

Public school systems depend on federal, state, and local dollars to provide K-12 public education to each child whose parent chooses public education. Ensuring that predictable and sustainable education funding is provided to the 69 elected school boards is essential. Unfunded mandates pushed down on the local school boards threaten their ability to meet the obligation to public school students.