Counselor's Corner

May is Mental Health Awareness month and each year millions of Americans face the reality of living with mental illness. About half of all people who experience a mental health condition in their lifetime begin experiencing symptoms before the age of 14. What you may not realize is that while your body matures, so does your brain. It shouldn't be surprising to learn that signs of mental health conditions often emerge during this developmental stage. If you are experiencing mental health concerns, it's important not to try to handle it on your own. Learn what to do when you need help with your mental health. I am here to guide you, reach out to me and together we can find solutions.
