A Four-Star District

Dear Quaker Families,

I hope you were able to enjoy a fun and relaxing Fourth of July holiday. While school administrators have been working all summer, our efforts are intensifying as the first day of school approaches.

We have several things going on next week, culminating in messages that you will receive on Friday with more detailed information about our plans for welcoming students back to school.

You'll find included with this message a graphic that highlights information that reflects the basic details many have been asking about. Our school principals will provide more details, but these topics will be consistent throughout all of our schools.

I continue to stress the importance of understanding this: these plans could still change. I am confident in the plans we've developed, and they have been approved by health officials. Governor Holcomb will speak again next week, and we all need to continue to be vigilant in wearing masks and practicing social distancing.

Now more than ever, I am thrilled to share with you the news that, at last night's meeting, the School Board approved a new partnership with Hendricks Regional Health that will provide even greater support and resources to our school nurses. Plainfield Schools has employed registered nurses in each of our schools for many years, and this new partnership will take our commitment to student and staff health to the next level. Our trusted school nurses will now benefit from the professional development and training offered by HRH, and when our own nurses can't be at school, we will have a reliable source of substitute nurses to call upon.

In closing, I want to emphasize that our entire Plainfield Schools administrative team stands behind the plans that we are finalizing. We are eager to see your children back in school, and we believe that, under these circumstances, our schools will be safe, friendly, welcoming environments that will provide the structure, and the social, emotional and educational support that children need. At the same time, please remember that your child's principal is just a phone call away. If you have concerns about what school will look like, please call us. We would appreciate the opportunity to discuss your concerns, and work with you to find the best solution for your child.

Sincerely,

Scott Olinger
