Classroom Happenings

Kindergarten

Kindergarten has been busy writing this nine weeks! We are adding and subtracting and getting ready to be First graders! We are reading books and sounding out words and continuing to learn more and more sight words...keep practicing those sight words! Looking forward to Spring Break next week and our Easter Egg hunt next month. Be looking for the Graduation note and cap and gown order form soon!

First Grade

1st grade has been learning how to write opinion writings. They wrote if they would like to be president or not and then gave details as to why or why not. In math we have been working hard on math facts. We will have a facts test every week. Please keep looking at your child's homework binder and signing every night. Also in math, we are starting to add with two two-digit numbers. We are so proud of the reading progress each student is making!!! Keep up the good work!

Second Grade

Second grade has been learning how to express our opinions in writing during the third nine weeks. We have learned all about measurement, and are looking forward to exploring graphs, telling time, and learning to count money. Second graders have been working through their sight word lists and becoming better readers every day. We have been enjoying learning about important people in history and look forward to learning so much more before the year is out.

THIRD GRADE

Third Grade has been working hard on equivalent fractions and elapsed time in math this past nine weeks. Students are starting to work on graphs along with reviewing previous math skills for the 4th nine weeks. In science, students have been assigned an animal project that is due in April. In social studies, nearly every 3rd grader has become part of the 50 states club. Students have nearly covered all the continents at this point, and will soon come back to Tennessee to focus on facts about Tennessee. It will also be time to start practicing for the Tennessee Program before long. :)

FOURTH GRADE

The 4th grade has been practicing opinion writing. We have been learning about fractions, and we are preparing for our next math benchmark test. We are also studying the American Revolution. In 4-H, we are having a cornbread baking contest this month. All 4th graders are encouraged to read for 20 minutes each night.
