Communications

Communication among or between participants, parents, coaches, advisors and school personnel is encouraged. The following criteria should be followed to enhance this communication.

- Coaches/Advisors are required to operate under an open door policy where they will candidly respond to questions and concerns from either the participant or parent.
- If the participant or parent has a question or concern about the program, the question or concern should be brought directly to the coach/advisor.
- Contact with the coach/advisor should be during normal school hours. (not immediately after or before a contest/event)
- Coaches/Advisors should schedule the meeting with the participant and/or parents in a private setting.
- Communication, by all parties, will be carried out in a rational, calm, mature discussion with respect shown to all.
- Coaches/Advisors are not required to respond to pressure groups.
- In the majority of cases, the participant/parent and coach/advisor should be able to communicate and reach an amicable solution to concerns and/or questions.
- If the participant/parent and coach/advisor cannot mutually resolve the concern or questions are not answered, the subject should then be brought to the school athletic director/principal. If still not resolved, the next step is the District Administrator and the last step should be the school board.
- Parents, fans, school board members, and school administrators can assist the coach/advisor and school program by encouraging, supporting, and being positive role models.
- Coaches/Advisors are encouraged to have pre-season meetings with parents to encourage and enhance communications.

Negative approaches to problem solving do nothing but make the environment for all more destructive. Parents of participants, coaches/advisors and school administrators must work together in an atmosphere of mutual trust fostered by open communication.
