The only challenge is having my kinder doing edgenuity at home. She struggles to do the work at home. She loves being in class in person We haven't had any issues with being in person. We appreciate the constant communication with teachers and staff

Attendance should not be so rigid. Any three days logging into Edgenuity should count for full attendance each week (including weekend days). Parents who work need more flexibility. Caregivers while parents work are not always equipped to support home learning while parent is at work.

Hard for working families! She is in kindergarten and it takes a lot to sit down and teach her everything- especially when the videos don't do much half the time they don't load

Excellent communication with teachers! I know if I have a question or concern that the teachers make it a priority to get that question answered. I have been so impressed by their kindness.
