The Origin of Saint Valentine's Day

The holiday that we call Valentine's Day or Saint Valentine's Day is a day set aside for love. The Roman Catholic Church sets aside February 14th to honor Saint Valentine the patron saint of love and marriage.

Valentine was a Roman who preached the gospel in Rome. He served during the third century. Emperor Claudius II of the Roman Empire made a decree that men who served in the Roman Legion were to be single, so they were never allowed to marry and start a family. Valentine felt that Claudius' decree was a huge injustice, so he defied Emperor Claudius and he continued to perform marriages for young couples in secret. When Claudius learned of Valentine's actions he ordered that Valentine be put to death.

Before he was beheaded, Valentine spent several years in a Roman prison where he was beaten and tortured daily. The only person who ever showed him any kindness was his jailor's daughter who came in daily to treat his wounds. They quickly fell in love, and on the day before his execution he wrote her a letter saying that "only she will have his heart both in this life and in the afterlife". At the end of the letter he signed "From Your Valentine".
