

(ISC)<sup>2</sup> Safe and Secure Online® Social Media

Learning to navigate social media safely with your children is all about awareness, communication, and supervision.

Social media is not inherently bad and in fact can be a great way for your children to explore the world, express individuality and connect with friends- as long as they do so safely. Let your kids know to stop and think before they post comments or pictures and to never share personal information like age, school, address, full name or when parents are not home.

 Facebook

 Instagram

 Twitter

 Vine

 Snapchat

You may recognize these social media names, but how much do you know about them? Check them out! These are only a few and your children may be using others. Look into the sites your children are using or want to join and learn about them together.

Anything posted or sent through the Internet is impossible to fully remove. Communicate this to your children.

Follow these tips to get started:

- Realize there are age requirements to most social networks and respect these rules- they are in place for a reason.
- Make parental approval of social groups or networks part of your house rules.
- Talk about what is an acceptable and respectable post.
- “Friend” or “follow” your kids so you can check in on their social media activity. You don't have to participate, just take a look as often as possible.
- Data provided to a social network is stored and, most of the time, it is shared by default. Ensure your child’s profile is set to Private. Go into settings and help them adjust the default controls.
