Michael Cook from Claremore held Commerce High School students captive during an all school assembly on Tuesday, March 27th. The Commerce-Picher-Cardin Coalition invited Cook to speak to Commerce students about underage drinking. Having first hand experience with driving while drunk, Michael was physically impaired and is now quadriplegic. Years earlier, Michael and his girlfriend crashed into a tree twenty feet from his house, where they were heading. However, he was too "wasted" to make it. Chris Cawyer sponsors the CPCC.
