- Brandon Wall opened the meeting by discussing the health classes and curriculum used at high school. This course is one semester and it covers physical health, social and mental health, and drugs and alcohol. He discussed activities that students participate in and some potential changes he is considering making next year.
- Tracee Herbstritt brought cafeteria tasting samples of chicken alfredo, pizza, and frozen treats.
- Tracee Herbstritt discussed the summer feeding program. There will be alternate sites for students to receive meals at this summer. In June, students can be fed at the elementary school and at the city pool. In July, students can be fed at the city pool, the Manor apartments, and Madison Chase apartments. This is a very promising program for needy children.
- We completed a survey (Creating a Vision for Your Community and Schools) to guide SHAC in a direction to take next year.
- Next year's meetings will take place in September, October, January and April.
