February | Endurance, Choice, Courage, and Integrity

Elementary

Paetyn Hatten has been working very hard to enhance her reading endurance especially with chapter books. Her hard work is paying off! I enjoy watching Paetyn become engaged in her chapter books. She is reading any extra minute she gets.

Logan Davis is an all-around amazing young lady, who demonstrates ALL of the themes for this month. She shows integrity by always doing what is right, and of course always being honest. She shows endurance by coming to tutoring before school, and never giving up. She makes good choices both inside and outside the classroom. Lastly, she shows courage by her willingness to try new things, even if it may be hard. Way to go, Logan!

Zach Cameron and Hayden Lang have been nominated for choosing to stay for after school tutoring on a Friday to improve their grade in Math! The easy choice is to go home on a Friday, not to stay at school! I don't know if I would have made that decision in 5th grade!

Jr. High / High

Alex Schleyer made the Choice to attend Southern Hills CTC his junior and senior year and follow his dream of becoming a chef in a high end restaurant. Alex has excelled in Culinary Math and will compete as the SHCTC representative in the March 2018 regional FCCLA contest. Alex shows maturity and dedication to his Culinary Arts program by always being on time, being prepared for class and learning each aspect of Culinary Arts presented to him.

Nancy Hastings immediately came to mind for Integrity because she lives her life honoring what is right and speaking her mind for good choices. Nancy acts with so much integrity that she will chose an unpopular road with her peers so that she can take comfort in her own choices.

Jordyn Watson models that she makes educated choices every day. She acts with integrity and makes good choices but more than that she is open to all options and is willing to listen and compare and contrast her options when making a choice. She is understanding of consequences and thinks several steps ahead and is willing to model her thinking and choices to others as she guides them to make educated choices as well.

Lauren Carter has been nominated for her tremendous courage to overcome challenge the past few months. I have watched this young lady take ownership of a not so good attitude and transform herself in a just a short period. Lauren's courage to change has become very visible on and off the basketball court. From my observation she is now much happier and so are the people around her. Her smile and bubbly personality is contagious. I am so proud of her for exhibiting the 3
