Update from Dr. Hughes

This week the focus is on Attendance/Tardies:

- State law does not only require Attendance at school, it is critical to the education of every student. Missing any or all of a school day results in gaps in learning, affects grades, and can affect ability to earn credit for classes missed. The administration and teachers of Home Street Middle School care about the academic achievement of each student and strive to provide a positive educational environment. That environment is disrupted when students miss or arrive late to class.
- For every absence a parent/guardian must contact the school with either a note or phone call regarding the absence.
- Tardies
- Now that all students have had time to ensure they could follow their flow to class, if a student is tardy to any class, they will be assigned detention starting this week until the end of the year. All teachers and the front office will print detention notices for students when assigned.
