

WHY YOUR STUDENT SHOULD GO TO COLLEGE

New experiences, people & places

Whether your student goes to a community college near your hometown, a state school a few hours away, or a private school in another state, she will have the opportunity to meet people and make friends from different places. She will also have the chance to take classes in subjects that interest her, and even study abroad in another country if she chooses.

Money

Education pays! College graduates earn 60% more than a high school graduate, and those with advanced degrees earn two to three times as much as high school graduates. The jobs that require a college degree are more likely to have benefits and retirement plans, as well.

Independence

In college, your student can have control over the classes he wishes to take and how he will spend his time (a little scary, I know!) Your student might move into a college residence hall or dorm, or an apartment or house with friends. Colleges offer help in taking on these new responsibilities, however, so he will always have support.

Discover passions

Your student can get involved on campus with student clubs, athletics, and community service. She might become a radio DJ, join a fraternity or sorority, or run for student government. There are also hundreds or even thousands of courses to choose from at college – she can find out what he's interested in and choose his major and potential future career!

Job security & satisfaction

Individuals with college degrees are more likely to have and keep their jobs, with lower unemployment rates than those with only a high school degree. In addition, having a college degree gives individuals more jobs to choose from and the opportunity to choose a career that is interesting and meaningful.

DID YOU KNOW?

Individuals with a college degree are more likely to engage in physical activity and report being in good health.

COLLEGE MYTHS (AND REALITIES)

MYTH: College is only for the smartest students.

REALITY: There are many different colleges and postsecondary programs available. Some colleges require specific classes or high grades to be accepted, while others have no requirements beyond graduating from high school. College is an option for everyone – but the more challenging classes and the better grades your student gets, the more options she or he will have, in addition to greater access to scholarships.

PARENT CHECKLIST

- Talk to your student about the importance of college.
Ask her the reasons she is interested in going to college, and what careers she might be interested in.
- Encourage your student to do well in school.
Let him know that you expect good grades, and that you expect him to take challenging classes. Ask about homework, tests, and other assignments to stay connected with what she is doing in school.
- Encourage your student to get involved.
Suggest sports, school clubs, volunteer opportunities, or part-time jobs that reflect her interests.
- Talk to teachers and staff.
Connect with the school during conferences, open houses, school activities and events or just because. Consider volunteering at the school or chaperone a field trip.
