

Title IX, Part A

Students in Transition

Did You Know?

The holidays are often a time of joy spent celebrating with loved ones, but for those experiencing domestic violence, the holidays can be stressful and dangerous.

Expectations that are unrealistic, pressures from financial issues, and increased alcohol consumption can all raise stress levels which in turn can contribute to increased incidents of domestic violence.

Domestic violence doesn't take a break during the holidays, but many survivors stay with abusers so that they are not spending the holidays in a shelter.

For anonymous, confidential help available 24/7, call the National Domestic Violence Hotline at: 1-800-799-7233 (SAFE)

On behalf of Okaloosa's Title IX Department, we would like to extend a huge thank you to First Baptist Church Niceville for their generous donation of $6,000 in Payless gift cards! Each student displaced from Hurricane Michael will be provided a NEW pair of shoes. Their kindness will directly benefit 200 homeless students displaced from Hurricane Michael.
