Why is it important to have a PTA?

PTAs benefit everyone. Strong schools mean stronger communities. PTA membership is open to anyone who wants to be involved and make a difference for the education, health and welfare of children and youth.

PTAs keep parents informed. Involved parents can understand the challenges schools face and become part of the solution.

PTAs support education through active participation and advocacy. PTAs help parents navigate the local educational system to become effective advocates for their children.

PTAs are independent of school systems yet collaborate in their local communities with administrators, lawmakers and community-based organizations. They can make the decisions that will best serve their needs.

PTAs help schools fulfill parent involvement requirements mandated by the Elementary and Secondary Education Act–No Child Left Behind (ESEA–NCLB). Why? Because PTA’s definition of parent involvement is the definition used in ESEA–NCLB.
