

Paris School District Wellness Center

Located on the Paris High School campus
2000 East Wood Street
Paris, AR 72855

Our Vision: Students and staff of the Paris School District will have access to the Paris School District Wellness Center in order to have quality, integrated school health services which will improve the health and wellness of each person in the Paris School District, optimize academic achievement, and overall enhance the well being of our community.

“Addressing student health in schools increases academic performance and health of children, report shows.”

More than 30 Arkansas school districts have at least one school using the Coordinated School health model. They are supported by federal and state grants and a partnership between the Arkansas departments of education, health, and human services. Each school district tailors the program to fit the needs of the students, community, and available resources. Nine of these districts (Paris being one of the nine) created school-based health centers-called school wellness centers-with support from the 2009 tobacco tax increase championed by Gov. Mike Beebe.
