

Building BRIDGES

Do you have a child with a disability?

When we have a child with a disability, no matter the profoundness or severity, it can consume our identity and become our life. We can lose ourselves, become very lonely, and keep things to ourselves because no one else understands. Until Now!

Who are we?

We are parents.
We are advocates.
We are neighbors.
We are friends.
We are family.
We are just like you, looking for support from those who know what we are going through.

Where are we

We are a support group of parents with children who have different abilities and verifications. We are building a support group so we can have people to lean on and ask questions, or just be there for one another. We have a zoom link for you to join us every Thursday.

Please Join us Via Zoom
