

A grainy, high-contrast photograph of two people holding hands against a red background. The image has a textured, almost halftone appearance. The two figures are silhouetted against the bright red background. The person on the left is leaning forward with their arms outstretched, holding the hand of the person on the right. The person on the right is standing upright, also holding the hand. The background is a solid, vibrant red, and the foreground shows some dark, indistinct shapes that could be foliage or ground. The overall mood is dramatic and evocative.

ERNIE DAWS

... In one sense there is no death. The life of a soul on earth lasts beyond his departure. You will always feel that life touching yours, that voice speaking to you, that spirit looking out of other eyes, talking to you in the familiar things he touched, worked with, loved as familiar friends. He lives on in your life and in the lives of all others that knew him.
