

"Glen is very organized and lesson well thought out. A variety of materials were used to make learning possible in many ways: manipulatives, worksheet, overhead projection, math games."

"Many different instructional strategies were used: group work, individual work, hands on experiential math stations. Additionally, many creative ways of understanding concepts were presented."

"I like your classroom feel. The music, multi-cultural materials, and class layout all make students feel comfortable. Your materials for each group were properly ready which adds to lesson success. Class behavior was well managed . . . The students respond very well to your affect and direction."

"You are a part of that school community and you have good working relations with the teacher. Clearly you are excited about this work and are showing true professionalism, both in the classroom and in your professional studies."
