRECT student misbehavior when it occurs.

- Correct Calmly
  - o Don't get physical under any circumstances.
  - o Don't escalate the situation.
  - o Don't let the students "smell blood."
  - o Don't take student misbehavior personally.
  - o Don't worry about saving face.
  - o Don't engage in power struggles.
- Correct Consistently
  - o Choose your battles carefully.
  - o Don't threaten students with what the teacher will do when he/she gets back.
  - o Follow through on any warnings or consequences you have given.
- Correct Fairly
  - o Don't punish the entire class for the misbehavior of one or two students.
  - Once you implement a consequence with one student, implement it with all students who behave the same way.

- Correct Immediately
  - o Intervene as soon as misbehavior becomes a problem.
  - o Inform the student that he/she has a choice: To continue the misbehavior and pay the consequence, or to behave responsibly.
- Correct Privately
  - o A semi-private interaction allows the students to save face in front of peers.
  - o When physical private interaction is not possible, use a quiet voice when correcting.
- Possible consequences you might use for student misbehavior:
  - o Give a reprimand.
  - o Assign minutes owed off recess.
  - o Keep student after class.
  - Leave a note for the teacher.
  - o Write a description of the incident for the teacher, and have the student sign it.
  - Send the student to the office.

Dealing with Predictable Events

"That Is Not How Our Teacher Does It"

This is so common that you may want to pre-correct:

"Today, I will try to do some things like Ms. Hernandez, but some things will be different. I hope you will be patient about this."

- When students are trying to be helpful:
  - o Thank them for their assistance.
  - o Use some of their suggestions, if possible.
  - When you don't want to use a suggestion, say something like:
    - "Thanks, but I think today we will do it....."
- When students seem to be playing games:
  - o Don't confront them. Simply say: "Thanks, but today we are going to ....."
  - o If someone insists, try humor: "I think I will start making notes on all these helpful reminders"

Changing Seats

- When it's obvious, unemotionally give a warning that you will be following the seating chart for all activities (including any times that you may have to assign consequences).
- When a student gives a name that is clearly different from what is on the seating chart (e.g., "My name is George Washington."), try humor.
- When you are not sure, ask an administrator or co-teacher to verify the accuracy of the seating chart and the seating arrangements.

The Class Clown

- Don't compete or get into a power struggle with the student.
- Use humor, but do not humiliate or alienate the student.
- Get the student on your side (e.g., ask him/her to help you with a task).
- Keep anecdotal notes if the problem continues.
- Let the student know that you will share the notes with the teacher and/or administrator if the behavior persists.

Class Out of Control

- Ask for attention and raise your hand in the air. If students do not respond:
  - o Don't shout and don't get upset.
  - o Check the time and write it on the board. Then wait.
  - Once class is under control, again check the time and write it on the board.
  - o Calculate the difference (i.e., the amount of time the class was out of control).
  - o If it's a first offense, erase board and explain that next time you will leave a note for the regular teacher about how much time the class spent out of control. If it happens again, follow through and leave a note for the teacher.

Conclusion

Your management skills have a huge impact on student behavior. The most important skills are:

- Maintaining your confidence.
- Greeting students at the door.
- Remembering to communicate, orchestrate, circulate, motivate and correct.
