

REMOTE LEARNING PLAN

Moulton Middle School

IN-PERSON INSTRUCTION (recommended)

Within this instructional model, students will report to their school building 5 days each week. The instructional day will be compressed with courses beginning at 8:00am and concluding at 2:00pm.

If my child is sick or quarantined, how will they proceed with their coursework?

Teachers will be provided with additional planning time from 2:00pm - 3:15pm. During this time, teachers will coordinate communication with students who were absent. All make up work will be assigned using either Google Classroom or student Gmail. Please have your student check their communication platforms and complete the assigned make up work in a timely manner. All daily assignments and lessons will be uploaded into Google Classroom by 8:00 am as part of our general instructional expectations.

For students who are engaged with in person instruction, what will happen if we are forced into a school closure?

It is important to maintain the relationships established during the educational process. With this in mind, students would proceed in this scenario with instruction using a remote learning platform (Google Classroom). Teachers will utilize Google Classroom throughout the in-person experience under the presumption that this technology tool may be needed at times, and within varying circumstances. During temporary or prolonged closures, students will be provided with flexible timelines and a grading model that is consistent with in-person instruction. All assignments and lessons will be uploaded into google classroom every day by 8:00am.

DIGITAL OPTION (homeschooling platform provided by the school district)

The digital option will utilize an online learning platform called Edgenuity. Students will be enrolled in accredited courses based upon the equivalency offerings within this program. The program will be managed and enriched by specific educators at Moulton Middle School. Students will not partake in the Google Classroom platform as it pertains to in-person instruction.
