

The purpose of this project was to help grow awareness of depression that is often experienced by the elderly fold in nursing homes. High school kids are usually oblivious to crises like this. The elderly are often forgotten about and our news story can help remind the entire community on the situation. This project ties back to the Human Services Pathway through the wellness check of all the residents of the nursing home. The video reaches the viewer and tries to teach leadership skills. Research on the topic was competed through the National Alliance on Mental Illness, it gave our group a clear understanding of the statistics of the situation in the United States.
