It was a phenomenal first week of school at Huston Academy! Students new and old, were giddy with nervous excitement, ready for the new year to begin! One of our new students, Devonna Cook, was terrified, yet thrilled to move schools. She is very excited about the four day week schedule and feels that it is much easier. On the other hand, Advisory brings new feelings.

Matthew Phelps, a new student at Huston Academy, has a few things to say about the new four day school schedule. One of the main reasons he came to Huston Academy was because we only have to come four days. He loves the idea because it gives him extra time to relax. An important lesson that is being taught to the students of Huston Academy is grit. Excellence does not mean perfection, instead, it means never giving in, never giving up, and ultimately achieving your goal.

Ibeth Campos, one of the many staff members at Huston Academy had this to say about the school and how teens are showing the grit to come to school and do what they need to, "I feel that Huston Academy is a great place for kids that don't fit in at the regular schools also for kids that would like to have a job. This school helps you to get caught up in credits if a kid is behind." One of the main focuses this year is the determination and endurance of each student attending Huston Academy.
