Wildcat Mentor Program Needs You

There are 46 million young people, aged 8-18, living in America. 16 million of them are growing up without a mentor. That's one out of every three young people who, outside of their family at home, don't have a trusted adult who they believe they can turn to for advice and guidance. Of those young people, 9 million face a variety of day-to-day challenges that put them at-risk for falling off track. Source: MENTOR: The National Mentoring Partnership

Be The Difference

Mentors visit with the student 30 minutes twice monthly at Simpson or Lincoln Elementary Schools. There are many activities that you can do with your student. The goal of the mentoring program is to build positive relationships. Here are a few ideas:

- Eat lunch
- Play a game
- Do a craft
- Visit school library
- Read
- Visit the playground
