Mission Statement

As music teachers in the Northwestern School Corporation, we believe that all people have the right to an education in music that:

- Teaches them the lifelong joy of making music through singing, playing instruments and movement.
- Gives them a chance to express, through music and dance, what cannot be expressed in words.
- Helps them to respond to music intellectually and emotionally.
- Teaches them the language of music notation and opens the door to improvising, composing, arranging and choreographing.
- Equips them to make informed judgements about musical works and performances.
- Educates them in the music of all cultures and historical eras.
- Gives them confidence that can prepare them for success in many musical and non-musical endeavors.
- Allows them to discover and develop their special talents, including preparing to make music their profession, if they so choose.
- Prepares them to be involved with music throughout their lives.
