Lead Academy families, please remember Lead is not a Greenville County School, therefore, parents will need to enroll their child at the high school they are zoned for, apply for special permission if you would like your child to attend a different zone school, apply for a magnet program, or apply for a Charter School.

Keep in mind applying for special permission and applying for a magnet program are two different things. If you would like your child to attend a different Greenville County High School that you are not zoned for and is not a magnet school, you will need to apply for special permission at the school of choice. Make sure you communicate to the GCS you apply or register at that your child is coming from a charter school.

If you are interested in a Charter School, you must register your child for each charter school lottery. Each charter school has their own system and dates. See the list above for the lottery registration dates.
