Project Reflection Guidelines:

- Complete one for EVERY project you finish. (Including every book you read for your reading project.)

- You do NOT need one for Lifelong Learning papers—that is already a reflection.

Write a 3 paragraph (minimum) summary. Below are some questions to get you thinking. You may want to consider breaking it down like this:

1) What you did during the project.
   a. How did you spend your time?
   b. What challenges did you run into? How did you solve those problems?

2) What you learned during the project.
   a. Did you learn what you originally set out to learn?
   b. From your original questions, did you leave any unanswered? Why?
   c. What information was hard to find? Easy to find?
   d. Did you learn any new skills? (Like how to edit a video, how to make a PowerPoint, how to interview someone)
   e. How will you benefit in your life outside of school from learning this?

3) What you would do the same or differently next time.
   a. What was most enjoyable about this project? Least enjoyable?
   b. Did your goals change from your original proposal form? Why?
   c. How will this project help you in your future projects?
   d. What ideas do you have for future projects?
