

Dr. Netlla Cureton is the Assistant Superintendent for the Paris School District. Cureton has been in education for 18 years. She graduated from Henderson State University with her Bachelors, later earning her Masters in Education and Educational Leadership degree. She received her Doctoral Degree from Harding University in 2015. She has one daughter and many great nieces and nephew that keep her busy. Cureton chose Paris because "Paris is a wonderful caring community that supports the school district. And the faculty and staff are amazing. I am thrilled to be a part of the Paris School District!"
