To whom it may concern:

Medfield's Model United Nations club is in its sixth year now under the advisory of myself, as well as the leadership of Mia Remington and Julie Karam. The goal of Model UN (or MUN) is to teach students non-conflict negotiation of real world issues, similar to the practices of the United Nations. MUN places students in educational simulations and academic activities that enable them to learn about diplomacy, international relations, and the role of the United Nations. This is primarily done by participating in Model UN conferences with other schools in the area and representing various countries tasked with dealing with a particular world issue or concern. Ten members of the MUN club have opted to participate in an upcoming overnight conference between November 11-13 hosted by Brown University in Providence, RI. Students will be staying at the nearby Omni Providence Hotel on Friday and Saturday night and commuting to the university each morning via shuttle system provided by the conference itself. I have included a description of the conference from the Brown Model UN Conference website:

On behalf of the Brown Model United Nations program, we are honored to invite you to the Twenty-Sixth Annual Session of the Brown University Simulation of the United Nations (BUSUN), which will be held on the Brown University campus from November 11-13, 2022. We are proud to say that BUSUN will welcome over 900 students and 100 advisors to our campus in November. While BUSUN continues to grow and evolve each year, we are excited to continue some of the traditions that we believe make our conference special. Delegations return year after year because of our small committee sizes, informed and passionate chairs, and welcoming atmosphere. As a Secretariat and staff, we value diplomacy and do our best to create a productive and positive experience for all delegates and advisors.

Ten students and one faculty advisor will be attending which include:

Mia Remington	Stella McDermott	Maxim Harding	Mrs. Rachel Buckingham
Julie Karam	Abigail O'Neil	Claire Brodeur
Matthew DiGregorio	Riddhi Paithankar
Parker Cole	Johanna Brooslin

Thank you for your support of this wonderful educational opportunity!

Sincerely,

Rachel Buckingham
