Foreword--

Throughout the school years, students of CCCHS receive special instruction in many fields of knowledge. Their school career involves a routine program that takes four years to complete. In time of war, however, the scenes are somewhat changed. Though school life is patterned the same, a greater emphasis is placed on fitting trainees for service; the tempo of our activities is speeded up, and every subject and activity suddenly becomes more important.

Action is today's keyword to success, and through action, CCCHS becomes a special "home front"— a front where students are receiving vital training in specific fields. Our school, then, may be called a training camp—a camp which 429 students attended for a training period of nine months.

In exhibiting our training program, we have designated our school as "our camp"; and in keeping with the cmphasis upon action, we present this book in the form of a drama.

Dedication

To the boys of Class of '43 and to the faculty members who have left our school to join the armed forces of our country, the Tiger Roar staff proudly dedicates this book.

Flag Pledge

"... We pledge allegiance to the flag of the Clay County Community High School and to the principles for which it stands—one institution with Character, Courtesy, Cheerfulness, Honor, and Success as our goal ..."

Scene One:

The new recruits of CCCHS were all huddled together that first Monday in September. Most of them were a little timid and all of them were curious. At the moment they were waiting to be enlisted. One by one they stood befor the recruiting officers and received their schedules-every hour was filled with something to do from Reville to Taps. After having their names added to the camp records, they lost some of their timidity-now they belonged, and now they were curious to see what they belonged to. This was to be their home for four years—years that would be packed with training more varied, more intensive, and more complete than that in any other training camp they'd known.

In groups of two or three, they began wandering around, inspecting. By asking questions of older and more assured looking trainees, they found out a great many facts about our camp. Some wandered into the Officers Candidate School. Here they saw trainees learning the technique of becoming future instructors and officers.

Wandering into the Chemical Warfare Service, they were fascinated by the rows of bottles and queer looking apparatus. Another room turned out to be the realm of mathematics where future members of the Engineers division get necessary training.

The rata-tat-tat of typewriters drew the inquisitive recruits, and looking in the door, they beheld other trainees learning the techniques of handling the business interests of an organization.

Delicious odors began to sail down the halls, and it wasn't long before most of the wandering groups had discovered a very important part of any camp. This was where future cooks were trained. The future quartermasters headquarters were here, too, evidenced by the whirring sewing machines and snipping scissors.

The Public Relations department looked interesting, and the room for essential training in English and foreign languages had already attracted prospective students. The physical training room had constant visitors because every trainee had enrolled in physical ed.

After their extensive tour of the grounds, the recruits were anxious to get into the routine of camp life. They had a pretty good idea of what they wanted to specialize in and were ready to start.

These raw recruits, four years later, could scarcely be recognized. They were no longer hesitant and unsure of themselves. They had been taught how to handle themselves in active duty, and they were going into active duty now. Into many different branches of service, and many different parts of the world they would travel or take their place, but they were confident of themselves because of their background training received in the camp of CCCHS.

Strategists Plan Camp Maneuvers

To be assured of victory in battle, there must be individuals behind our armed forces who plan the next move for our fighting men. The opinions and judgments of more than one person are considered before orders are sent out.

Likewise, it is now considered desirable, and by many necessary, for schools to select a group of students who will plan the strategy of the student body, and thus give them a voice in the administration of the school. This we have at CCCHS in the form of a Student Council.

In planning school affairs and making decisions for problems that arise, it is important that all "divisions" in our school are considered; therefore, each class and organization in the school as well as the faculty is represented on the Council. The members of this year's staff of "strategists" and the organizations they represent are: Roger Adams, Senior class; Vivian Blanken, Promoter; Bruce Chestnut, FFA; Hal Faulconer, Hi-Y; Jean Fullerton, FTA; Jeannette Guenther, Home Economics club; Lillian Hansen, Girls' Booster club; Bob Myers, Boys' Booster club; Phylis Oetinger, GR; Dorothey Pierson, Junior class; Mert Schwenson, Freshman class; Jerry Wilhelm, Sophomore class; and Louis Woodburn, Annual staff. L. .. Smith represents the faculty, while George C.

Stevens principal, and H. S. Unger, vice-principal, are ex-officio members.

The essential officers of the Council, or staff, are elected from the members to serve throughout the school term. The choice of competent officers is vital to the success of the Council for they have considerable responsibility in the governing body. Our "chief of staff" this year was Lillian Hansen; Hal Faulconer was elected "vice-chief" and Vivian Blanken was chosen secretary.

Mectings are held each Thursday noon following lunch in the gymnasium. As a rule, the business of the Council can be handled in the forty-five minutes alloted for the meeting, but on some occasions the members had to remain overtime, especially if a decision had to be made.

Several jobs, such as the allocation of the activity fund, and the granting of concession rights for selling candy and popcorn at the games, and in the hall, must be taken care of each year. By far the most important work of the Council however, is the solving of the problems which present themselves each year.

Summarizing the work of the Student Council this year, the Victory Carnival, held November 13, heads the list of its achievements. The Student Council sponsored the annual affair this year which in previous years has been the responsibility of the Senior class. The carnival was 'termed successful from all standpoints, especially since the profit was enough the purchase a $500 dollar war bond. Each organization taking part in the carnival was credited with a share according to the amount it had earned from its booth or concession stand.

So that the student body might know the proceedings of the Council meetings and might offer helpful suggestions and criticisms, a plan was adopted this year to issue a bulletin, which contained the minutes of a previous meeting, and ask for student suggestions in the fourth hour classes on each Monday. The suggestions given to the Council were then considered at the meetings.

An important duty of the president is to appoint dependable committees to deal with the various problems confronting the Council. The carnival, home-coming, clean-up campaign, securing Red Cross workers, playing records during the noon hour, and several other matters were taken care of in this manner.

National affairs also influenced the Council's work. Early in the year, the Council voted to use the $31 obtained from the scrap drive to buy war bonds. The problem of keeping the Service flag up to date was solved by placing the responsibility on two senior girls, Leanna Donley and Lillian Hansen, who were each to receive a credit in research for their efforts. In cooperation with the Council, they prepared a scroll of names of graduates and former students in our armed forces to place beneath the flag which was brought up to date at the end of this school year. Because of the number of faculty members and students that were called or who volunteered into service, the Council adopted a uniform plan of presenting each a gift on behalf of the entire student body.

Although our school is superior to many in the courtesy our students show in chapels, an attempt was made to make CCCHS rate even higher on this point. Several suggestions as to how we might improve our chapel etiquette were offered and were issued in one of the bulletins,

A discussion on the subjects of exempting A and B students from final examinations was held, and the Council voted to leave the final decision to our "Commanders."

COUNCIL OFFICERS

Hansen, Faulconer, Blanken

From the Kansas Association of Student Councils Bulletin, the Council learned what similar high school organizations in Kansas were doing and got new ideas for improving of our school.

It has been the practice of previous Councils to send representatives to visit other schools or to a student council convention. Such a plan, however, was impossible this year because of war conditions.

The Student Council is not only beneficial to the school in maintaining a democratic institution, but it also affords excellent training for those who are members. The growing movement for student councils in every school is bound to result in an advancement of democratic government in civic affairs.

Next year another "staff" will be chosen to make plans for nine months of school and to lead our camp through its trials and tribulation, progress and advancement.

Stevens, Rankin, Bauer, Alquist, Miss Brenner, Rundle, Benson, Conrad.

The office of our camp is as familiar to trainees as any class room. The doors open invitingly to privates, lieutenants, instructors or anyone that cares to enter; and the officials are eager and willing to discuss matters with the students and assist them when they can. More help comes from our officers' headquarters than we sometimes realize as Mr. Stevens, Mr. Unger, and the office secretary, Marceline Hunter, are always busy doing something for the benefit of the students.

Therefore, a word of appreciation is due to our office trio, and we sincerely hope we have not caused too many grey hairs. The supervision of our camp by the "High Command," the Board of Trustees, deserves commendation. Under their direction, the CCCHS trainees receive the benefits of a modern education and a well-rounded training program.

Miss Lily Brenner, county superintendent, Verner V. Alquist, Arthur Conrad, W. H. Rundle, Harry Bauer, A. Wallace Benson, and Basil Rankin, a newly elected member, make up the personnel of the high command. For their services and evident interest in this institution, CCCHS expresses gratitude.

Future Instructors Organize

Instructors in our armed forces must go through rigid training before they are qualified to teach others, and so it is with preparing students in our camps who are to be future instructors in our schools. These industrious students have this year organized the Future Teacher of America club, the purpose of which is to help potential teachers learn facts about the teaching profession and its opportunities, and to develop the character qualities essential to a good teacher.

The CCCHS Horace Mann chapter of the FTA is the first high school FTA club in Kansas, and holds the first chapter. It was organized the first six weeks of this school year, and took the place of the former Claxton club. While the latter was limited to seniors in an actual normal training course, the FTA broadens membership by admitting students from all four classes desiring to follow the teaching profession, whether they are taking the normal course or not.

The officers of the FTA include the president, who presides over the meeting, Phylis Oetinger; the vice-president, who assists the president and acts in her absence, Batty Chestnut; the secretary, who handles correspondence and keeps a record of the meetings, Marie Oetinger; the treasurer, who collects dues and sends the annual fee to the national office, Donna White; the historian, who keeps the history of the club and the FTA pamphlets for study, and encourages their use, Evelyn Heikes; the parliamentarian, who fosters the study and practice of parliamentary law, Maxine Pfizenmaier; the song leader, who is responsible for the musical activities of the group, Barbara Thorpe; the student council representative, Jean Fullerton; and the faculty advisor, Miss Edith McConnell. The newly organized group boasts 31 members.

The FTA holds their meetings every other Tuesday afternoon after school. Some interesting and varied programs have been presented to and by the members. Speakers at these meetings have included Miss Lily Brenner, County Superintendent of Schools and Ernest Tolin, Superintendent of City Schools.

The future teachers presented their annual chapel program Friday, February 19. At this time the FTA charter, signifying the club's membership in the national FTA, was presented to the president, Phylls Oetinger, by George C. Stevens, principal.

Services of Supply Keep 'em Eating

Out in the Ag building, we find the "Services of Supply" of our camp. This year they have really been kept busy, meeting war time emergencies involved in the production of food which is so essential to victory. Their activities have been rather confined to home and the Ag shop with all the annual trips being cancelled, but there was plenty of work to do and much was accomplished.

This year marked the first that Ray Morrison has had charge of the local F. F. A. chapter. Mr. Morrison came to us last summer from Alma, Kansas, filling the vacancy of Vocational Ag instructor left by the resignation of Harlan Perrill.

Besides their classroom work, the Ag boys have access to a well equipped shop where they work on various projects. The shop is equipped with the best of tools, an electric welder, an acetylene welder, and a newly installed wood lathe. This year quite a building program took place and at the end of the year they had many projects to show to their credit. They completed 20 hog houses, 4 manure spreaders, 2 hayracks, 2 hay bucks, 6 self-feeders, 200 hog troughs, and 50 chicken feeders. For this construction 8,000 board feet of lumber was purchased from Ft. Riley.

Properties and projects of the Agricultural department include 450 chicks, a flock of 200 laying hens, and 13 gilts which are out on contract to Ag boys.

Each year a few of the Ag boys try out for the Union Pacific scholarship which is a $100 award to go to college. This year out of the local chapter, two boys are trying for this scholarship. They are John McAdams and Paul Carnahan; these two boys are also trying out for the State Farmers contest.

One of the regular events of the year is the annual Faculty vs. F. F. A. basketball game. This year the tables were turned from previous years with the faculty defeating the farmers 15 to 0.

Girls Help With War Activities

In war and in peace, food and the home can be found in our first line of defense. Our own Home Economics club and department, under the guidance of Miss Vera Lindholm, are striving to do their full share in helping to win the war.

In the past years at club meetings the girls had different kinds of entertainment—speakers and special programs—but now because of the war they do Red Cross and First Aid work. Some of the larger projects they took up were making about thirty-five utility bags and knitting squares for an afghan.

There are approximately thirty members in the club and the meetings are held every first and third Tuesdays in the month. At the fall carnival the Home Economics booth was a popular place for food and refreshment. A gift box was filled at Christmas and given to the Welfare committee to distribute where it was needed. For special entertainment the Home Ec girls had two pot luck meals—one at noon and one after school. A tea was given for the mothers the afternoon of February 18. This tea was to explain rationing and the point system.

Several girls attended Hospitality Day at Manhattan, April 16.

A special meeting and a party were held in the spring.

Officers of this year included: president, Joan Isensee; vice-president, Barbara McClean; treasurer, Nelda Bauer; secretary, Neva Sharples; reporter, Waleta Bushel; program chairman, Wilma Hugg; pianist, Orcena Michelson; song leader, Lois Moon; Student Council representative, Jeannette Guenther.

GAA Stresses Physical Training

Meet the WAACs of CCCHS—the members of the Girls Athletic Association! They are a group of healthy, energetic gym students who are interested in keeping themselves physically fit by regular exercise and competitive sports.

This year the club was divided into two divisions, a first hour and a second hour club. Each division operated as a separate unit and carried on their own affairs except when there were special projects or parties. Both groups elected their respective officers, and each cabinet served for a term of one semester.

The goal for all of the members to work toward was that of earning a GAA letter. This letter is attained by receiving points which are awarded after the accomplishment of various feats that have been outlined for the club.

First, there are a complete set of health rules which the girls are to live up to for sixteen weeks. Additional credits are earned in many ways, and hiking proved one of the most enjoyable this year. The girls took three hikes during the year. All were of different lengths: one was three miles; another, five; and the last, ten. Of course, the longer the hike, the more credit received.

Other points e gained by participating in sports, in showing a sportsman-like attitude, and by introducing new games to the group in an understandable manner. These points accumulate from year to year until the girl has acquired enough credits for a letter—the minimum being 500 points. There is a possibility of earning a letter in one year, but it is very seldom done.

Both divisions of the GAA enjoyed several social affairs together. In the fall, they went on a combined hike and weiner roast, and they had parties during the Christmas and Valentine seasons.

The presidents of the clubs for the first semester were Rosemary Ferron and Lavone Lind; for the second semester, Amy McCown and Helen Pershall.

Miss Lois Niles, physical education instructor, was sponsor for the groups and participated in all the club activities. Because of her effort and interest in the organization, GAA gained popularity this year.

Senior Lieuies Publish Camp Paper

Twelve senior "lieutenants" were enrolled in the Public Relations department of our camp this year. They were students who dared to be really different as well as patriotic in trying to produce a school paper that the whole camp would like—in times like these.

In the first place, the staff decided to print the paper themselves on the mimeographing machine in the office. Lots of work, yes—but think of all the experience gained, and all the money saved at the same time. It seemed the patriotic thing to do, so they just dodged the "boos and bricks" and made plans. Certainly, not everyone was against this type of paper, mainly because it came out more often since the cost was much less.

At the first of the year, each member of the staff did out of writing on different types of copy to see in exactly which field his talents lay. All the boys declared they couldn't write anything except sports items—but they discovered differently after practice. Everyone learned lots of terms and pointers used in printing offices, trying to develop a journalistic attitude. Finally work was begun on the real thing.

The class was outfitted with stencils and ail the instruments which were needed to cut the stencils. The so-called laboratory, where all this took place, was the Annual room—and, no kidding, it was a busy place come publication time,

The typists on the Staff always had the pleasure of typing the stencils. It was a challenge to test their accuracy and dexterity—but they usually kept the "mulberry juice," pet name for the correction fluid, handy— just in case. By composing and printing the paper themselves, there was much opportunity for originality in clever cuts and styles; everyone had fun experimenting.

At Christmas time the Staff planned a special issue to be printed at the printing office downtown, so they all chased ads downtown to finance it. Another issue like this was published in the spring, and its main attraction was a two-page section devoted to the Seniors. Issuing these special editions was an entirely different procedure in getting out the paper, and was more like work in a real newspaper office.

Staff positions were assigned at the first of the year with Barbara Thorpe as editor for the first semester. During the second semester, the system of page editors was generally used. The other staff positions were: Business manager, Betty Mugler; Circulation manager, Irene Braun; and Sports editor, Warren Tripp. Vivian Blanken was Student Council representative. Freeman G. French was the sponsor.

Production Staff Survives

The Tiger Roar! Here's this year's review of our camp—snappy and slick, awaiting your attention! But don't think it was any bed of roses publishing an annual in a year like this. In fact, we weren't even sure if we'd have a cover to enclose these contents. Then after we had made arrangements to buy one, nobody could agree on the color. Brown, blue, orange, purple—so it went, but the color is blue, thanks to the fems of the staff who were in the majority.

But really, that was a minor item compared to some of the other worries Viv had on her mind. For instance: over-due copy that she had to drag from staff writers; Jim, who spent nine-tenths of his time with Margaret and one tenth with his camera; trying to find a night for a meeting when Nan didn't have a date with Charlie; trying to rummage ideas for Bob D. and Bee's etchings; keeping an eye on Nolan and JoAnn; coaxing Betty to donate enough gas to deliver copy 5th hour; keeping the gang from being jealous of Mary who was forever one jump ahead of the rest with her copy—and Louie, who was last for reasons he alone understands.

Ah! How we slaved up in the third floor Annual room, usually sharing it with kids on the Promoter staff who were always disturbing us. The room became so cluttered up with both types of junk that you could barely battle your way through—but they say this is typical of all journalistic offices and merely adds to the atmosphere. Every time the janitor did clean up, we couldn't find anything for a month and this slowed up production, so we decided to live in it and like it.

The business manager had his troubles, too. On bended knee, he pleaded with the juniors to sell ads. He finally drafted Thorpe, and she got last minute results. He was worrying for fear his books would come out in the "red", so his mind was constantly searching for moneymaking schemes—he landed several good ones, too. That Joe E. Brown show was a riot, and the chapel was unforgettable.

Don't get the idea, however, that the whole thing was a headache, because there were plenty of hilarious times, too. Like the time the kids had to drag out Lincoln's statue from among the cobwebs for inspiration; how a few of the fearless ones had to calm the rest of the staff when "spooks" rattled the attic doors; our meetings when time and again we were disturbed by Buck's fog-horn nose and earsplitting laughter; and incidentally, when anyone had worked until he was exhausted and needed a breath of fresh air, he ascended to a place of higher altitude to find relief.

Finally, the masterpiece was assembled and sent to press—and we relaxed! We went for a big spree in the spring—a picnic and then to the show. How swell it seemed to take life easy.

We've had a wonderful time making this yearbook, and now it's ready to be judged by you who read these lines.

Jr. Deans Volunteer Service

The Junior Dean Corps is a new organization formed this year by Miss Ruth Raynolds, Dean of girls, which might well correspond with the gallant Nurses Aid society. Qualified senior girls were selected for the Corps, whose purpose is to serve as a guide and help the other girls in the school. As a result, more individual attention was possible, and everything ran more smoothly for all concerned.

Six of the girls were receptionists, and each hour one of them presided outside Miss Raynold's classroom where she received messages and made appointments during the class periods. She could pass her time as she wished, supposedly studying, maybe reading magazines.

The rest of the girls acted as deans and were assigned usually in pairs, to be in the Girl Reserves room during one of their study halls. Through this plan there was always someone to look after those who needed help during school hours. The Corps was supplied with first-aid equipment with which they treated only minor injuries—at least nothing worse than a broken leg. Of course, if a person were scriously ill or injured, she was given an excuse and sent home.

In February, CCCHS was caught with the rest of the town in the three-day measles epidemic. The GR room was a busy place then, and all the deans were on the look-out for tell-tale rashes, not excluding themselves.

Most of the deans volunteered for Red Cross work and rolled bandages once a week from 4:00 till 6:00 p.m. This training went hand in hand with the Aid Society at school, and helped the war effort at the same time.

For identification, the deans wore little orange and black badges bearing the motto, "Joyfully Doing Courtesies." Through the fine cooperation of all the members and under Miss Raynold's direction, the Junior Dean Corps has proved itself to be a worthy organization.

Boosters Build Morale

Girls

The U. S. O. of our army camp, in the form of the Girls Booster club, does much to keep up the fighting spirit of CCCHS. This organization is made up of pep, enthusiasm, and girls who are always backing the school's activities.

These girls can easily be distinguished by their costumes, consisting of black sweaters and skirts and orange blouses. The freshmen and sophomores, known as the Boosterettes, wear small tigers on the front of their sweaters, while the upperclassmen, called Boosters, wear large ones. The girls wear their uniforms on the days of football and basketball games, showing the boys on the team how much spirit lies behind their effort. One of the important activities of the club was the decorating of the goal posts for the home football games.

At the carnival the Booster club again had the police court and another booth called "Ring the Duck." They also had charge of several numbers in the joint program given in the auditorium.

Much of the credit for the pep chapels should go to the cheer leaders who did a good job. These five peppy people could be seen tearing around the halls in their flashy "monkey-jackets" of bright orange. With these the girls wore black pleated skirts and the boys wore black trousers. The cheer leaders this year were: Madonna Chaput, Donna Reik, "Buck" Tripp, and "Choppy" Schiltz. The band chose Loren Fincham to lead them in their yells.

Booster club officers for 1942-43 were: president, Mary Wylie; vice-president, Betty Mugler; secretary, Beatrice Tuggle; treasurer, Natalia O'Donnell; and student council representative, Lillian Hansen. The sponsors were Mrs. Sue V. Hemphill and Miss Beulah Geyer.

The highlight of the year for the Booster club came with spring in the form of a picnic. Each girl asked a boy to go with her to the picnic, and this plan added a great deal to the fun.

In February the Girls reorganized their club.

Fincham, Reik, Schiltz, Chaput, Tripp

Front Row: Mrs. Hemphill, Mr. Barker, O'Donnell, Tuggle, Wylie, Hansen, Miss Geyer. Back Row: Mugler, O'Donnell, Myers, J. Hammel, Cavin, Faulconer.

A constitution was adopted, and meetings were held every other week. Committees were appointed to plan stunts for pep chapels, and the girls took a greater interest in creating enthusiasm for school activities.

This reorganization of the Girls Booster club will help next year's members be of real service to the school.

Boys

Here are a group of morale builders of our camp, and they are just as important as the morale builders that we hear so much about in the army. Loren "Pop" Barker, commander of the Boys' Booster forces, has directed the activities and campaigns of the club.

To gain new recruits in the Boosters' ranks, the club held a watermelon feed early in the school year. All the freshmen boys were invited, and the amazing part was that there was more watermelon than could be eaten.

Before the first football game the Booster clubs sponsored a show at the Rex and a snake dance afterwards.

The Boys Booster club scooped the girls' club this year on the sale of pencils and bangels to advertise football and basketball games.

When activities were lagging just after the new year, the boys held a date party. Members of the club with their dates ate at the Bonham hotel and then went to the show. Unusual features of the party were the new couples seen there.

Cheerleaders from the Boys Booster club were Buell Schiltz and Warren Tripp. Officers were Lyman Cavin, president; Jim Hammel, vice-president; Hal Faulconer, treasurer; Max O'Donnell, sergeant-at-arms; and Bob Myers, Student Council representative.

Girl Reserves Promote High Ideals

"To find and give the best," is the purpose of the Girl Reserves club, the girls' service organization in our camp. It aims to develop the religious, physical, social, and moral sides of a girl's life.

Girl Reserves is open to any girl in high school who wishes to join. The membership drive began the first of the year with Elaine Mall, vice-president, as membership chairman. There were approximately 150 members this year who took part in the impressive candle-lighting service. Meetings were held every other Friday with Lila Erickson, worship chairman, being responsible for the devotionals and the planning of interesting programs under the supervision of Beatrice Tuggle, program chairman. Mary Wylie, song leader, and Betty Mugler, pianist, added an enjoyable touch to the programs.

The GR activities are under the supervision of Miss Blanche Perkins and 13 cabinet members. Miss Perkins, a new member on the high school faculty, was chosen to be the sponsor, and with the aid of an advisory board composed of Miss Mary J. Carter, Miss Vera Lindholm, and Miss Ruth Raynolds, led us through another successful year.

Dora Deane Hartman, service chairman, did an excellent job arranging for the selling of hot-dogs, coffee, cokes, and other food at the football games.

The cabinet enjoyed numerous meetings—especially when refreshments were served. President Blanche Bergstrom did a fine job of keeping order, and the secretary, Eleanor Minter, was always kept busy with her duties. Margaret Ramsey, treasurer, tried to keep the records straight, and Leanna Donley was finance chairman. With Jo Ann Martin, publicity chairman, and Phylis Oetinger, Student Council representative, the club was well advertised and their interests represented.

The Christmas spirit was revealed when the GR and Hi-Y members sponsored the annual White Gift service. Following a beautiful play, "When the Chimes Rang," the students placed their gifts at the foot of a white cross on the stage. These gifts were distributed to some of the more unfortunate in this community.

For two weeks in February there was a mystery correspondence between GR members, better known as "heart sisters." These heart sisters were revealed at the Valentine party, which was carefully planned by the social chairman, Vonda Gates.

The last big event of the year was a reception in April for the girls' mothers.

As the 1942-43 school year closes, it is evident that Girl Reserves has helped each member to do more real living because she has learned "to find and give the best."

Hi-Y Active in Service

To serve the school and the community in the best possible way by promoting high standards of Christian conduct has long been an ideal of the Hi-Y club which in our camp, is a boys' service organization. This year we are proud to say that we rendered as many helpful services as ever before. Much of the credit goes to our able sponsor, Ernest Larson, and to cooperation of the members of the club.

Early last fall our Hi-Y club was host to the representatives of the Hi-Y clubs from this part of the state. After reports and discussion of problems were finished, a banquet was given, with Rev. Herbert Pommerenke as guest speaker. He spoke on the Chinese situation, and the boys asked many questions concerning life and conditions in China.

The first two meetings were devoted to selection of programs of discussion and entertainment for the rest of the year.

The Hi-Y and the Girl Reserves jointly operated the refreshment stands at football and basektball games. Charles Tankersley, service chairman, had charge of these for the Hi-Y, and he also conducted the Hi-Y book exchange.

Besides the usual Christmas chapel and White Gift service, the Hi-Y sponsored a family at Christmas time. Presents and food were bought for the family. Another donation was given to Father Flanagan's Boys' Town in Omaha, Nebraska.

Spring activities of the club were highlighted by the Parent and Son banquet. Installation of new officers for the coming year and farewell to the graduating seniors completed the Hi-Y's programs for the year.

Officers for 1942-43 were: Jack Roth, president; Harold Steinback, vice president; Jerry Wilhelm, secretary; Wilbur Strom, treasurer; Lloyd Copeland, devotional chairman; Roger Adams, program chairman; Charles Tankersley, service chairman; Nolan Patterson, publicity chairman; Ernest Fregon, membership chairman; Dan Jackson, world brotherhood chairman; Hal Faulconer, Student Council representative.

During the second semester two of the more active Hi-Y members, Harold Steinback and Ernest Fregon, joined the armed services. Both were officers of the club.

Seated. J. Ford, Lyon, Cooney, Miss Geyer, Hansen. Standing: Gardener, Hartman, P. Bauer, Dutton, Erickson, O'Donnell, Donley, Hoff.

Librarians Serve Camp Readers

An hour's furlough—but where to go? A CCCHS soldier thinks again and marches to the camp library which offers books, papers, and magazines for entertainment and information

Eventually, the Private learns the correct route to the book shelves; confidently, the Pfcs. pick out their reading material; tactfully, the Junior lieutenants reserve the choice magazines; and desperately, sometimes in battle, the Senior "lieuies" seize reserved history books.

The librarian guards help or look on in dismay, and then as the book-renters pass the desk to have their books stamped, they give a sigh of relief until the end of the hour when the right card has to be found for each book. Most of the time the library is quiet, so that students may study reserved material there if they wish.

The librarians, also members of our camp service organization, work in pairs for one hour during the day and are in charge of the library during that time. This year's librarians and the hours they served included:

First hour: Lila Erickson, Natalia O'Donnell Second hour: Pera Beth Bauer, Leanna Donley

Third hour: Dora Deane Hartman, Alden Lyon

Fourth hour: LaDonna Conney, Elaine Hoff Fifth hour: Jean Ford, Bob Gardner Sixth hour: Lillian Hansen, Omar Dutton Because of the growing interest in aviation, new books were purchased on this subject entitled "Air Education Series." Aviation magazines were available for interested students. A set of Americana encyclopedias was also purchased this year.

Miss Beulah Geyer is the supervisor of this department of our camp, and she spends each first hour in the library working to make its service more extensive and beneficial to us.

Trainees Take Part in War Effort

Service directly connected with America's war effort was rendered by the High School Girls Red Cross club which was organized the first semester for the purpose of giving any girl who volunteered, an opportunity to take a part in the war effort. They made surgical dressings at the local Red Cross rooms two hours after school on Wednesdays. Approximately 3,500 dressings were made to help fill local quotas.

The 19 girls who devoted the most time to

The club was sponsored by Miss Ruth Raynolds, and Miss Emma Obenland instructed and supervised the group.

Scene Four: Entertainment

Brilliant Band Merits Medals

"Marching along together"— our CCCHS "military" band deserves cheers and salutes for the grand entertainment it provides for our camp. Thanks to our band master, Wayne Snodgrass, the band is always ready to answer the "we need music" call for football and basketball games, pep chapels, parades, or programs.

The band had a total enrollment of seventy students this year with fifty-four members making up the marching band and seventy the concert group. The first part of the fall semester was devoted entirely to marching and drilling for the football games. Almost every morning, were it foul weather or fair, the band could be seen either practicing on the football field or in the street. This year various stunts were performed between halves at football games and every performance was either started or completed by the "V for Victory" formation.

After about six weeks of the marching season, the concert season began. At this time the band was increased to seventy members. Now the emphasis was put on fine playing, and to get the best out of the band, sectional rehearsals were called. Everyone was expected to practice at home, and if he didn't, it was sometimes embarrasing when he was called upon to play his part in one of the pieces in front of the whole band!

After considerable hours of ironing out difficult passages and mastering special, brilliant effects, the band appeared in three concerts, one in the late fall, in mid-winter, and in the spring.

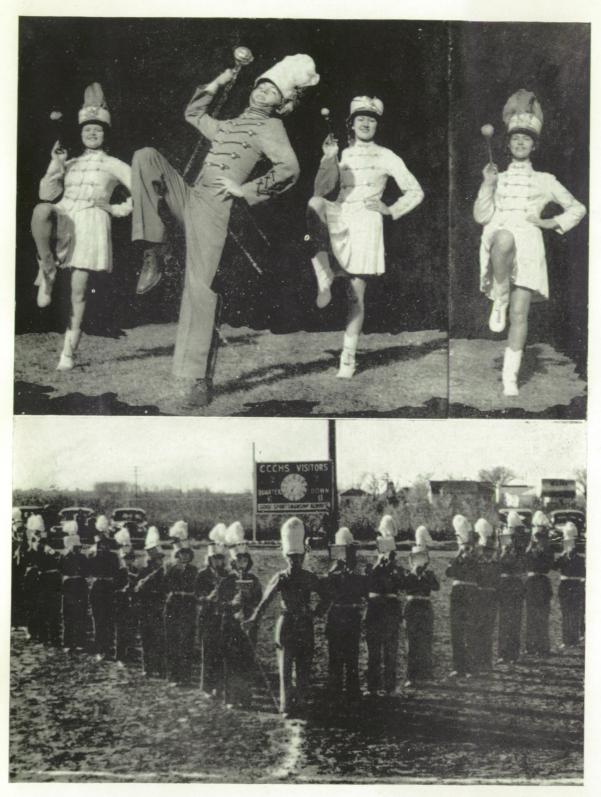

Another musical organization besides the regular band from the music department is the pep band. This is a group of musicians selected from the regular band who furnish music for the basketball games and pep chapels. The pep band is a big factor in the creation of pep and enthusiasm for our camp.

One of the outstanding performances of the pep band this year was the concert of popular music they gave. They also furnished music for the CCCHS Victory program which toured the surrounding towns.

Since the concert band did not attend a music festival this year because of transportation difficulties, Mr. Snodgrass substituted a program to take the place of it. Numerous ensembles from the different sections in the band were organized, such as the cornet trio, the woodwind quartet, brass quartet, and others. These groups furnished music on the programs of the various clubs, societies, and organizations of the school and the city. This gave the members of the band something to work for, and they had fun doing it.

Of course, we mustn't forget to mention our head drum-major, Louis Woodburn, and the three twirlers, Jean Ford, Geraldine Kent, and Ollie Melcher whose super strutting and unusual stunts received cheers from spectators.

Our high school band, with its all-year around activities, has proved to be one of the outstanding and colorful organizations of our camp.

Ford, Woodburn, Melcher, Kent strut their stuff . . . Band's symbol of Victory

Strings Supply Musical Moments

Musical entertainment is popular in every camp, and CCCHS trainees this year enjoyed the music of our own camp orchestra.

The 25 stringed instruments, under the direction of Freeman G. French and Wayne Snodgrass, were tuned each Tuesday and Thursday morning, before the members of the orchestra busily labored on a new piece or a difficult passage of music. After the string players had several numbers worked out well enough, about twenty or more band members joined them to make the orchestra complete.

On November 7, for the chapel program, the orchestra made its first appearance of the year before the er re camp, under Mr. French's direction. At a concert given in the fall by both the band and one orchestra, the orchestra played three numbers: "Sailor's Dance," "March Processional," and "Christmas Fantasy."

Besides classical music, the orchestra enjoyed playing popular songs, including the two "Hit Parade" numbers, "There Are Such Things" and "Moonlight Becomes You", which were arranged by Mr. Snodgrass. One of these was in the group of numbers the orchestra played for the Senior play.

Glimpses of the Glee Clubs

Vocal entertainment in our camp centers in the glee clubs under the direction of Paul V. Allen, but this year, because of war conditions in general, the activities of the glee clubs have been somewhat restricted. Therefore, individual and small group work was emphasized. Every six weeks the class took up a solo, after which each member of the group had an opportunity to perform the number before the glee club as an individual solo.

Besides solo work, Mr. Allen often picked members of the glee clubs to do class songs as a trio or enemble.

The girls' quartet was made up of Jane Brown, Beverly Boyd, Mary Wylie, and Barbara Thorpe; while the boys quartet consisted of Scott Milroy, Bob and Dick Dietrich, and Jim Hammel.

Jane Brown and Barbara Thorpe were the two capable accompanists.

Mr. Allen's wish is that times might return to normal so that the glee clubs might again be able to work out a well rounded program. Despite the handicaps they underwent, however, they had a lot of fun this year.

1st Row: Brown, B. Dietrich, Schlitz, Mr. Allen, Copeland, Bonar, B. Mall. 2nd. Row: Glasco, Milroy, Hammel, Robinette, Dudley, Darby. 3rd Row: Frazier, Tripp, D. Dietrich, Strom, Beeson, Todd.

Juniors Present Timely Drama

From buck privates to commander-in-chiefeveryone in camp enjoys a good play, and this year our Junior lieutenants proved their dramatic ability when they presented "It Happened Next Tuesday," on October 28. This play, so timely that it was set for the very day of presentation, was filled with American ideals and heart-warming human comedy. Miss Ruth Raynolds was director.

The play begam with Harry's (Merlyn Hill) putting up the portrait of Hugo Yates and Isabel's (Iva Cullimore) questioning him about it with the little girl attitute. Presently Jo (Mary Wylie) comes in and starts quarreling with Harry about his apparently warped ideas of democracy.

Soon Hazel (Leota Frederick) and Tom (John McAdams) arrive and inform the family that Tom is planning to miss the coming election by going on a much-looked-forward-to hunting trip. Minetta (Madonna Chaput) rushes around as fast her "very close" veins will let her to get things ready for this trip.

Roger (Lloyd Printz) comes home to tell his father good-bye and shows off his army uniform. The Reverend Lynch (Dan Jackson) and Muriel (La Donna Cooney) come to see Tom and Roger.

Before Tom goes, he has a struggle with his former employee, Deke Lockely (Paul Carnahan), and, in the presence of Aunt Clara (Genevieve Fregon), warns him against printing some propaganda for the Amfams, a fast-rising facist party.

In the second act, Tom comes home to find that the Amfam party had won the election, Roger had been killed, Rev. Lynch sent to a concentration camp, Isabel turned into a brat, Minette murdered. Jo a loyal member of the ruling party, and the rest of his family in terror.

The third act, however, reveals that the preceding act was just a dream that Tom had. (But the moose head which was in the dream and still remained on the stage during the third act left everyone bewildered.) The play ends happily with Tom's staying home to defeat the Amfams, Harry's realizing the true meaning of Americanism, and Roger and Muriel's announcing their marriage.

Miss Ruth Raynolds, director, and the cast deserve commendation for their excellent presentation of this timely drama.

Senior Actors Delight Audiences

The orchestra has stopped playing! Cavin and Donley have their fencing foils ready to go. Behind stage, the cast stands ready but a little scared, and the audience is waiting expectantly. The curtain is drawn, and the show begins.

Chuck (Lyman Cavin) and Penny (Leanna Donley) enter stabbing at each other with realistic effect. The characters are caught in the plot of the play, and are having trials and tribulations that come whenever a fifteen-year-old girl is concerned.

Mrs. Wood (Lillian Hansen) waits for her cue and at the right moment walks into the room to answer the telephone and to tell Chuck and Penny to get ready for dinner.

With a jerk on her slip so that it shows fully two inches below her skirt, Effie (Jeannette Guenther) stalks on the stage to receive the menu for dinner in her blunt way.

Dr. Woods (Alden Lyon) arrives home from his office and begins work on a convention speech but is intermittently disturbed.

Mervin (Jim Dudley) comes home from college with Roger (Buell Schlitz) his sophisticated friend, and Elmer (Don Nyberg), the hired man who acts like one of the family, carries in their suitcases.

Munching an apple, Millie Lou (Lorraine Todd) enters to make things more complicated by being a general pest, and Mr. Harris (Lloyd Copeland), Chuck's father, arrives a little later for dinner.

Julie (Margaret Ramsey) comes in during the second act and greatly upsets Penny's plans to make a hit with Roger, but Penny finally realizes that Chuck is her real heart-throb.

And so things run smoothly on the stage as the show is on, but not so back stage. It's "When do I go on?" "How does my next speech begin?" "Gee Whiz, I can't remember a thing tonight! . . . Where are those suitcases, I put them right here!" etc, etc. Donley is supposed to leave the stage, and then in a fraction of a second, return with a mud pack on her face and her hair done up Hindu-style. It's a seeming impossibility—but she does it.

Even with mashed potatoes for vanilla icecream, mud packs, makeup, and pecking on the piano, the actors played their parts exceptionally well under the direction of Miss Blanche Perkins.

"June Mad" was a grand success from the standpoint of direction, acting, and finance.

Standing, Guenther, Nyberg, Copeland, Dudley, M. Ramsey, Schiltz, L. Todd. Seated: Cavin, Donley, Lyon, Hansen.

Carnivalites Buy Bonds

Our "Stage Door Canteen," the gym to you rookies, is the place for various games and entertainment for the Yanks of CCCHS, but the most gala affair of the year was the 1942 Victory Carnival. Dressed up in red, white, and blue, the gym attracted many who were "allout" for patriotism.

This year a prize of five dollars in defense stamps was awarded for the most attractive stand. The commercial classes received the prize for their original and timely booth called the "Second Front." It was decorated with miniature soldiers waging a furious battle on land, sea, and in the air.

At the Juniors' stand, the merrymakers became temporary commandoes and, furnished with a high powered bee-bee gun, they banged away at the Axis agents to their heart's content. The freshmen booth also appealed to the patriotic fever of the crowds by providing balls to throw down the throats of Benito, Adolf, and Hirohito.

For only a nickel your fate was revealed at the FTA fortune teller's tent, and a flattering profile silhouette was cut at the senior booth. Of course, no CCCHS carnival is complete without such standbys as the GR bingo stand, the Annual Staff penny pitch, and the Student Council novelty stand.

The Promoter Telegraph company carried or, a thriving business, keeping people in touch with each other, and the delicious odors rising from the Home Ec stand reminded the sight-seers of their fast increasing appetites.

At nine o'clock, all the stands in the gym closed, and a variety show was presented in the auditorium. The highlight of the program was the presentation of the Homecoming King and Queen. Their majesties, Mary Ellen Pfizenmaier and Charles Patridge, with their attendants, Arliene and Warren Tripp, reigned over the carnival festivities.

A hilarious skit called "The Sewing Circle" was given by seven glamorous gals. It wasn't long, however, before the audience saw through the make_up and discovered seven CCCHS "he-

Tripp, Partridge, Pfizenmaier, Tripp

men" instead.

Betty Mugler and Jack Roth swung out on one of their always popular arrangements of current tunes, and were accompanied by the fancy drumming of Dale Dugan. More current tunes were played by a clarinet trio and Stanley Darby at the piano gave a snappy version of "Dark Town Strutter's Ball."

Those two little girls, Iris Dugan and Iris Hahn, sang "Playmates," and a girls trio harmonized on "This is Worth Fighting For."

A faculty quartet composed of George C. Stevens, H. S. Unger, Freeman French, and Paul Allen sang a rousing rendition of "Anchors Aweigh." A ministrel show, presented in true black face style by the Alumni, concluded the program. It was complete in everything from comedians to a banjo player, and spirituals singing.

After the program the concessions in the gym were reopened until midnight.

This year the profit received at the Carnival was invested in war bonds for the various organizations and classes. For this reason, the 1942 Carnival served a double purpose. Through the effort and planning of the Student Council and the different organizations and classes, this year's Carnival was biggger and better than ever before, for it was truly a Victory Carnival.

Buck Privates Enlist for Training

Buck privates of the CCCHS military are the Freshmen. Green as army recruits, they made their first entry into our camp life last September. Even though they had come from being the "big shots" of grade school to the "underdogs" of high school, it was quite a thrill.

Their initial morning was spent staring and being stared at by their "superiors." Arnidst the hustle and bustle that accompanies every "first day," most of them finally made it to chapel, after which they were free for the afternoon. The second day wasn't so bad, and in spite of a few unfortunates getting into the wrong classes, everything sailed along fairly smoothly.

Soon after this, under the leadership of Loren Barker and Miss Buelah Geyer, class sponsors, the Freshmen elected their officers for the year. Frank Wylie was elected president; Allan Knepper, vice president; Edwin Hedstrom, secretary; Iris Todd, treasurer; Mert Schwensen, student council representative; and Neill Humfeld, sergeant-at-arms.

These officers were soon put to work organizing a booth for the carnival. They came up with a clever idea and produced the "Throw at the Axis" booth which proved quite successful. Iris Hahn and Iris Dugan did a cute number for the carnival program, called "Playmates."

The class was quite honored when Arliene Tripp was chosen as attendant to the Homecoming and Carnival Queen. Donna Riek, another freshie, was elected as cheerleader this year, and her pep and enthusiasm made her a good one.

Because of the tire and gas shortage, the Freshmen athletes learned to play six-man-football. They had all their games with the varsity teams of small towns nearby instead of playing eleven man football with other freshmen teams as had been the practice in previous years. John Wilkerson, fresh coach, felt that the boys had done some mighty fine work and showed much promise for the future. Outstanding boys on the team were: Gene and Gerald Martin, Frank Wylie, and Jimmy Sheilds.

The Freshmen basketball team also played small towns in the neighboring vicinity. The boys, coached by Loren Barker, practiced in the gym of the Lincoln grade school. Two freshmen who got to play with the second team were Frank Wylie and Orran Fowles.

During the year, a number of freshies showed their dramatic ability by acting in Miss Blanche Perkins' speech play, "Bulging Muscles," and the Christmas play, "Why the Chimes Rang." Those taking part in "Bulging Muscles" were: Frank Obenland, Betty Garris, Neill Humfeld, Amy McCown, Helen Morton, Jimmy Shields, and Darlene Ford. The Freshmen characters in the Christmas play were: Mert Schwensen, Marilyn Heikes, Arliene Tripp, and Velma Mugler.

The climax of the year was the annual class picnic which was held in the spring. They had a swell time playing games and eating, and when they finally went home, they were a tired bunch.

P7C's Excell in Scholarship

The "Privates, first class" have had an outstanding year in our camp and have really distinguished themselves. Their company has been conspicuous in scholarship, sports, music, and school organizations. Since they are soon to receive their Junior Lieutenant's bars, it is only fair that some of their sophomore exploits should be recorded.

That the Privates, first class, had an excellent class scholastically was proved more than once as they led the honor roll.

They were a whiz on the gridiron, too. There were boys who could play every position. Walter Hartman, Hubert Unger, Dale Tolin, Dick Harris, Ivan Beadleston, Bob Gardner, Leland McNeil, and Wayne Hafner were on the varsity squad.

The sophomores had real sports follow-thru in basketball and track. Not only had they more boys on the basketball squad than any other class, but they were also near the top of the list on points scored. Sophomores out for basketball were Hubert Unger, Dale Tolin, Roger Beems, Bill Keeling, Walter Hartman, Dick Harris, Charles Mullen, and Bob Gardner.

Sophomores rated high as musicians, too. Jerry Wilhelm, Jerry Hall, Mary McIlvain, Dona White, and Dale Tolin played in small groups as well as the band. Dona White and Betty Chestnut played a piano duet on one of the first chapel programs of the year, proving their ability.

At the beginning of the year, the sophomores chose L. C. Smith and Lyle C. Read for sponsors.

Officers of the Pfc's were. Hal Faulconer, president; Dona Jean White, vice-president; Marilyn Mugler, secretary; Ben Blanken, treasurer; Charles Mullen, sergeant-at-arms; and Jerry Wilhelm, Student Council representative.

Ir. Lieutenants Prominent in Camp

We now present to you the Junior lieutenants of our camp. With an enrollment of 110 students, the Junior class was responsible for a lot of the pep and enthusiasm created in the various camp activities, and they were well represented in school organizations.

There were three girls on the GR cabinet and four boys on the Hi-Y cabinet besides several who were officers of other organizations, on the Student Council, and on the annual staff. Edwin Craig, Wallace Fowles, Neal Glasco, Maurice Martin, Nolan Patterson, and Wayne Testerman were football lettermen. In basketball, Dale Dugan, Jack Reboul, and Wayne Testerman furnished plenty of fight for the second team, while Lloyd Printz played on the first team. Many juniors were enrolled in the musical department and added "oomph" to both the band and orchestra. Madonna Chaput was a cheer leader who led our camp in yells.

Four juniors—John McAdams, Nolan Patterson, Dorothy Pierson, and Evelyn Yakel—were elected to the National Honor Society.

The real test of the Juniors' talents, and the hit of the season, was the Junior play," It Happened Next Tuesday." It was a real success, under the capable direction of Miss Ruth Raynolds.

The Junior lieuies had a big financial problem this year in giving the Junior-Senior banquet. They earned some of the necessary money by selling candy and ice cream bars in the halls at noons and after school. This money was added to the fund already created by the Junior play and the savings from previous years.

In keeping with the times, "Keep'em Flying" was chosen for the banquet theme, and the Juniors had a lot of fun planning the affair for the Seniors. Banquet committee chairmen were: Donna Baker, food; Nolan Patterson, entertainment; Mary Wylie, decorations; Iva Cullimore, invitation; Marlyn Hill, staging; Warren Kerby and Omar Dutton, reception. The cabinet, consisting of Jack Reboul, president; Elaine Carlson, vice-president; Iva Cullimore, secretary; Omar Dutton, treasurer; Dorothy Pierson, Student Council representative; and Nolan Patterson, sergeant-at-arms, acted as the steering and financial committee for the banquet.

Miss Lois Niles and Freeman C. French were class sponsors.

The Junior lieutenants are now ready for promotion and expect to take the lead in school affairs next year when they are the Senior lieutenants of our camp.

70 The Seniors

The last year of our high school career has come to a close—for us seniors not an ordinary year, but one that will ever be cherished in our hearts. How well we remember our first days at CCCHS, clumsily stumbling through the halls and dizzily wandering into wrong classrooms. And how fast the years have flown by, each year bringing more opportunities and success than the one before.

This year will be remembered not only as a prosperous year, but a year in which we have come to realize how fortunate we are to live in a country where democracy prevails. Nor will we forget our own boys who have joined Uncle Sam in the fight to keep our country independent and democratic. To you boys we say, "Good Luck and God Bless You".

Fellow seniors, the future holds a place for each of us. At our tasks, large or small according to our abilities, we have the confidence and assurance of success in whatever field we choose to enter.

Elaine Mall President Class of '43

Sr. Lieutenants Ready for Action

-what Senior lieutenant upon "Memories" hearing that song doesn't recall memories of his past four years of high school; memories that he treasures not only as passing incidents, but as vivid evidences of a student's life. From initiation to cap and gown, our class has stuck together through plays, banquets, grade cards, fights and romances, building friendships and developing personalities. We have what it takes to make a class successful, and we know we will carry on this success after graduation.

It's hard to enumerate memories in a cold way, but let's take up the highlights of our gradual "promotion" and see how we reached the respectful position of Senior lieutenants.

Do you remember, seniors, when we first joined the ranks of the CCCHS army of students? We were a little uncertain at first, and a little afraid of our commanding officers and instructors, but after a week or two of drill we got the hang of it. Before the year was over we were known as the "big shots" of the school, as we lead the honor roll time after time and proudly displayed our talents. We won the carnival king and queen election with Dora Deane Hartman and Donald Baldwin as our candidates. This year saw the beginning of all our ambitions, hopes, and dreams, and our three years of high school yet to come stretched before us invitingly.

Hardly before we knew it, we were sophomores. We really felt grown-up this year, and began to take more of the affairs of the school into our own hands. Remember the fun in English making up those puns and the Latin club we organized in fifth hour Caesar. Twentysix sophies were initiated into the new speech class, which is now compulsory. In the spring, they took a trip to Lawrence with "Phoebe" in the school bus. Eight of the class were awarded letters in debate. Of course, the waiters and waitresses remember "Anchors Away" at the banquet, and how difficult it was to learn to march and salute together.

"The South American Way" proved popular

when we, as juniors, went south of the border and entertained the seniors with a gala and magnificent fiesta. The annual Junior-Senior banquet and the good neighbor policy combined to make our greatest venture a grand success. After white-washing walls, constructing palm trees, stringing red and green lights, trying to make paper donkeys stand up, hunting flowers and shrubbery, reviving the faint-hearted ones after we discovered the snake that came in with the shrubs, and pushing thumb tacks for days—we were mighty tired when the eventful night arrived, but we were happy because ours was the "best banquet yet."

The Junior play, "Relatives by Affection." showed cur ability in dramatic production that year. Six members of our class were elected as juniors to the National Honor society and received recognition on commencement night.

Every class has its heroes and heroines, and ours is no exception. Medals of honor should go to our outstanding students for their participa-tion in numerous fields of "battle". We seniors have won special recognition in practically all activities throughout our four years of high school, including band, orchestra, glee club, twirling, and debate extra-curriculars.

And now, do we need mention the events that have made our last year of high school the ending of a perfect four years? "June Mad", our sneak day, senior rings, being entertained by the juniors, are our outstanding memories as seniors.

As unusual freshmen, ambitious sophomores. and industrious juniors in turn, we have well earned our title of successful seniors. When the taps of our four years of high school has sounded the night of commencement, we will be reminded of these memories. We will regret leaving CCCHS, leaving the friends that we have grown to know so well, and leaving the scene of a good many joys and sorrows of our But we will put these thoughts aside, and think of the future ahead of us-the future for which CCCHS has prepared us.

Fighting Tigers Engage in Battle

One of the real battlefields of our camp, the gridiron, is the scene of furious combat as the Tigers go "all out" for victory over opposing forces. L. C. Smith trained the Tiger football forces this year, replacing Carl A. Nelson, who accepted a coaching position at Kansas State College after 12 years at CCCHS.

Eight lettermen were on hand, as fall training began, to bolster the Tiger football machine. They were Dick Brenner, Lyman Cavin, Jim Dudley, Harold Elsasser, Wallace Fowles, Neal Glasco, Max O'Donnell, and Hubert Unger. But the Tiger squad lacked reserve power, and the Bengals won but two out of ten games of the season's schedule. They were victorious in their season opener with Beloit, and they later beat Herington by a smoothering score of 24 to 6. The battle with Junction City was a heartbreaker as the Tigers lost by only one point, 6 to 7.

The fighting Tiger team had a line this year made up mostly of sophomores and juniors. Next year these boys ought to make up a nucleus around which the General of CCCHS football forces can build a battalion invincible on the field.

Seven boys ended their football career at CCCHS by graduation this year: Dick Brenner, Jim Dudley, Max O'Donnell, Bob Beems, Lyman Cavin, Charles Partridge, and Harold

ers and CKL sports writers as an outstanding fullback. His smart offensive tactics, hard hitting plunges, and long field runs were combined with a punting ability hardly excelled during this year's competition. Dick is a four year letterman.

JIM DUDLEY received a shoulder injury during his junior year and didn't do much playing thereafter, although he was out some of the time his last two years. He always showed plenty of fight while he was in the game, and he received two letters.

MAX O'DONNELL, a two year letterman, was placed this year on the CKL all-conference second team at one of the guard positions. "Red" was the only boy from CCCHS to get this honor. By team vote Max was elected co-Captain of the 1942 Tiger squad.

BOB BEEMS, a shifty halfback in spite of his size, did some fine ball carrying this year. He is noted for his well-aimed passes and for ability as a good quarterback. The fact that he shared this year's team captaincy with Max testifies his team mates' esteem for his spirit and ability. Bob received one letter.

LYMAN CAVIN, another halfback, made the crowd roar more than once with an unexpected run. Lyman is a fast player and has earned two major letters.

CHARLES PARTRIDGE, a transfer from Illinois this year, played both tackle and halfback. He did some creditable playing and passcatching this year, and earned one letter at HAROLD ELSASSER has earned two letters by playing on the Tiger first team for two years. He is one of those boys who is as tough as they come is physique and fighting spirit.

The Tiger "Bees," coached by H. S. Unger, came through with flying colors this year, as they won the only two battles they fought. This is the best the young Tigers have done for a number of years. When the Bees went to Manhattan, they won their first game from the young Indians by a score of 7 to 6. They also whipped the Clifton eleven, 7 to 6.

7iger Kittens

This department, coached by John Wilkerson, took up six-man football this year. The Kittens played four games, and the best they did was to tie one. "Wilkie" directed these young recruits who played this new game for the first time.

One of the best players the Kittens had was Neil Humfeld, who played the position of stationary tackle.

The position of Student Manager was filled by three different boys: "Bud" Logan, "Buck" Tripp, and Dale Dugan.

Basketeers Fight for Victory

H. S. Unger, Commanding General of the fighting basketball squad of CCCHS, as usual watched with interest the inter-class sham battles staged soon after football season ended. The basketball tournament between CCCHS classes gives him an idea about the boys who might rate squad positions in inter-school contests on the hardwood.

Coach Unger built this years basketball team around three returning lettermen, assigning most of the other positions to juniors and sophomores who should be well experienced for another year of play. B. Beems, Brenner, and Milroy were the senior lettermen of the first squad.

Although the Tigers won only two games of their eighteen game schedule this season, their playing improved immeasurably as the year progressed. Coach Unger should really have a team next year with four experienced lettermen returning and a number of promising reserves.

Bob Beems was elected honorary team captain of the 1942-43 Tiger basketball squad at the close of the season.

The boy who took over the position of student manager this year during basketball season was Lyman Cavin. Lyman was student manager, and he also played basketball with the first team as a reserve during the latter part of the season. He did a handy job at both.

First Squad Lettermen:

BOB BEEMS: senior, forward and guard, 2 letters, season's captain by election. Bob was noted for his ability to handle the ball. He led the Tiger offense, and provided a continued offensive spark that kept the Tigers' will-to-battle-to-the-finish from being smothered out by strong opposition.

DICK BRENNER: senior, center and guard, 2 letters. Although important to Tiger defense, Dick also was a strong offensive player, being high point man for a number of games during the season.

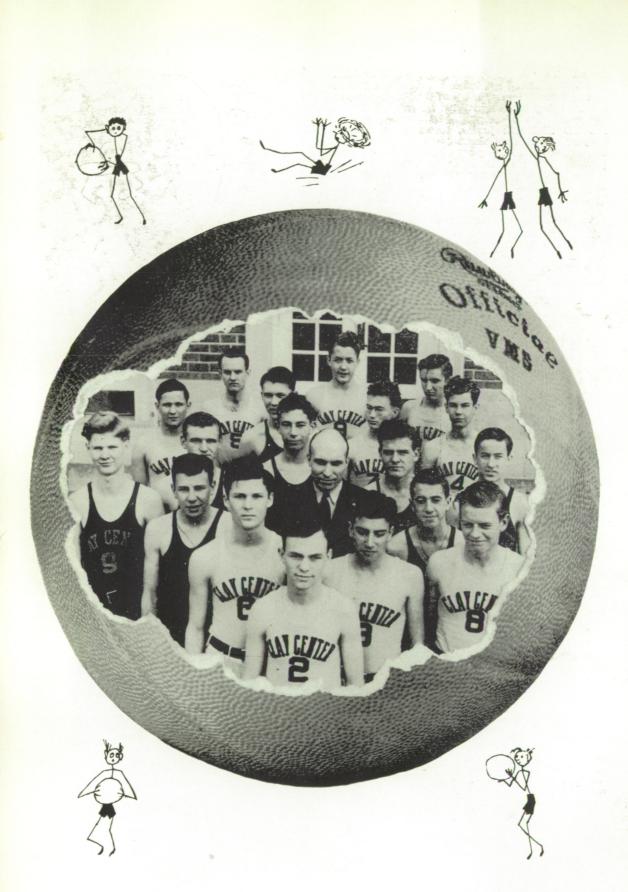

SCOTT MILROY: senior, guard, 2 letters. Scott was a boy who really went after the rebounds—and got them! He was one of the best long shots of the team.

DALE TOLIN: sophomore, forward, 1 letter. Dale is a tall, left-handed boy who was in there to do his best. He has the physical attributes of a fine basketball player, and his experience this year will stand him in good stead on future CCCHS basketball teams.

HUBERT UNGER: sophomore, guard, 1 letter. "Hube" was the defensive boy on the Tiger squad. Very few offensive players got by him. BILL KEELING: sophomore, forward, 1 letter. Bill is one who apparently has a "natural eye" for shooting baskets When he gets "hot" on the court, his scoring can hardly be stopped. LLOYD PRINTZ: junior, forward, 1 letter. Lloyd was injured in the class tournament at the beginning of the year and was not able to play until late in the season. He received a major letter by earning two reserves.

DALE DUGAN: junior, guard, 1 letter. Dale is one of Clay's scientific players. He is a good defensive player and he uses his height to good advantage. He lettered with two reserves.

WAYNE TESTERMAN: junior, forward, 1 letter. Wayne is small, but he makes up for that with his speed and fight. He also lettered with two reserves.

Tiger Bees

The CCCHS Tiger "Bees" on the basketball court made up one of the scrappiest clubs of our athletic department this year. They had a better record than the first team, as they won three games: with Concordia, Abilene, and Longford. Since most of the boys were sophomores, they gained valuable experience that they can put to good use next year.

Track Squad Try for Records

The 1943 tracksters started their regular training program last March to get in shape for the spring schedule ahead of them. This will be the first year for boys to use the cinder track at the new stadium, so they should be able to do some good work.

The schedule for 1943 was for some time indefinite, but it included meets with Junction City, Chapman, the Beloit Relays, and the Central Kansas League meets at Manhattan. Dual meets with Manhattan and Abilene were tentatively on the schedule.

The returning lettermen this year were: Dick Brenner, weights; Jim Dudley, high jump; Lloyd Copeland, half mile run; Herbert Geer, mile run; Neil Glasco, hurdles; Merlyn Hill, half mile run; Dan McClean, 440 yd. dash; Nolan Patterson, hurdles; Jack Reboul, 440 yd. dash, broad jump; Wayne Testerman, dashes; Louis Woodburn, 440 yd. dash.

The 1942 track team was one of the best CCCHS has ever had. Coach Nelson took three boys to the state meet in Emporia, and Clay ranked sixth, garnering ten points. Scott Milroy took second in the mile, and Raymond Orr took second in the 440, second in the broad jump, and fifth in the 220. The Tigers lost only one dual meet last year, to Chapman—when three of the men were at the K U. Relays—winning over Abilene and Junction City. The CCCHS thinclads took first at the Concordia quad, seconds at the Manhattan quad and the Beloit Relays, third in the CKL, and third in the state Regional.

Raymond Orr broke two school records last year by broad jumping 23 ft. ½ in. and by lowering the former 440 yd. dash record to 50.2.

Boys who are not out for track this year but who lettered last year include: Lyman Cavin, Bob and Dick Dietrich, Wallace Fowles, Scott Milroy, Max O'Donnell, and Hoyt Woodbury.

Debaters Enter Word Battles

Soldiers fight to kill, Tigers fight to win, and debaters fight to prove an aye or nay answer to a question as they match wits with those on the opposite side.

This year, the affirmative members of the CCCHS debate squad upheld the terms of the 1942-1943 question, Resolved: that a federal world government should be established. The negative side argued against such a plan by showing its disadvantages, or presenting another plan for post war world organization.

The debate squad could probably give our present government leaders an idea or two about post war planning. The affirmative's plan for a union of nations includes a world court, a police force, elimination of all trade barriers between countries, and a period of "rehabilitation" following the war in which to put this plan into effect. The negative, on the other hand, could show the "superior" advantages of a world society, or a revised league of nations.

Jim Dudley, Lila Erickson, Jeannette Guenther, Elaine Hoff, Lois Moon, and Barbara Thorpe were the students "out" for debate this year.

Since wartime transportation facilities caused debate activities to be somewhat curtailed, the squad did not attend any regularly scheduled tournaments during the year. However, Jim Dudley, Lila Erickson, Jeannette Guenther, and Barbara Thorpe participated in the annual CKL tournament at Abilene January 23, with more experienced debaters from Chapman, Junction City, Salina, McPherson, and Abilene. Clay placed sixth in the tourney, winning one out of ten scheduled debates, as the affirmative team defeated Junction's negative in the fifth round.

Linn's first team met Clay in a non-decision debate February 17, at CCCHS. This was the only "practice" debate the Clay team had during the season.

Lila Erickson and Barbara Thorpe received their third letters in debate this year; Jeannette Guenther her second; and Jim Dudley, a first year letter.

Miss Blanche Perkins, the new debate coach, had the job of organizing the debate team and scheduling debates with other schools and attending tournaments under the existing difficulties of the times.

In spite of decisions this year, the debaters' battles were not a total loss, for members of the team progressed in debate technique, have a broader out-look on the question and can talk more intelligently on post war planning, a subject of great importance to every American citizen.

Selectees Get Special Training

A soldier volunteers to fight in the armed forces of his country because he values his home, his citizenship, and his government. But before anyone can consider his government valuable enough to fight for, he must understand for what he is fighting. In order to give the boys of the state of Kansas an opportunity to study our government, to understand it, to respect it, and to preserve it, the American Legion organized a Sunflower Boys' State in Wichita in 1937. Two years later a Sunflower Girls' State was instituted by the American Legion Auxiliary which closely followed the general plan of the boys' organization. Girls State was first held in Topeka but was later changed to Lawrence. The delegates remain at Wichita or Lawrence for one week in June.

The youths who attend either of these especially created "states" become the citizens who elect their city, county, and state officials and have their own Senate and House of Representatives. The citizens are divided into approximately six cities whose governments follow the mayor-council plan. The county is formed by the union of two cities, and officials are elected to represent both. The whole group, ranging from 200 to 500, make up the state. Only two political parties are represented, the Nationalists and the Federalists. These parties perform the general tasks of any political party. each writing its own platform, and each trying to secure the most votes for its candidates. Each party publishes its own newspaper until after the state election when they dissolve into phases of government work, the staters realize the advantages of our democratic government and also learn the duties and obligations of government officials.

Outstanding individuals and well-known persons in government and social life visit the Girls and Boys States and are often featured on the programs.

While attending Girls State, the girls live in sorority houses on the K. U. campus. House parties, midnight snacks, telephone calls, and serenaders all add to the fun. The boys stay in one of the Wichita high schools and have their own kind of fun there.

To attend Girls or Boys State is considered an honor and a privilege. The delegates who attend are chosen by their qualities of scholarship, sportsmanship, leadership, and willingness for service. Only Junior girls are sent as representatives for CCCHS, and in 1942 Vivian Blanken, Leanna Donley, Lillian Hansen, and Margaret Ramsey were sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, the Business and Professional Women's club, and a Clay Center individual. The boys are chosen from the Sophomore and Junior classes and are sponsored by the local Lions club, Rotary club, and the American Legion. Richard Brenner, Jack Roth, Harold Steinbach, and Nolan Patterson attended the 1942 session of Boys State, and Jim Hammel and Bob Myers were CCCHS representatives in 1941.

The knowledge and appreciation of our government brought back to the community by girl and boy staters tend to strengthen it in good citizenship, leadership, and service.

Twenty Receive Service Pins

As the boys in the armed forces win medals for distinguished service rendered to our country, so the students in our camp receive medals for their outstanding records in their high school career. They receive the National Honor Society pin for their SCHOLARSHIP, standing in the upper third of their class, LEADERSHIP, CHARACTER, and SERVICE.

A faculty committee of three teachers with George C. Stevens, principal, and H. S. Unger, vice-principal chose ten seniors and four juniors for membership this year.

To receive the National Honor Society pin is one of the highest honors available to high school students.

Juniors chosen this year were Evelyn Yakel,

Dorothy Pierson, Nolan Patterson, and John McAdams.

Seniors selected for membership were Beatrice Tuggle, Phylis Oetinger, Betty Mugler, Elaine Mall, Lillian Hansen, Jim Hammel, Vonda Gates, Jean Fullerton, Blanche Bergstrom, and Roger Adams.

Seniors who were chosen as members of the society last year include Harold Steinbach, Jack Roth, Margaret Ramsey, Bob Myers, Leanna Donley, and Vivian Blanken.

Not more than fifteen percent of the Senior class and five percent of the Junior class are eligible for membership each year.

These students receive their pins and are recognized on Commencement night.

The Orange and Black

As the States must always honor
The Stars and Stripes they wave
And as all the Kansans favor
The Sunflower strong and brave,
For a staunch and stout defender
Our school shall never lack
For our hearts must aye be tender
Toward the Orange and the Black.

We are always true and loyal

To dear C. C. C. H. S.

Though our grades are far from royal

With sorrow we confess,

And how oft in the trying test time

Our brains we vainly rack

Yet we'll ever cheer in rest time

For the Orange and the Black.

Fleeting years so swiftly bear us

From the school we love so dear,
When the trophies won in contest

Make the triumph of the years.

Memories stealing softly o'er us

Draw the mystic curtain back,
We hear the shouts of victory

For the Orange and the Black.

Messages from Mr. Penney and Mr. Sams

To the J. C. Penney Company men in the armed forces, on land, on sea, and in the air: every one of us is back of you in your struggle to protect the principles that have made our country great.

My praper is that you will all come back to your homes, to your friends, and, if it is your desire, to the Penney

Company.
It is with deep humility that we think of you. There are those among you who have served at Corregidor and Bataan—battles that will stand out in history along with the Alamo, Gettysburg, and

Valley Forge.

And there is courage and faith in our thoughts of you. We, who have worked alongside of you, know that you will

Your example is a constant challenge to us at home to do whatever we can to help you win.

May the Good Father of all of us be with you. May he bless you and keep you. That is my prayer.

There can be no half-way measures about this war. To win quickly and completely is the only objective of all Americans, everywhere.

Not all of us can come to direct grips with our common enemies. But all of us, every last one of us, can fight in the job to which we have been called.

As I write, over one hundred billions dollars have been budgeted for our next year's war effort. That incredibly huge sum, although it means nothing until put to work, nevertheless does serve to indicate the magnitude of our joint task.

To you Penney men on the fighting fronts I can say no more heartening thing than that we back home will do our uttermost for you. We will supply you with the very best and the very most of everything for war but, in addition, we will do our best to maintain your home front and your jobs, so you may have something worthwhile to come back to.
