Administration and Faculty— Although the teachers kept us busy with hours of homework, they worked with the administration to build the foundation for our futures. The staff at Hillsboro High School put in many hours, not only in the classroom, but also in sponsoring extra-curricular activities.

Underclassmen—The Burger Bash highlighted the freshmen's year, while the sophomores faced the decision of whether or not to buy a class ring. Planning the Junior-Senior banquet and prom kept the juniors busy. However for all classes academics also played a major role. Challenges included memorizing the keyboard in typing, answering the endless biology questions, and participating in freshmen exploratory classes.

Seniors—The past four years will never be forgotten by the Class of '84. Each senior graduated with some memories that would be remembered and others that would be forgotten. Homecoming and graduation were just two highlights of their last year at Hillsboro High School. Although high school marked an ending to one phase of their lives, it also marked the beginning to a new world of questions and opportunities.

Homecomings—They provided activities to promote class cooperation. The float competition, spirit week and the bonfire built enthusiasm and helped raise school spirit during Football Homecoming. Along with spirit week and a mini float competition, the crowning of a King and a Sweetheart added a new tradition to the Basketball festivities.

Organizations—Join a club and get involved. Many HHS students did and found clubs a great way to broaden their horizons while making new friends. Students could choose from organizations ranging from Student Council to Yearbook to Kayettes to Future Farmers of America.

Athletics—They made us proud! Trojan athletes took to the fields, courts, courses and the track with one goal in mind—to do the best they possibly could. Their success depended on not only teamwork and effort but also on the support from the cheerleaders and devoted Trojan fans.

Art—They kept us busy and displayed the talent of Hillsboro High School students. Chorus and band concerts, "Babes In Arms," and art displays were just a few of the opportunities students had to share their talents throughout the year.

Closing—Prom and graduation provided many good memories to end the year. Summer plans were in the making. Seniors were excited but sad to leave their high school years behind, and freshmen looked forward to becoming sophomores. Goodbye, 1983-84 school year, and Hello, summer!

Advertisements—Those listed in this section not only helped fund the yearbook but also showed support throughout the year. Advertisers represented the community that supported HHS students not only in the many fund raisers, but also in athletics, musicals and other school events.

looking good...

Each new school year is unique; different from years gone and years yet to come. In 1984, new friendships were formed while special ones grew stronger. The spirit of Hillsboro High School never failed. Together the students made the year one to be remembered.

Though a small school of approximately two hundred students, Hillsboro High School definitely had its advantages. The small enrollment allowed for many close friendships; the faces we saw every day were familiar. Football and basketball games, drama productions and music concerts were supported by not only the student body, but also the community.

New teachers helped to make the 1983-84 year unique and enjoyable with their new teaching styles. Sara Hill taught English III and IV, Jim Jones directed the band and Sally Schneider instructed the art classes.

Through good times and bad, H.H.S. was always looking good, so...take a look at us...

In December, 1983, the year-book staff requested all HHS students to complete a survey entitled "The Perfect Date." One hundred and forty students completed the survey. The favorite date of 81 students was a movie, while 50 of the students surveyed enjoyed a dinner date. Others liked to go to games, concerts, or stay home and talk. One student commented, "Anything if it's a date."

Sixty-four of the students did not like to date the same person all the time while 48 preferred it. When dating, 27 students would rather double date and 65 preferred to date by themselves. Forty-eight enjoyed both once in a while.

On the question of girls asking guys out, a stunning 97 students thought this was a good idea. Twenty-two of the students surveyed thought this was all right in certain circumstances and only 16 of the students surveyed said no. One seventeen-year-old male wrote, "If she's got the car and the money, why not?"

When asked how they felt about girls paying or helping pay on a date, 61 students said this was great, 37 were open minded and 28 were against it. Another seventeen-year-old male commented on the question of girls paying. He said, "They better pay unless they want to stay home every night."

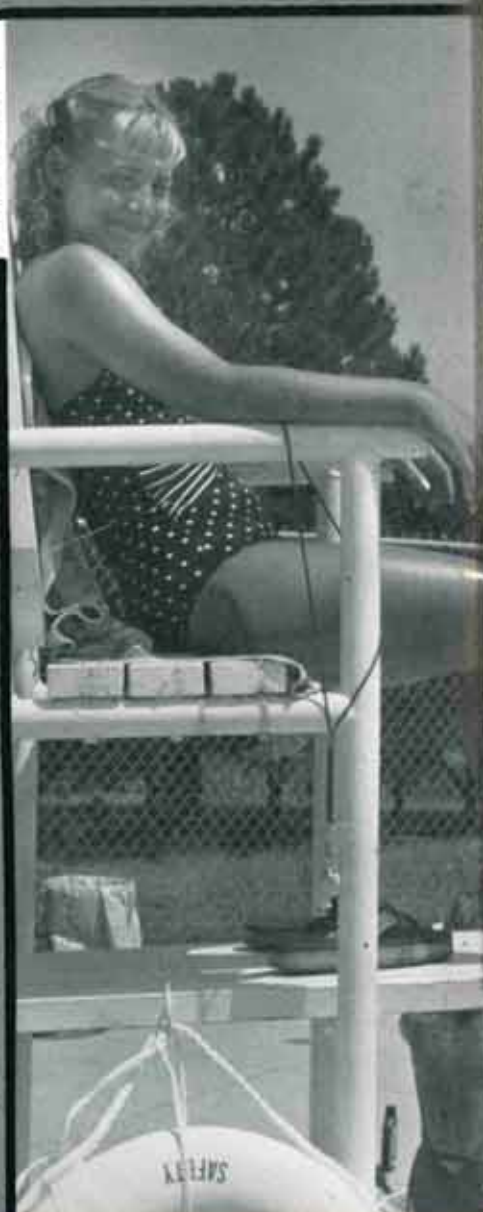

Shannon Duerksen who worked twenty-five hours a week at the Dari-Ette said she really enjoyed her summer job. Although she didn't like to clean the grill, she commented that "the best part was being able to work in a place where I could see my friends and meet new people."

Employed at the Hillsboro Municipal Pool as a life-guard and swimming teacher, Maura Janzen discovered her job was not always "fun in the sun." In spite of a demanding seven-day work week, she enjoyed being outside around her friends.

Bagging groceries, stocking shelves and making deliveries has been a way of life for HHS senior Rick Medley since he was thirteen. Employed at Vogt's AF Super, Rick worked part-time during school and full time during the summer. He said "I enjoy the job because it is a good way to meet people."

working hard...

Before coming to Hillsboro, Xavier Freire, an exchange student from Quayaquil, Ecuador, pictured Hillsboro as "a lot of farms together." Staying with the Flo Vajnar family from February through May, Freire soon became familiar with the lifestyle of a small Kansas town.

Freire decided to participate in the exchange program and came to the United States in order to live in a community where English was fluently spoken.

The school system was one of the differences he noticed. "We are assigned to classes based on our career choice," he said. "In grades seven, eight and nine we study eleven subjects, and in high school we study fifteen." Besides studying classes in natural science, math and social science, students must also study religion in the all boys' Catholic school Freire attended in Guayaquil.

After high school Freire plans to become a civil engineer. "I'll go to college in either the United States or Mexico," Freire said. "They have better schools to study engineering."

Disneyworld and other United States tourist attractions have been a frequent vacation place for the Freire family. In Ecuador the Galapagos Islands are one of the most beautiful places and are also a popular spot for both tourists and the Ecuadoreans. "If everyone would visit my country, that's what I'd show them," Freire said.

Tina and Sonya Huang were two HHS students who grew up in a non-American culture. The school system in Taiwan proved to be similar to HHS in some ways and different in others. They had more required classes such as chemistry, physics, Chinese, English, geography and both Chinese and world history. These classes and extra activities, including Science Club, Chess Club, home economics and speed reading, accounted for an average of two hours of homework a day.

The school day started in Taiwan at 6:30 a.m. when all of the classes competed at cleaning the school. Classes ended at 4:30 p.m., but many students stayed after school to study for exams.

"We learn more there," said Tina, "but here there are a lot of different things we haven't learned."

Richard Bahrke, an exchange student from Stockholm, Sweden, has changed his opinion of America. After his year in Hillsboro, he said, "I used to picture America as something out of 'Happy Days'." He laughed, mentioning that he had expected to see "cowboys, country and prairie" when he came to Kansas.

In comparing the school in Sweden with HHS, Bahrke explained that, "The system there is quite different. After the first nine years of compulsory schooling, a student may choose to study for two, three or four more years."

According to Bahrke, Swedish schools, stressing only academics, have a higher level of learning. In contrast, HHS had more homework but was more of a social experience.

"In Sweden, sports were not the school's responsibility," Bahrke said. So, naturally, he has enjoyed the school spirit evident at HHS. "We had no cheerleaders," Bahrke said with a grin. "I consider this a big loss."

Bahrke encourages everyone to travel. "It is the best way to grow in knowledge and experience. You learn so much more than you could gain from a textbook."

In closing, Bahrke invited everyone from Hillsboro High to come to his homeland, Sweden.

New faces, new projects

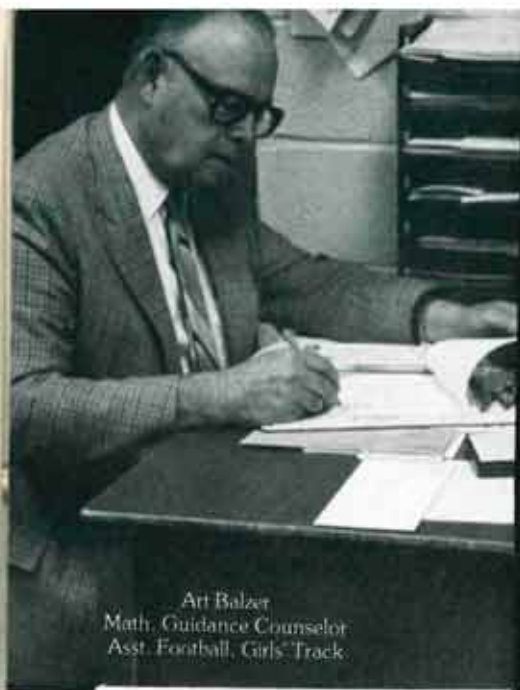

The new school year brought new faces to the U.S.D. 410 Board of Education. New members elected to serve were Dwayne Reusser, Ron Duerksen and Robert Unruh. Throughout the course of the year the board approved a track resurfacing proposal estimated at $121,000 and passed preliminary plans for a new gymnasium facility with a projected cost near $500,000.

School year marks end of a 34 year teaching career

The end of the '83-'84 school year marked the end of Art Balzer's 34-year teaching and counseling career at Hillsboro High School. Balzer retired at the end of the year with a total of 41 years of teaching and counseling experience.

Balzer grew up on a farm near Whitewater, earned a bachelor's degree in mathematics at Bethel College in 1938, and completed a master's degree in education from Emporia State University.

Along with teaching mathematics and being counselor for twelve years, Balzer also had various coaching responsibilities. At different times in his career, he coached football, basketball, track, golf and cross country.

He had been offered numerous other opportunities throughout the years in business and mathematics with his math degree, but he stayed in teaching because, "I enjoy working with young people and coaching." Balzer enjoyed seeing the students start high school and eventually leave for college.

During his retirement years, Balzer plans to travel, fish, golf, and look after some farm property near Whitewater.

Credit where credit is due

A lot of late night and early morning hours were put in by a dedicated faculty this past school year. Teachers often went unnoticed when they should have received praise for their patience, wisdom and knowledge, ability to communicate with students and sense of humor. Not only did teachers spend time in the classroom, but many hours were also spent preparing class assignments, grading research papers, making out grade cards and sponsoring extra-curricular activities.

Teachers were very supportive in sponsoring special school activities, selling tickets at games, sponsoring clubs, and other responsibilities such as leading sports, debate and forensics, FFA judging and music.

What made teaching interesting? Incidents like the following ones that happened during the '83-'84 school year. While the fifth hour history class was watching a film in the A.V. room, there was a knock at the door. Thinking a student was interrupting,

Mr. Cummings yelled, "Get out of here!" Who should peek in, but Mrs. Hill.

Another example was when the Biology students visited the zoo. P.J. started the bus for the return trip, and the radio began to play. He announced that the music must end immediately. The music continued. He made his announcement again. The music continued until the students told him it was the bus radio. Other examples included the time when K.C. Jost was sent to the principal's office by a teacher because Jost felt that the nose of a rhinoceros on a poster was crooked and when a teacher's reading-out-loud assignment was so boring, the teacher himself fell asleep!

Truman Diener along with his FFA students will never forget returning from the state FFA contests and running out of gas a mile from home.

Active participation in school activities along with incidents like these made H.H.S. just the place to be in 1983 and not a bore in 1984!

Laughter trademark of staff

According to Art Balzer, "If laughter is a sign of long life, our janitors and cooks will live a long time." This statement was made by Balzer as laughter rang throughout the commons area before the PSAT test was taken by a number of juniors.

This certainly was true, for laughter was a trademark of the H.H.S. staff. Whether the staff was gathered for a coffee break, tending to their responsibilities of kneading bread and fixing food, sweeping floors or cleaning up after students, they seemed to be enjoying themselves because they were always wearing a smile and making Hillsboro High School a better place.

Lockers, trophies and books have not been the only common sights seen at Hillsboro High School the past twenty-four years. Pete Schmidt, janitor, was another common sight. Schmidt could often be seen sweeping floors or taking time out of his busy schedule to talk to students.

Schmidt grew up in the Goessel community and graduated from Goessel High School in 1938. The 1983-84 school year marked Schmidt's 24th year of janitorial work for the school district. Schmidt started in 1960 for the Lehigh District and worked there for six years. After Lehigh and Hillsboro merged in 1966, he continued as janitor at the Lehigh school for eight more years. He transferred to Hillsboro High School when he foresaw the closing of the Lehigh school. He has worked at Hillsboro since.

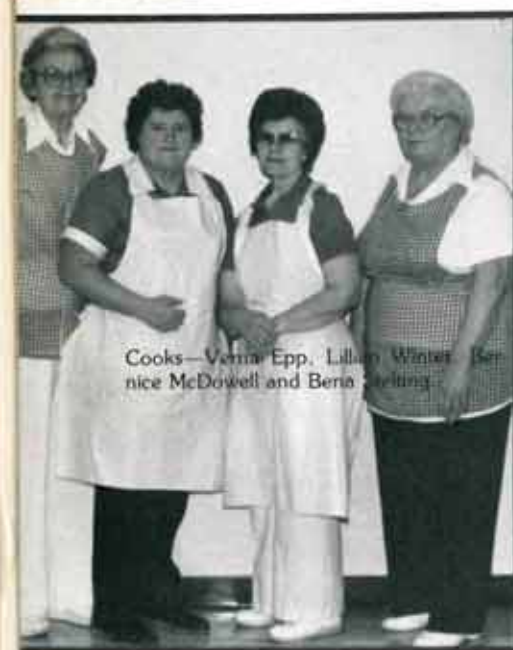

Before doing janitorial work he worked for Phillips 66 in Lehigh driving gas trucks and working at the service station.

Schmidt worked for the city of Lehigh during his free time. He also mentioned that he enjoyed gardening and visiting his grandchildren.

Schmidt said, "I enjoy janitorial work because I enjoy young people and working for them." Schmidt does not only spend time during school hours, but is often seen cleaning up after other activities.

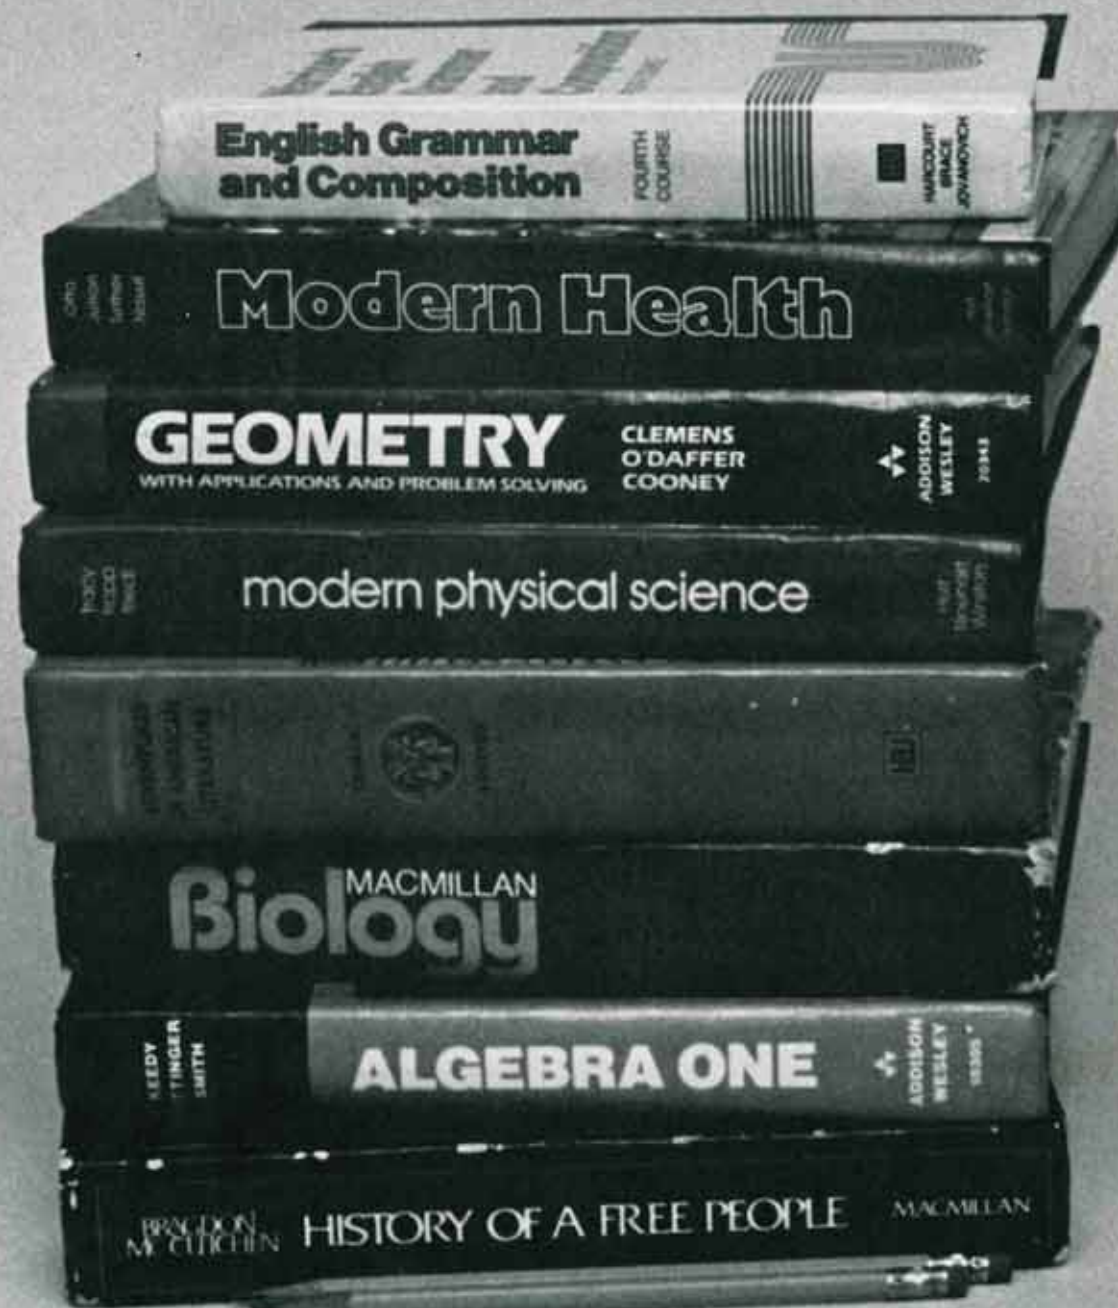

Staff members: Art Balzer, Pete Schmidt, Eunice Matz, Kay Carlson, Lillian Winter, Kamilla Fickler.

Cooks—Verna Epp, Lillian Winter, Eunice McDowell and Bena Stelling.

Underclassmen

First year brings changes

Becoming a high school student was a big change for the freshman class. According to Rebecca Westblade, "Getting used to the different techniques was difficult, but I adjusted rather quickly. There is also more emphasis put on homework in high school."

The freshmen were "welcomed" with the annual fun day and burger bash, along with the usual exercises and game of leapfrog. Pep rallies, homecoming floats, and dances were all new experiences for the Class of 1987, and the upper classmen tried their best to make these experiences fun.

CLASS OFFICERS—Top to bottom: Liane Schattak, President; Jeff Kroeker, Student Council Representative; Todd Hals, Vice-President; Heather Frost, Student Council Representative; Carrie Dalke, Secretary; and Rich Loewen, Treasurer.

Being a freshman meant taking Freshman Exploratory which was designed to give the students a taste of different classes. The year was divided into three twelve-week sessions: Home Economics, Drafting and Household Physics.

This class gave the students a chance to learn about woodworking and drafting, cooking and sewing, and common household problems, along with their solutions.

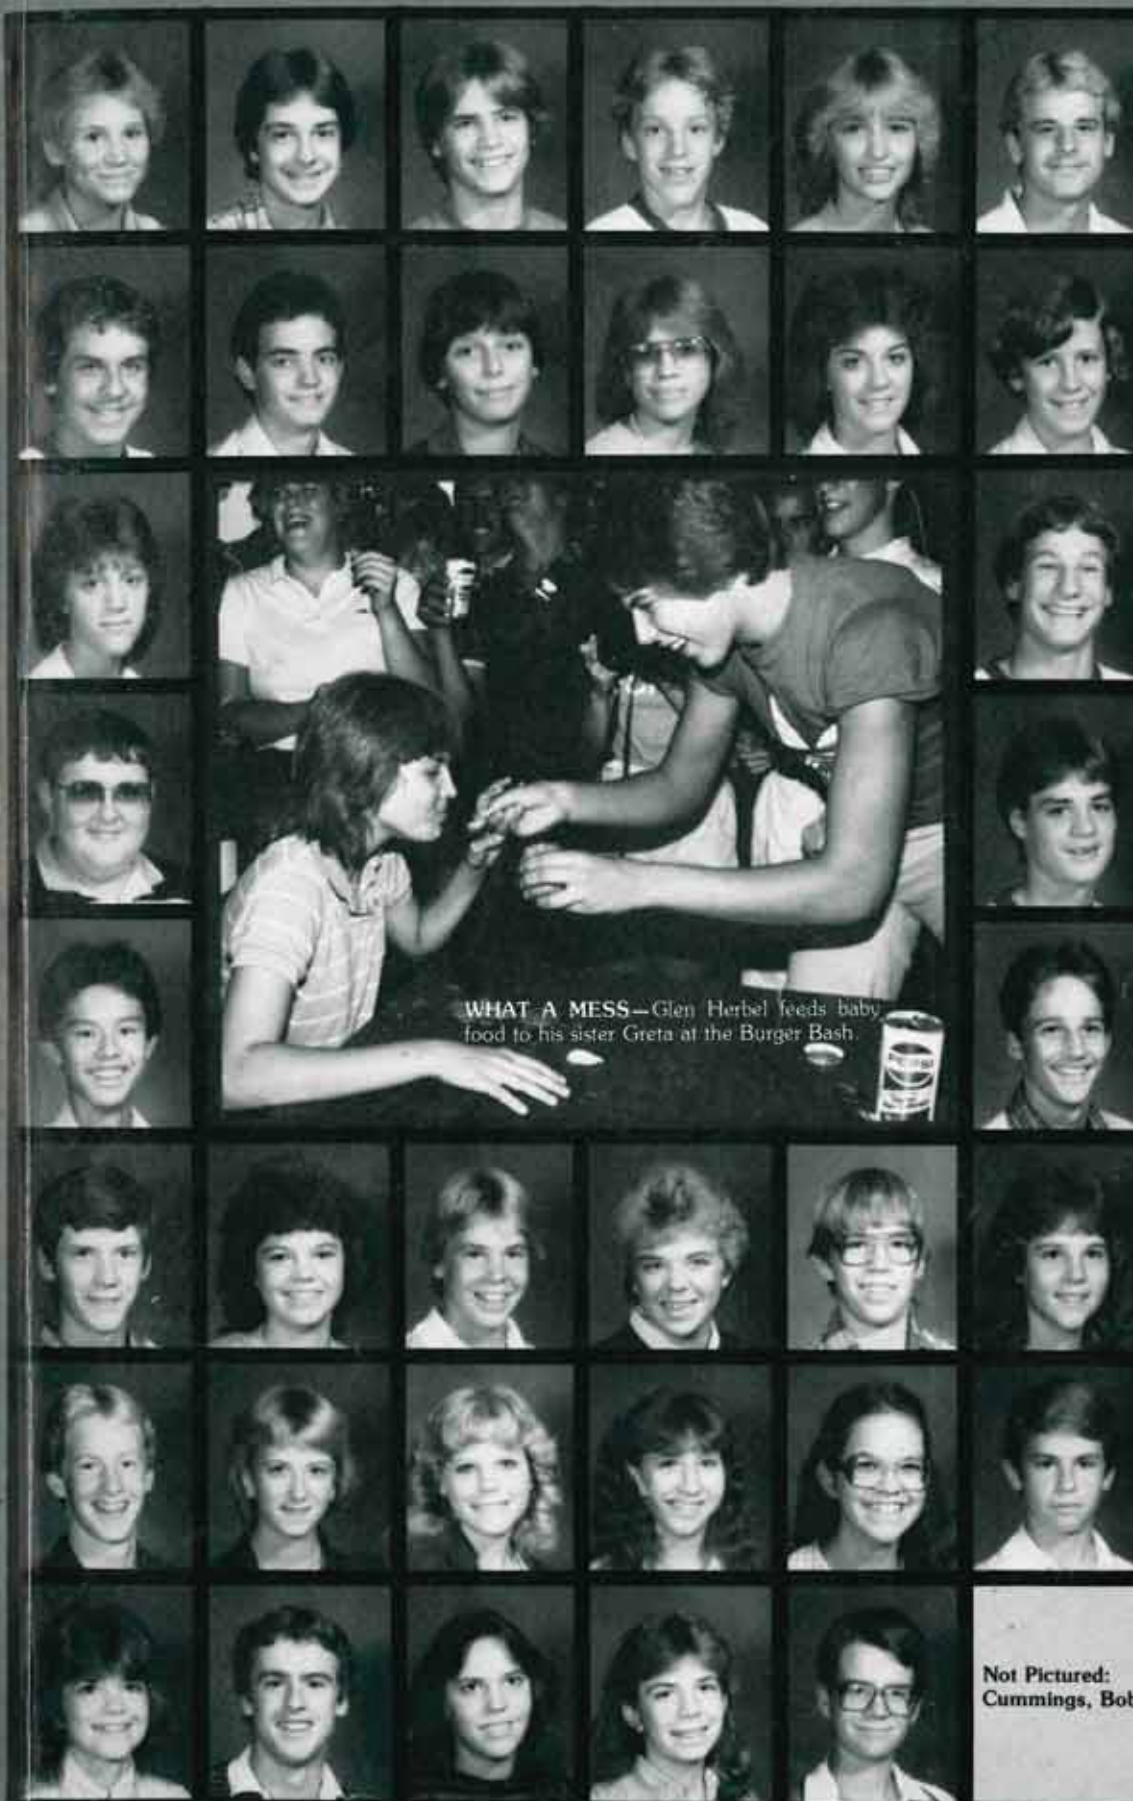

According to David Kliever, "I love sewing and cooking! It's really fun making a mess like that."

Not freshmen anymore

As a sophomore, students learned to take on new responsibilities. Having only English required, many of the sophomores included Biology, Geometry and chorus in their enrollment. One responsibility was the writing of their first high school research paper.

This year, the sophomore class won the Student Council sponsored basketball homecoming float contest. The theme of the sophomore float was "Cook the Cardinals." Being a sophomore for some people also meant serving at the junior-senior banquet.

However, for many students in the sophomore class, the best thing about being a sophomore was not being a freshman anymore.

Having Mr. Jantzen for a teacher was a unique experience for nearly every student in high school. As a sophomore, most students enrolled in Biology and attempted the transition from General Science to Biology. Receiving an A or B in Biology required extra reports or experiments.

In spite of the extra work, many students enjoyed Biology. "Biology was more interesting than General Science. We did a lot more lab work," said Melody Heidel.

Class unity promoted

According to Lori Dyck, "I thought our class learned to work together responsibly. Planning the prom was a good way to promote class unity. It also was something our entire class got involved in."

Planning the Junior-Senior Banquet and Prom was one of the biggest responsibilities the juniors had. Together they managed to create a special atmosphere in the gym, and also provided a memorable evening for both the seniors and themselves.

In addition to the excitement of prom week, many class members also discovered the challenge of tougher academic schedules. Physics, Algebra II, Computer Literacy and Accounting I were just a few of the classes that provided a challenge. According to Miriam Westblade, "This year has been my toughest, academically." Although some chose to focus their schedules on strictly academic classes, many also chose to include band, chorus, art, auto and woodworking.

The year's schedule for the juniors was tough, but planning the prom, selling magazines and participating in other activities pulled the Class of '85 through.

Reconstruction, centralization of government and Thaddeus Stevens became familiar to the juniors in American History class taught by Mr. Cummings. The first couple of days were spent getting accustomed to his unique teaching methods. First of all there were class rules to become familiar with, and also the memorizing of underlines for tests. American History students were also involved in a wide variety of assignments. Every other week the students were required to summarize a news article and then write an opinion. These became known as current events. Another assignment was setting up a government system for a small society on a deserted island.

"It took me a while to get used to Mr. Cummings and his teaching methods, but now I know what he expects. His class is different from all of my other classes; you never know what's coming next!" said Rex Steiner.

Top of the ladder

The senior class of 1984 was the first class that Mr. Born had to put up with his first four years as principal of Hillsboro High School; or maybe it should be stated that the 1984 seniors had to put up with Mr. Born all four years! Either way, it took an effort on both the principal's and the student's part in order for the Class of '84 to reach the top of the ladder.

Many new and exciting opportunities were experienced by the 1984 graduating class. First of all, one knew for sure that he was a senior when he paid the high bill for his senior pictures. Yet, when he traded with friends and realized that only senior pictures were in the color section of the yearbook that bill did not seem so bad after all. Another long awaited advantage of being a senior was the privilege of "welcoming" the freshmen. Although the freshmen were not required to participate in the welcoming activities, most decided to join in on the fun. The excitement of the day carried over to the annual Burger Bash where some of the senior guys threw a teacher into the watermelon tank. A third and not so pleasant opportunity was taking the ACT test. Another privilege granted to the seniors was the option to visit the college of their choice.

Even though the thought of college entered the senior's mind more frequently than before, it did not stand in the way of having fun and enjoying their last year. During Spirit Week the seniors went all out and wore summer clothes, sunglasses and thongs to represent their theme "Let your spirit shine." Cheering for the Trojans at the Hesston game also added points and allowed them to win the first place spirit award and a party sponsored by the cheerleaders.

As spring neared so did some very special events such as the Junior-Senior Banquet and Prom and graduation. Graduation was a time to move on in life. However, the memories made at HHS by the 1984 seniors will be long remembered!

Homecoming

We've got tonight

HOMECOMING ROYALTY—Carrie Penner, Tammy Kroeker, Mike Cianci and Jason Schroeder.

CLASS ATTENDANTS—John Goertz, Cheryl Wiens, Warren Unruh, LaDonna Klein, Heather Frost and Jay Unruh.

Many girls dream of being crowned homecoming queen. On the evening of October 7, 1983, for one senior girl that dream did come true. Miss Tamera Kay Kroeker was crowned 1983 Football Homecoming Queen by Michael Cianci as the theme song "We've Got Tonight" by Kenny Rogers and Shena Easton echoed quietly in the background.

Other senior queen candidates and escorts included Jean Ollenburger and Bryce Flaming, Cindy Lanning and Chris Liles, Carol Funk and Glen Herbel, and Maura Janzen and Richard Bahrke.

The junior class attendant and escort were LaDonna Klein and Warren Unruh. Cheryl Wiens and John Goertz represented the sophomore class, and the freshman class was represented by Heather Frost and Jay Unruh. Carrie Penner and Jason Schroeder carried the flowers and the crown.

Homecoming festivities

Spirit week preceded the crowning of the 1983 Football Homecoming Queen. Beginning the week, the Trojans "Rounded-up the Warriors" wearing jeans, boots and cowboy hats. Another day students were "lookin' good" while wearing dress clothes. By bringing poodle skirts, saddle shoes, leather jackets, greased hair and ponytails back into style, Hillsboro High School looked back on a "victorious past." The theme, "Trojans will win, no sweat" had students dressed casually in sweats. The traditional red and gold day completed the week.

As a "kick-off" to the weekend activities, bonfire was held Thursday night. The pep band started the bonfire activities by playing "Hit Me With Your Best Shot" and "Boosting." The cheerleaders kept the spirit rolling by leading cheers, and as a rousing finale, the football captains, Curt Vajnar, Rick Medley and Joel Schroeder, burned the Warrior.

On Friday afternoon as the drizzle halted, the annual homecoming parade took place downtown. The parade, led by the pep band, featured class floats and was highlighted with the queen candidates being driven in open cars by their escorts.

At Friday night's game, Hillsboro overcame a shaky third quarter to defeat the Peabody Warriors 22-13. They stacked up 59 yards of rushing offense while holding Peabody to minus 10 yards. Robbie Delk highlighted the game when he booted a 45 yard field goal for a new school record.

The homecoming dance was held Saturday night. Music was provided by Instant Sound.

Homecoming excitement

As the song "Hold Me Till the Morning Comes" echoed in the background, Dyan Goertz was crowned 1984 Basketball Homecoming Sweetheart by Curt Vajnar, the first Basketball Homecoming King. Other candidates were Angie Weibert, John Klaassen, Angie Helmer, Scott Kelsey, Lois Ulsh, Bryan Funk, Nancy Unruh and Greg Goering. Serving as Little King and Queen were Andy Kleiber and Lindsey Suderman.

Homecoming week festivities included students dressed in future occupational outfits. Dress-up clothes, new wave fashions, sweat suits, and red and gold clothes finished out the week. Each high school class entered a mini-float in the first basketball homecoming float contest with the sophomores winning the competition.

After the coronation of the 1984 King and Sweetheart, thirteen past homecoming Sweethearts were introduced to the crowd.

The evening started out with two wins by both the girls' junior varsity and the girls' varsity teams against the Sedgwick Cardinals. The boys' varsity team suffered a heart-breaking loss, but the junior varsity and the freshmen boys pulled through with victories.

On Saturday night, the alumni were invited to the homecoming dance which featured "Instant Sound."

Student Council adds excitement

During the 1983-1984 school year, Student Council was very busy. Paul Reimer served as president. Other cabinet members were Maura Janzen, vice-president; Cindy Pankratz, secretary; Kim Flaming, treasurer; and Mr. James Thomas, sponsor.

The first event sponsored by Student Council was the annual Burger Bash to welcome the freshmen. Activities included exercises and a babyfood eating contest for the freshmen.

The theme for this year's football homecoming and dance was "We've Got Tonight."

Next on Student Council's calendar of events was the Basketball Homecoming dance. The theme for the homecoming night was "Look at Us Now." Along with homecoming came a new contest. Each class entered a mini float in the contest. The floats consisted of a decorated wagon pulled by a tricycle. The sophomores won the competition with their float entitled "Cook the Cardinals."

After homecoming, the students took a trip to the past at the Soc Hop. Students enjoyed dancing to the music as well as the accompanying talent contest, won by the dance routine done by Jean Ollenburger, Angie Helmer, Lisa Braun and Marci Helmer. There was also a hula hoop contest which was won by Tracy Tucker.

Building Bridges

Working under the theme "Building Bridges," this year's Kayettes reached out to the school, community, nation and world through various service projects.

During citizenship week in December, the Kayettes gave cookies to the entire student body, made tray favors for Salem, made a cancer chain, learned about Christmas in Taiwan and had a gift exchange with their secret sisters.

Other projects done by the Kayettes were skipping a meal and donating the money to Care, serving refreshments to the participants of the Special Olympics at Tabor and making Easter bunny tray favors for Parkside. In March the Kayettes sponsored a fun night for the student body with a movie and food.

In May there was a Mother-Daughter Banquet. Claire Casselman, the state Kayette director was the guest speaker.

"Being on Kayette Cabinet my first year, was a lot of fun and very busy. Organizing the carnation sales was one of my tasks and I sure found out a lot of interesting couples! All in all, Kayettes is a great group that provides many opportunities to help others within the community, state and nation," said Kim Flaming, vice-president of Kayettes.

FFA has rewarding year

Hillsboro High's Future Farmers of America had a very successful year. They began by exhibiting the FFA booth for Marion County at the state fair and receiving Grand Champion.

In November, Angie Weibert, Rex Steiner, and Tammy Penner qualified to represent Kansas at the National Dairy Products and Milk Quality Contest in Kansas City. Overall, the team placed in the silver division. Individually, Penner and Steiner placed in the bronze division.

FFA members also competed in district contests held in McPherson. In ag mechanics, Doyle Jost placed eighth, and Rex Steiner placed tenth. John Seibel received sixth in farm power. Bryce Flaming placed first in electricity and Curt Vajnar, fifth.

Hillsboro hosted the District Poultry and Dairy Products Contest in February. Competing on the first place poultry A team were Angie Weibert placing second individual; Curt Vajnar receiving fourth individual; and Tammy Penner, earning fifth individual. Representing Hillsboro on the first place poultry B team was Lyle Isaac who earned first individual.

At the District Dairy Judging at Newton, Cindy Pankratz placed third individually. The A team of Dale Klassen, Cindy Pankratz, Warren Unruh, and Doyle Jost placed second. Curt Vajnar, Bryce Flaming, David Hein, and Bentley Richert made up the B team that placed sixth. The tenth place B team was Kris Bartel, Scott Blochlinger, K.C. Jost and Rex Steiner.

Dale Klassen was the district Dairy Proficiency Award winner. He received the gold award for Dairy Showmanship at the National FFA Convention as well.

At the annual FFA banquet Dale Klassen was named the Chapter Star Farmer. Other Chapter Farm Program Awards were given to Warren Unruh for beef; Cindy Pankratz for dairy; Angie Weibert for horse; Bentley Richert for sheep; and LaDonna Klein for swine.

In November the FFA invited the Kayettes to a fun night at the fair grounds. The night was highlighted by the naming of Jean Ollenburger as Ms. FFA and Curt Vajnar as Mr. Kayette.

Good reflections

The 1983-84 Trojan yearbook staff started the year with a $1000 budget from the school board. The Trojans increased that amount by selling advertisements worth $3705 to businesses in Hillsboro and the surrounding communities. Even though the Trojans raised a lot of money, the board asked that a few changes be made. The staff changed their money raising project to selling concessions at all the ball games held in the high school gym, instead of selling candy bars.

Officers for the yearbook staff included Dyan Goertz as editor, Lois Epp as treasurer and Bryan Funk as Student Council Representative. Mr. William Born served as advisor.

Developing pictures was a new venture for the yearbook staff. John Goertz developed all the film and printed the pictures, while Connie Rahe and Lori Dyck assisted him. Tammy Kroeker collected senior salutes from parents. With the help of the Star-Journal staff, Dyan Goertz, Lori Dyck and Marilyn Thiessen typed the copy for the 1983-84 annual. Cindy Pankratz sold and designed most of the advertisements, and Miriam Westblade worked on paste-up.

"In spite of a few major set backs early in the year, I feel we did very well under the circumstances," said Dyan Goertz. "I think we excelled in different areas than last year's book, such as writing journalistic copy and profiling the students and faculty."

Trojans share MKL title

With a goal of going to the state play-offs for the third consecutive year, the Trojan football team began the 1983 season. Head coach Don Penner and his assistants Art Balzer and Terry Hill provided direction for the team.

The Trojans won all but one of their six MKL games. The only loss was to Moundridge in overtime. But, when it came time for the district games, they failed to win any of the games ending the season with a 5-4 record. Overall, the Trojans had a successful season and ended up sharing the MKL championship with Moundridge.

The Trojans were led by several people on offense. Doyle Jost led all passing with 50 attempts of which he had 20 completions for 37 yards and 2 touchdowns. Todd Arnold and Robbie Delk led in the pass receiving with 10 catches for 145 yards and 3 catches for 108 yards, respectively. The Trojans were led on the ground by Joel Schroeder who gained 661 yards on 156 carries and scored 66 points in the process, and by Scott Kelsey who covered 663 yards on 170 carries, scoring 4 touchdowns.

Defensively Scott Kelsey led all tacklers with 33 tackles, 35 assists and 2 sacks. Brad Dies and Curt Vajnar followed with 26 tackles, 49 assists, 2 sacks and 22 tackles, 48 assists and 4 sacks, respectively. Joel Schroeder had one pass interception which he returned for 66 yards and a touchdown. Rick Medley also had a pass interception which he returned for 16 yards.

Experience gained

Compiling a 5-2 record, the junior varsity players learned skills that they will need in years to come. The team was able to pull off several big victories under the coaching of Art Balzer and Terry Hill.

The offense was led by Jay Unruh who carried the ball 156 times, gaining 874 yards, and by Jeff Kroeker who covered 130 yards, 33 carries. Also, Unruh had 60 points. Kendal Heide threw the ball 20 times, completing 10 times, for 104 yards. Mike Brenneman received 7 of the passes for 72 yards.

The defense was led by Heide who had 41 tackles, 49 assists and 2 sacks. Unruh and Chris Frantz were next with 36 tackles, 28 assists, 6 sacks, and 25 tackles, 35 assists, and 2 sacks respectively.

With experience gained during the JV games, the freshmen and sophomore players will know what to expect next year.

Spirit boosters

Hillsboro High School football cheerleaders boosted school spirit in varied ways. Along with cheering at games, they also decorated players' lockers, served at the parent-player watermelon feed and even baked miniature cakes for the players. Pep rally skits featured a recipe for Trojan spirit and a visit from the superheroes Wonder Woman, ISIS, and the Bionic Woman. During the Herington game, the cheerleaders used the Spirit Pumpkin to generate enthusiasm.

According to Marilyn Thiessen, "It was fun to cheer at the homecoming bonfire and at the two overtime games. The crowd got really excited."

In appreciation for all of their work, the football team purchased silk corsages for the cheerleaders. To celebrate the end of the season, the cheerleaders sponsored a banana split party for the coaches and players.

Carol Funk summarized her three years as a varsity football cheerleader, "Cheerleading gave me a chance to learn how to work and relate to other people. It taught me how to take on responsibility, but it was also a lot of fun. I'd say it's my favorite sport."

STOMP 'EM—Lisa Braun and Marilyn Thiessen "show us what those cleats are for."

SERVE IT TO ME!—Kim Flaming concentrates on the oncoming serve.

BUMP, SET, SPIKE—Dyan Goertz sets the ball for one of her teammates to spike.

TROJAN DEFENSE—Wendy Lange blocks the opposing team's spike.

Looking good

The 1983-84 volleyball girls launched the season with a winning attitude. First year coach Becky Carlson worked with an experienced team of six returning lettermen.

Carlson conditioned the team through calisthenics and running. All MKL honors were awarded to Maura Janzen and Angie Helmer, and Kim Flaming received honorable mention. Dyan Goertz was elected Most Valuable Player by her teammates.

Accomplishing a record of 11-9, the volleyball girls finished the season fourth in the league.

Although the girls worked together as a team, they could not quite pull a victory with the top two teams in the league. According to Carlson, "The girls played really tough against Remington and Moundridge but were unable to defeat them. It was just too bad the scores did not show it."

DETERMINATION—Using expert control, Kim Flaming returns the ball to her opponent.

BUMP IT UP—Shannon Duerksen keeps her eye on the ball as she bumps it to the front row so her teammates can set up a play.

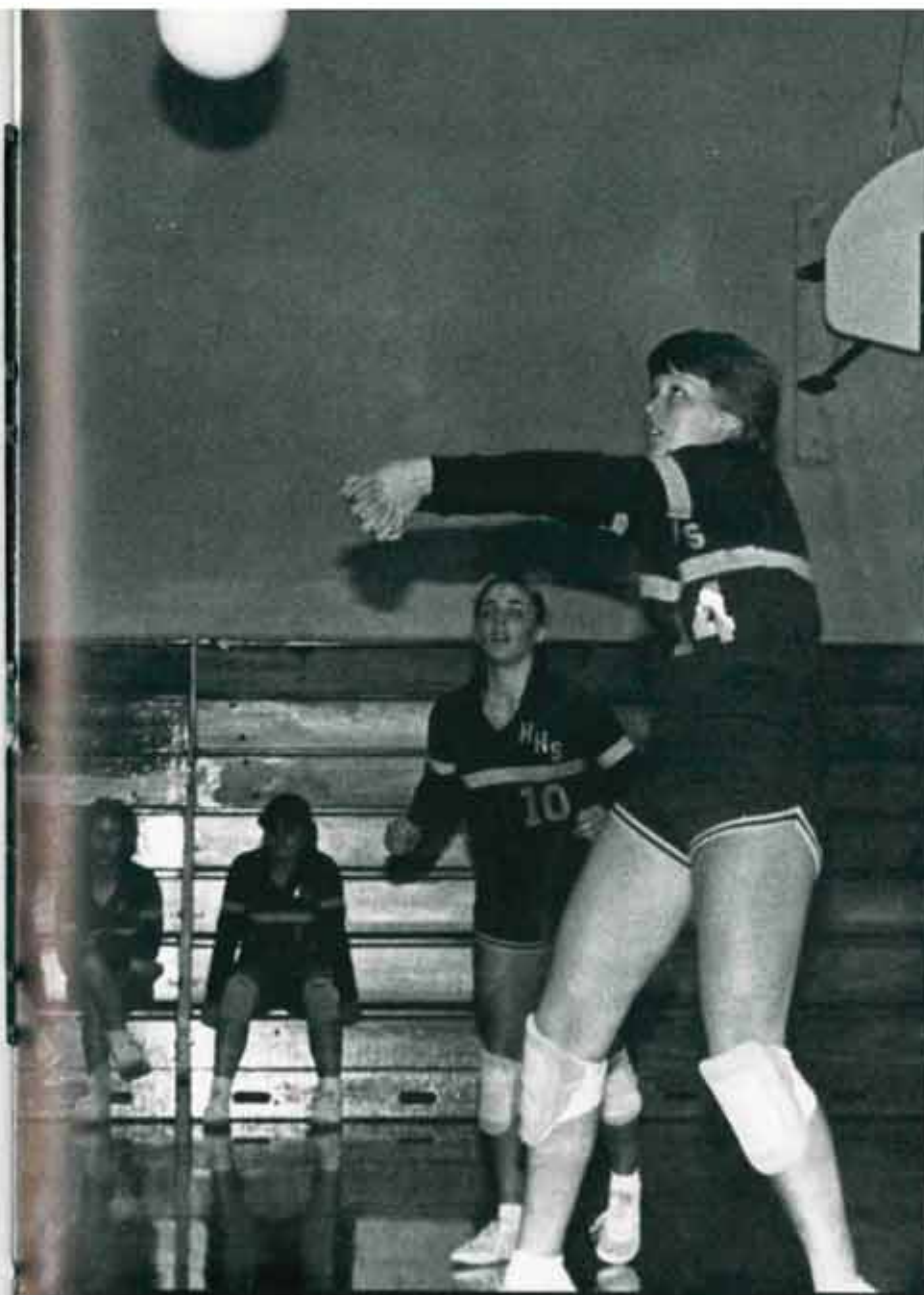

SLAM IT—Angie Helmer seems airborne as she prepares for one of her spikes.

Since this was my final year to play high school volleyball, I had great hopes. Some of them came true, and some did not. Every team experiences some problems, and our team had its share. But despite these problems, I really enjoyed being a member of this year's team.

Volleyball is a sport that is definitely gaining popularity. The terrific learning experiences we had with Coach Carlson will greatly help the future of HHS volleyball.

Here is the commitment I believe each athlete must make, "In every athletic situation, whether in practice or actual competition, the athlete must dedicate himself to give all that he has—mentally, emotionally and physically—in a way that will be pleasing to the Lord rather than gain any recognition from men." (Maura Janzen)

NICE TRY—Maura Janzen and Wendy Lange just miss the block.

CONCENTRATION—Dyan Goertz is intent on returning the ball.

TROJAN POWER—Keeping her eye on the ball, Wendy Lange hits it over the net.

Front row: Liane Schattak, Carrie Dalke, Sherri Duerksen, Denise Winter, Lisa Friesen, Marci Abrahams, Debbie Penner, Sheryl Goering and Karen Jost.

Teamwork major factor

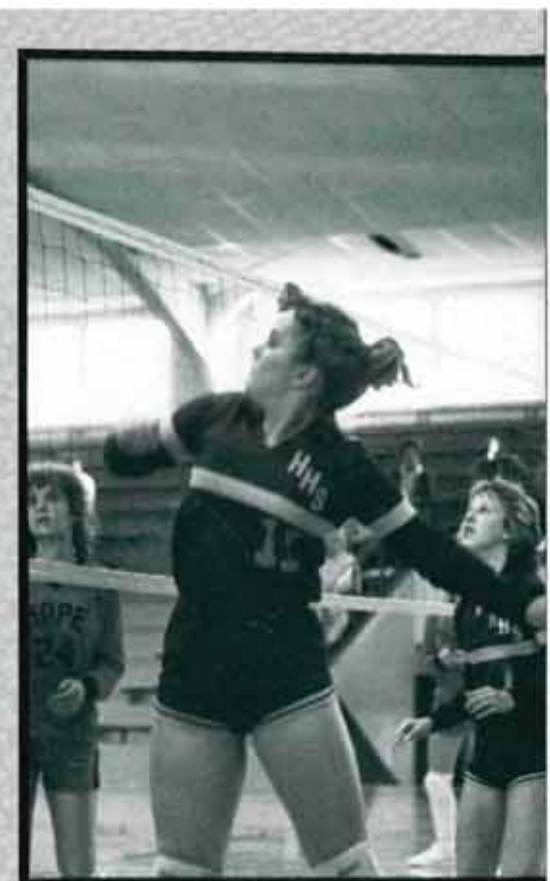

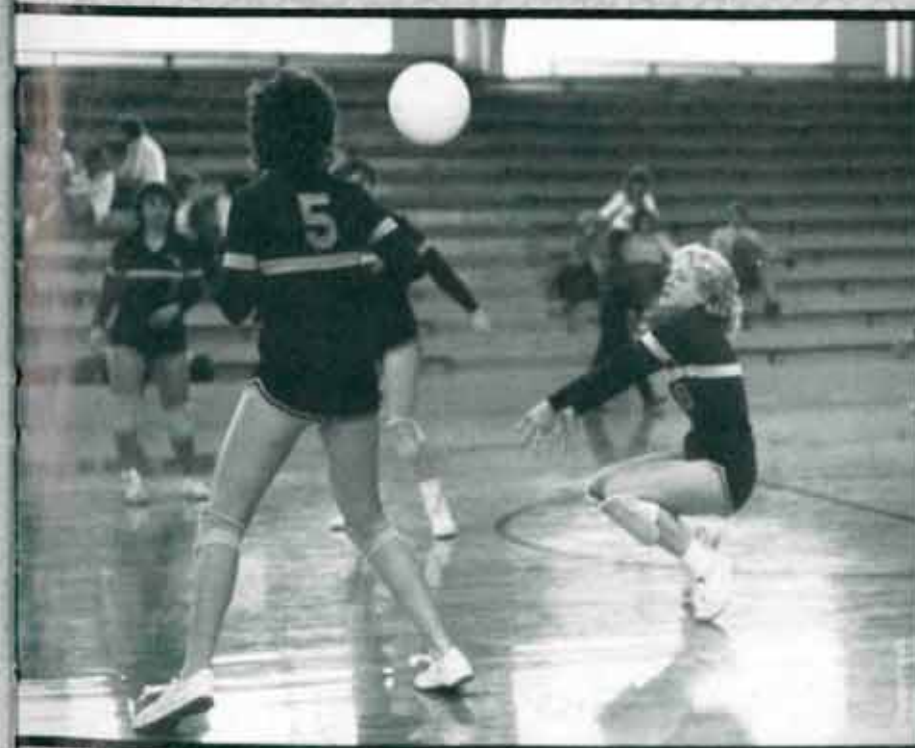

Becky Carlson, high school volleyball coach, led the j.v. volleyball team to an exciting 6-2 season. Carlson said, "I think the j.v.'s have excellent potential at the varsity level. We don't have too much height, but the girls coming up are quick and have the desire and potential to be winners. I attribute a big part of our winning season to teamwork. The junior varsity team members work very well together and are unselfish players. I have very high expectations of an excellent season next year."

Many of the team members felt that teamwork was also a major factor and enjoyed working under Carlson.

TIME OUT—Coach Carlson gives the team a few helpful pointers.

STRETCHIN' HIGH—Debbie Penner stretches for a victorious serve.

ACE SERVE—Sherri Duerksen prepares to serve another of her almost non-returnable serves.

Becky Carlson, high school volleyball coach from Elmore, Kansas, graduated from Allen County Community College and received her B.A. from Tabor College. Carlson enjoyed working with Hillsboro athletes because she felt they were hard working and conscientious. Along with coaching volleyball, j.v. basketball, Middle School basketball and track, she also worked as a teacher's aid in grades kindergarten through two.

Hard work pays off

Coached by Ann Newcomer, the girls' tennis season was highlighted by earning first in the Circle meet, placing second in the Sterling meet, and competing in the state finals. Eight girls played on the tennis team, and Newcomer was very pleased with the team's performance as well as that of the individual players. As a first year tennis coach, Newcomer stressed learning to play smart tennis and having positive attitudes.

In reflecting back on the 1983 season, most of the players were pleased with their performance. According to Connie Rahe, "We were well disciplined. Our conditioning and hard work every day in practice really helped us in the meets."

The number one doubles team of Tammy Kroecker and Cindy Lanning placed fourth in the regional competition and advanced to state play. Rahe placed first in number one singles in regional competition and earned fourth at state.

Yes we can

Adopted by the girls' basketball squad, "Yes I Can" served as their motto for the 1983-84 season. This motto was often heard during long practices, strenuous drills and close ballgames.

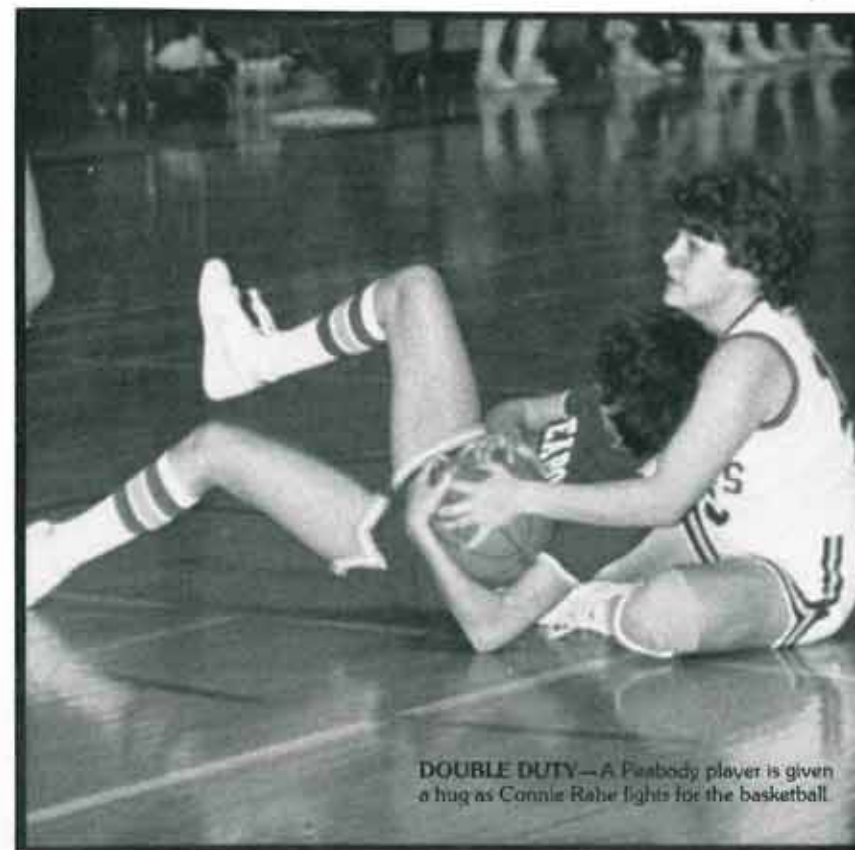

Teamwork played a major role in the season which ended with a record of 7-13. Coached by Lee Albrecht, the girls played fourteen league games, six non-league games and returned to the Newton Invitational Tournament for the fourth consecutive year.

Albrecht mentioned that work during the off season really paid off, and the team played some excellent ball throughout the year. Two team members, Shannon Duerksen and Wendy Lange, were selected to the All MKL team. Many of the returning players improved greatly over last year's season. Albrecht felt that the main weakness during the season was inability to hit the good percentage shot and to press effectively. He also said, "The girls displayed good teamwork which is so essential to effective basketball."

FOLLOW THROUGH—An excellent follow through is displayed by Shannon Duerksen on one of her jumpshots during the Newton Invitational Tournament.

WHAT'S UP?—All eyes are on the hoop as a shot goes up. Trojan team members are Lisa Unruh, Wendy Lange and Sheryl Funk.

DOUBLE DUTY—A Peabody player is given a hug as Connie Rahe fights for the basketball.

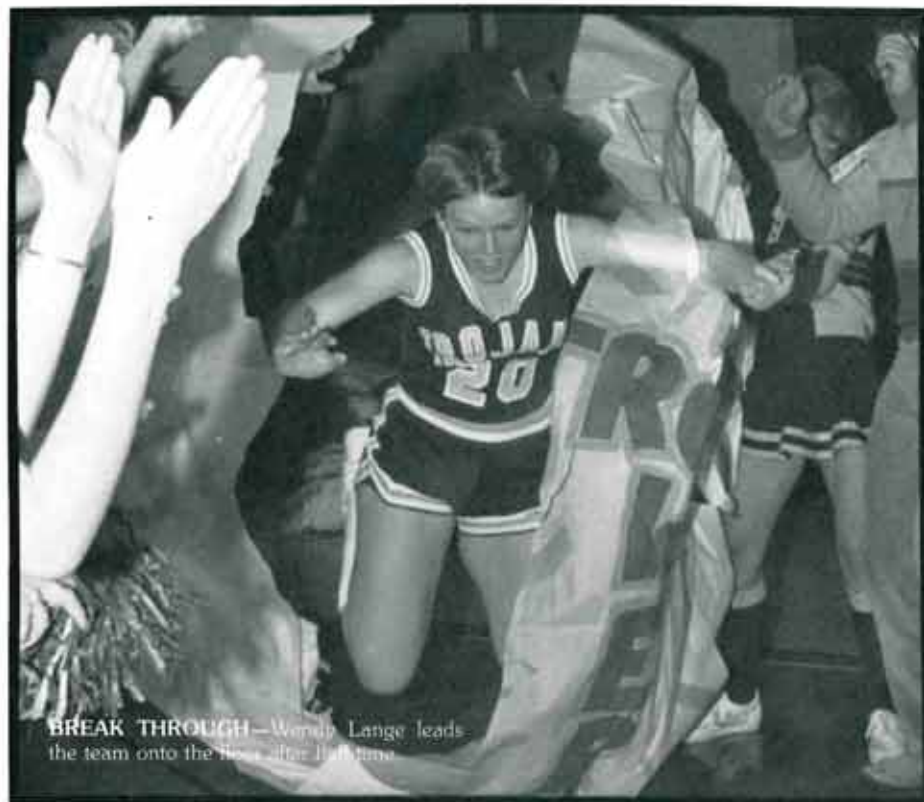

FINGERTIP REBOUND—It's on her fingertips! Sheryl Funk jumps for a rebound during the Hesston game.

TEAMWORK—A major factor in the 1983-84 year was teamwork. First row: Sherri Duerksen, Suzanne Loewen, Cindy Pankratz, LaDonna Klein, Kay Suderman, Debbie Penner, Connie Rahe and Marci Helmer, manager. Second row: Becky Carlson, assistant coach, Kim Flaming, Shannon Duerksen, Wendy Lange, Lisa Unruh, Carol Funk, Miriam Westblade and Lee Albrecht, coach.

Team Spirit

With their fans cheering them on, the girls' junior varsity squad went onto a winning season. The girls proved to be tough competitors as they compiled a 10-7 record. They played well together and had great team spirit which helped them through tough games. The experience that was gained will be helpful to the players, especially the underclassmen, as they move on up to the varsity squad in the coming years.

A different style of basketball

Sponsored by Mr. Sextro, the co-ed intramurals program was under the leadership of senior captains Mark Dalke, Marty Dalke, Glen Herbel, Scott Kelsey, John Shriver and Curt Vajnar. The schedule was arranged so that the six teams played each other once.

"Intramurals were a great way to occupy Monday evenings and most kids thought it was a lot of fun," said team captain Curt Vajnar.

According to Mr. Sextro, "Some might have called it basketball. Some might have called it mass confusion; however, most of the participants had several fun filled and active nights trying to play an organized sport in a disorganized way."

TIME OUT—The girls' basketball cheerleaders take time out to pose. They are head cheerleader Sheila Delk, Kathy Penner and Noelle Breese.

I have enjoyed being a cheerleader this year and last year. It's been a good experience, even though it was a lot of work. It was great getting to know the people on my squad. I had a lot of fun with them and enjoyed getting to know each of them. (Jean Ollenburger)

Raising spirit at HHS

Being a cheerleader took a lot more than a pretty face and a loud voice. Cheerleading involved hard work, time, patience, and learning to work with others. They also went that extra mile to color locker posters, bake cookies to put in the players' lockers, and think of new ways to promote school spirit.

This year's girls' basketball cheerleaders were: Sheila Delk, head cheerleader, Noelle Breese and Kathy Penner. Head cheerleader Dyan Goertz, Jean Ollenburger, Diane Klassen and Lisa Braun led cheers at the boys' basketball games.

The boys' basketball squad highlighted the year by decorating a Christmas tree in the boys' locker room. They also portrayed Santa, Mrs. Claus and the elves at a party given for the players. The team also received a special valentine from the cheerleaders in the Star Journal.

Together the squads presented pep rallies, involving members of the student body in the skits as well as class competitions. During spirit week, the cheerleaders encouraged classes to decorate their halls and cheer the Hesston game. They then hosted a party honoring the winning Senior class. Serving as hostesses for Parents' Night marked the end of the cheerleading season.

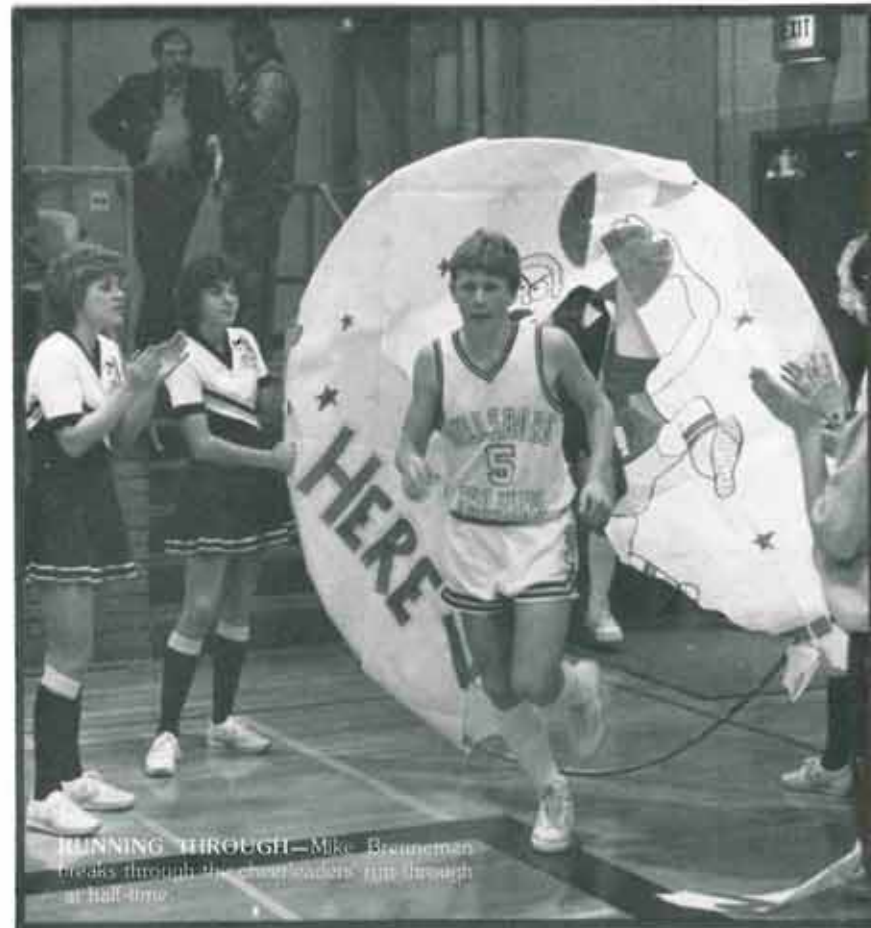

CLOSELY WATCHING—Second year cheerleaders Dyan Goertz and Jean Ollenburger pause a moment from cheering to watch the game.

RAISING SPIRIT—Kathy Penner cheers her team on.

RUNNING THROUGH—Mike Bruneman breaks through the cheerleaders' run through at half-time.

KICKING HIGH—Lisa Braun shows her skill while doing a routine to Minnesota Rouser.

CHEERING FOR TWO—Sheila Delk, Noelle Breese and Kathy Penner keep their eyes on the action while leading the crowd in a cheer.

Trojan basketball

Finishing their season with a record of 6 wins and 16 losses, the Trojans ranked 7th in the Mid-Kansas League this year. They were under the coaching direction of Terry Hill.

Mike Brenneman led the team in scoring with 274 points, averaging over 13 points per game. Brenneman also led the team in freethrows, shooting a 73.9% average to score 34 points from the line. He was also selected honorable-mention on the MKL All-League team.

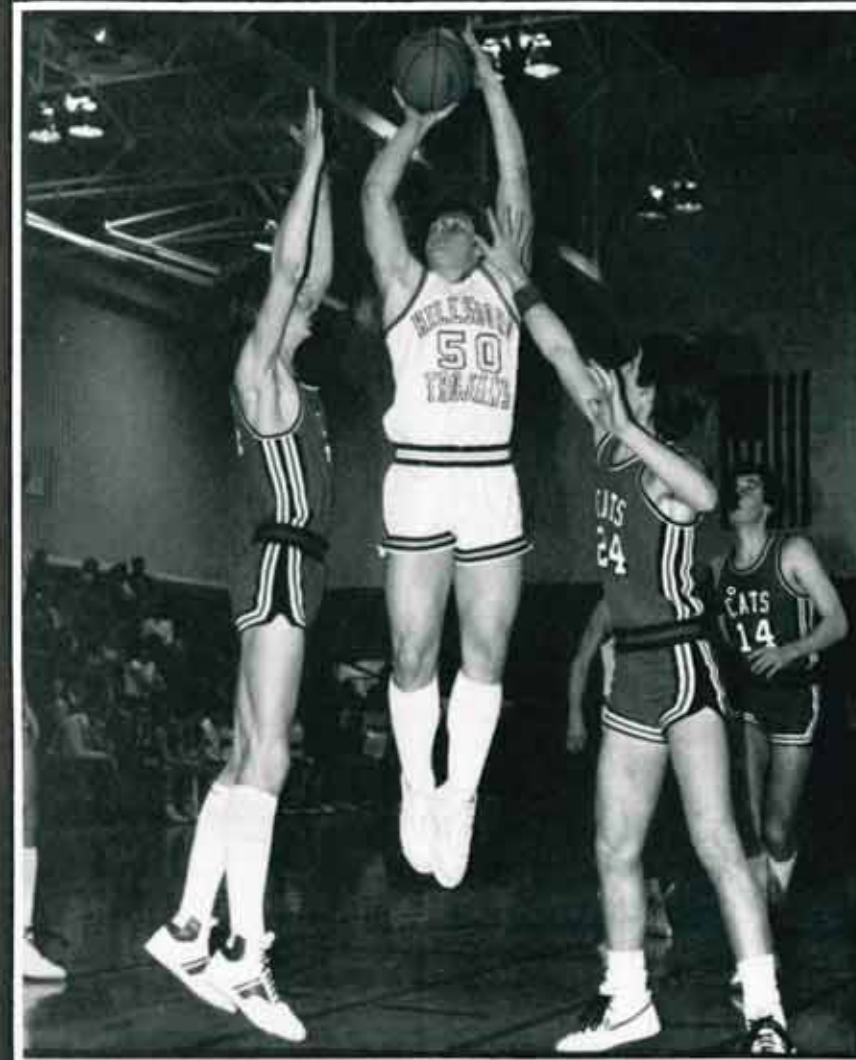

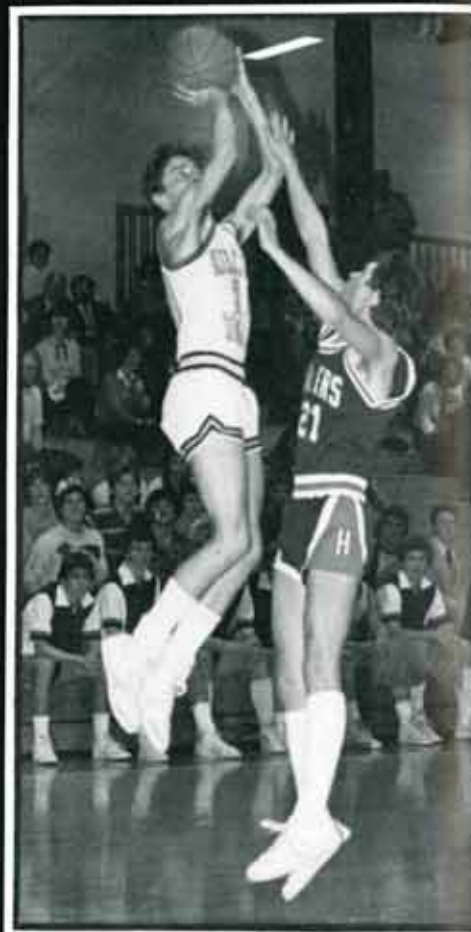

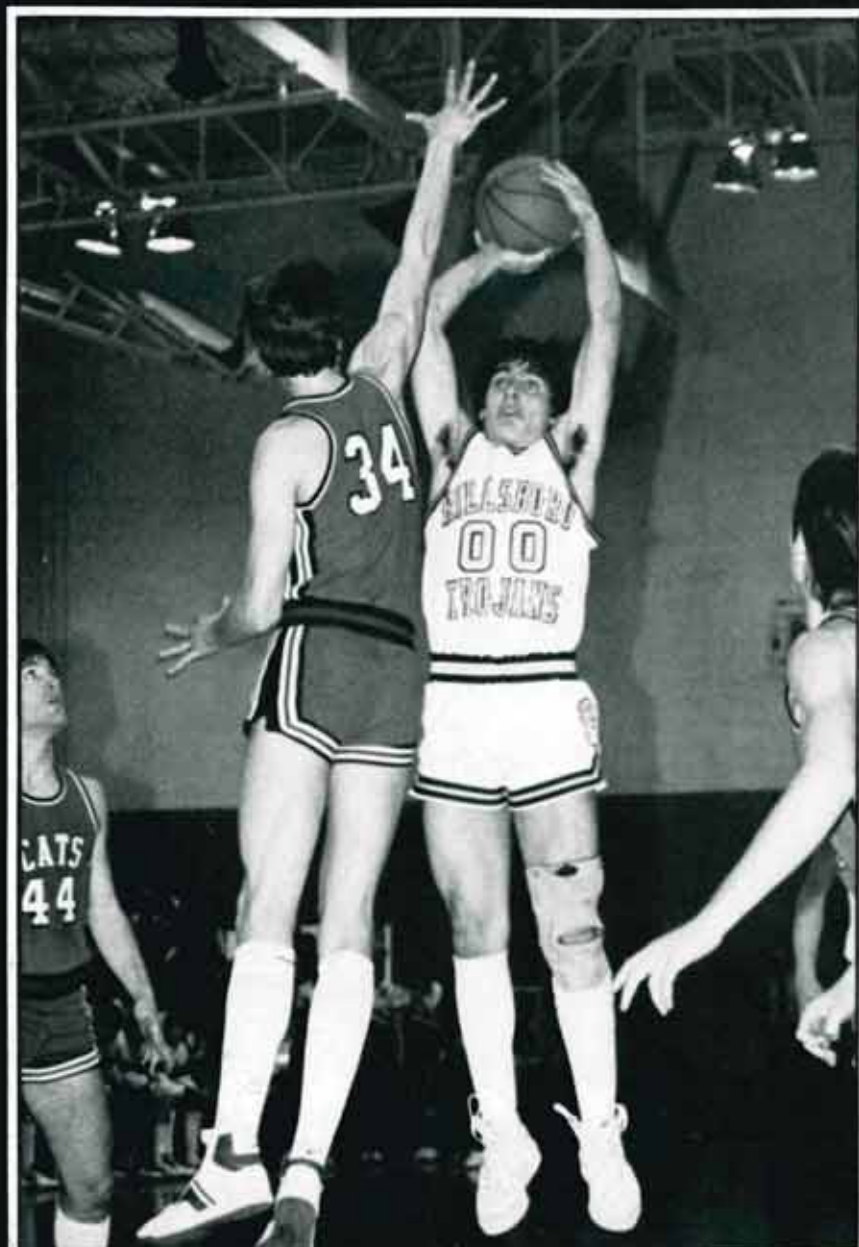

With a 63.6% field goal average, Corey Jost led the Trojans scoring on 7 out of 11 shots. Robbie Delk led the team in defensive rebounds with 75, while Joel Schroeder pulled down 50 offensive rebounds. Paul Reimer led the assists with 89.

Hillsboro ended the season with an average of 48.3 points a game. They hit 40.2% from the floor and 56.3% from the free throw line.

Highlighting the Trojan's season was a first round victory at Sub-State over the Southeast of Saline Trojans.

First year brings changes

First year coach, Rick Markford, coached the boys' junior varsity team to a successful year, finishing above the 500 mark. It took some time for the team to adjust to Markford's new coaching style, but they adjusted quickly.

The players also gained valuable playing experience for the coming season, as well as learning to play with different players. According to Warren Unruh, "I had a lot of fun this year. For me, the highlight of our season was the j.v. tournament because we were supposed to finish fourth, and we finished second."

Young team works hard

Hindered by bad weather and a poor track, the track team ran in the streets and worked in the gym to prepare for the first track meet. This year's team was very young and only had two seniors and one junior to lead them.

During the course of the season, two new school records were set. One of them was set by Troy Klein in the intermediate hurdles with a time of 42.0 seconds. The other record was set by David Kliever in the 3200 meter run with a time of 10:51.9.

The standout of the year was Troy Klein winning the only first place medal for the Trojans at the league track meet. He also placed third at regionals in the intermediate hurdles but was eliminated in the preliminaries at the state track meet. Klein was voted Most Valuable Player by his teammates.

Although the team did not place very high at the track meets, Coach Penner has hopes for next year. Plans for the new all-weather track are to be completed before the '85 track season, and this will hopefully encourage more people to participate in track.

The track year was always a lot of fun for the participants and spectators because the team always did the best it could.

HELP FROM THE SIDELINES—David Kliever cheers Troy Klein on during a race.

Penner, Stacey Guhr, Brad Dies, Troy Klein, David Funk, Marty Dalke and Arlin Funk.

GOING FARTHER—Richard Loewen tries to go as far as possible in the long jump.

Seniors pace squad

Bad weather was the main obstacle of the 1984 girls track team. They took third at their only home meet. At league, the team took second place.

Angie Helmer and Tammy Penner were the only two seniors on the team. They were voted co-MVPs. Angie Helmer set a new school record in the 800 meter with a time of 2:22.4. Helmer also took first in the 100, 400 and 800 meter runs in state competition and brought home a third place trophy for HHS. Tammy Penner who has run in state competition the past three years failed to qualify at the regional meet because of illness.

Coach Balzer said, "This has been another good track season, even though we faced many obstacles. I want to thank our seniors for the leadership they gave us. I also hope the rest of the girls stay out next year. I see a lot of possibility for a good girls track team in a few years."

WHAT SPEED—Angie Helmer is the only one in slight running the 200 meter dash.

Track season has been my most memorable time in high school. Being with friends and striving for excellence is what makes track so special to me. The highlight of my career was last year's state meet. Both Tammy and I worked hard to get 3rd at state. As a team we have earned several trophies for the school. Everyone put forth her best effort in order to win. Hopefully this year we can do as well at the state meet, or even better. Last year and this year were plagued with wet weather, but we do our best. (Angie Helmer)

NO. 1—Angie Helmer breaks the string for first place finish.

AND THE WINNER IS...—Kay Suderman lunges across the finish line in first place.

HURRY UP—Suzanne Loewen waits her turn to throw the discus.

TEAMWORK—Cheryl Wiens sprints to hand the baton off to her teammate.

At the first of the school year I ran in two cross country meets. I really enjoyed this two mile event. All four years I have run the mile and two mile (1600 meter and 3200 meter)—the longer the better, in my book. I have qualified for state in both events all previous years. Last year I placed 4th in the 3200 meter run, and Hillsboro girls took 3rd in 3A competition. This was exciting for our two member team although Angie Helmer deserves the credit. I enjoy just going out and running long distances, but I also like getting to know different people both from my school and competing schools. (Tammy Penner)

Senior Paul Reimer completed his fourth high school tennis season this year. However, his tennis career began long before competing in high school tournaments. Following in his brothers' footsteps, Paul started playing as soon as he was capable of holding a tennis racquet. Having a coach for a dad, Paul's tennis career had an extra boost throughout his progressing years.

Paul's tennis ability wasn't limited only to high school competition, he also participated in summer tournaments. Many hot and tiring hours spent at the courts revealed Reimer's dedication, and his performance at tournaments was his reward.

According to Coach Markford, Paul was the 1984 team leader in both his knowledge about the game and his ability. Markford said that he was a good reference help. Next year, Paul plans to continue his tennis career at Tabor College.

GOOD MATCH—With his usual sportsmanship-like conduct, Paul Reimer shakes hands with his opponent after the match.

Love-love, ball one

According to Coach Rick Markford the young and inexperienced tennis team was led by Paul Reimer who ended the season with eighteen wins and five losses. At the number one singles spot, Reimer scored two first place finishes, three second place finishes and was the runner-up at the regional meet in Emporia which allowed him to compete in the state competition.

Playing number two singles, Mike Ciani, who traded off with Kendall Heide, finished with a 4-9 record. Heide finished with a record of 4-4. David Kuo and Kendall Heide finished with a 2-11 record at number one doubles. Number two doubles teams consisted of Lyle Isaac and Rusty Thomas with a 3-6 record, and Thomas and Brad Richards with a 4-7 finish. Other members of the team included Richard Bahrke, Darin Ediger, David Hein and Craig Miller.

Coach Markford said the boys displayed much improvement throughout the season and have the potential to make future tennis seasons successful.

Par for the course

Although they had only nine players, most of whom were underclassmen, the golf team did their best at the golf meets. The first position on the team was occupied by several people during the season. But, according to Mr. Sextro, "Some of the guys clutched when they were in the first position because of the competition."

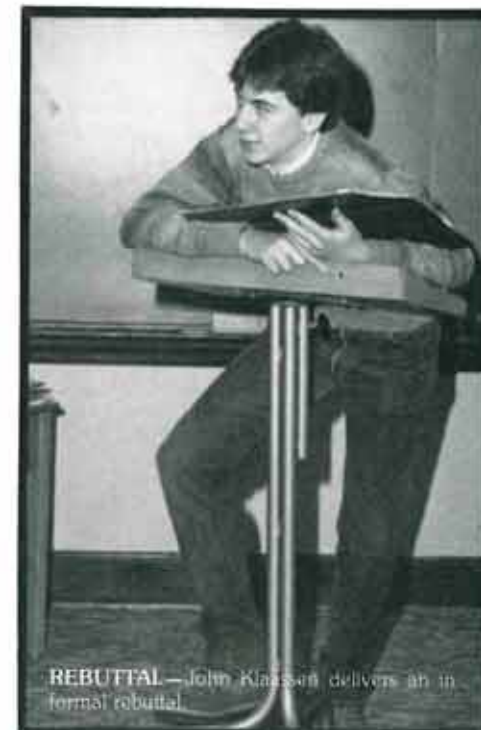

At the Hesston Invitational, John Knaak was third medalist. Jason Vajnar won third place sophomore at the Hesston Special. At the Hillsboro meet, Jason Vajnar was first medalist and John Knaak was fifth medalist. The team was second overall at the Mid Kansas League golf meet.

The team worked hard so that they could play well at the meets. If the underclassmen keep playing golf, they will have some good experience by the time they are seniors.

Activities

REBUTTAL—John Klaassen delivers an informal rebuttal.

It's debatable

Although the debate team got off to a slow start, they rallied at regional competition to win second place and advance to state competition. Troy Williams, John Klaassen, Sam Funk, Ron Krause and Jack Krause were the 1983 debate squad.

The debate team competed in tournaments at Minneapolis High School, Newton High School and McPherson High School; the team of Klaassen and Williams finished one speaker point away from third place in all of these meets. One day of the Bethel College tournament was also attended by the squad.

At regionals and state competition the teams were Williams and Funk-affirmative and Klaassen and Ron Krause-negative.

"We had a great season, but we didn't attend enough tournaments to get the experience we needed on the state topic," said Klaassen.

Lights shine on Broadway

One of the highlights for the music department was the presentation of the Broadway musical "Babes In Arms" on November 17-19.

Cast members were chosen by vocal music director, Dave Clark; instrumental music director, Jim Jones; and David Skidmore. In addition to the cast, many students were chosen or volunteered to help in the orchestra or on the stage crews. Stage manager Maura Janzen kept the back stage in order. Not only did she prompt the cast, but she also cued the lighting and sound crews. The following crew chiefs were under her direction: Marci Helmer, properties; Corey Jost, stage crew; Angie Weibert, make up; Shannon Duerksen, costumes; Bryce Flaming, lighting; John Goertz and John Klaassen, sound; Lisa Unruh, publicity and tickets; Jean Ollenburger, choreography; and Tammy Penner, stage construction. Sally Schneider, with the help of Kim Friesen, Kris Jost, Cindy Lanning and Vonda Thiessen, painted the flats.

All the rehearsing and constructing paid off when "Babes In Arms" opened Wednesday for an audience of Middle School students. Thursday night the musical was presented for an auditorium filled with parents and friends. The musical ran through Saturday.

According to Greg Goering, "I enjoyed acting in the musical because I could let everything go and be myself. It's one of those experiences that will stay with those involved forever."

That's entertainment

The 1983-84 choir was very busy throughout the year, but hard work continually revealed itself in many outstanding accomplishments.

A major highlight for the H.H.S. chorus was the letter of acceptance to perform at the Kansas Music Educators Association. A record of the performance was made available for sale to the students. The chorus also gave a fall concert including songs such as "Haste Thee Nymph" and "Praise the Lord," performed in "Babes in Arms," presented a Christmas concert, and performed contest numbers at still another concert.

Another highlight of the year occurred when Spirit-n-Celebration was asked to appear on a televised Christmas special. Spirit-n-Celebration was also asked to perform at many different places in the community such as churches, club meetings and banquets.

At contest the chorus, boys' glee, girls' glee, Spirit-n-Celebration, boys' ensemble, girls' ensemble, Sweet 16 and the girls' trio all received 1 ratings at regionals and, with the exception of Sweet 16, also received 1 ratings at the state contest. Soloists this year included Noelle Breese, Lois Epp, Sheila Delk, Kip Friesen, Carol Funk, Stacey Guhr, David Kliever, Paul Reimer, Steve Schale and Vonda Thiessen. Reimer, Guhr and Friesen received 1 ratings at state.

As soon as contest was over, the chorus began rehearsing for their final performance which was a Broadway production. Because of the popular Broadway hits, the production was an exciting and fun way to end the chorus year.

PEP BAND—First clarinet Brenda Klassen adds her skills to the half time entertainment.

Artists have colorful year

The talent of many art students was revealed in the 1983-84 school year. At the Kansas Federation of Women's Club Art Competition, Lori Dyck won a first in oils with her painting "Before the Market;" Lois Epp placed second with her oil "Summer Shadows;" Nancy Unruh placed third with her oil "Wild and Free;" Kip Friesen took honorable mention with his oil "The Last Run;" and Rebecca Westblade placed second with her pencil drawing entitled "Study of Cat." At Marymount, Friesen's "The Last Run" was one of five paintings that was awarded Best of Show.

Some of the art students took a field trip to Wichita in February to see the Scholastic Art Awards where Epp's painting "Spring Solitude" was displayed along with other Kansas high school winners. The students also toured the Wichita Art Museum.

First year teacher Sally Schneider commented, "It was fun working with so many talented students."

ARTIST AT WORK—Preparing for the Art Show is Karen Schmidt.

ART SHOW—Miss Schneider examines the works of her students, Nancy Unruh and Lori Dyck.

TALENT—Rebecca Westblade works on her still life painting.

ARTIST AT WORK—Lisa Ashlock concentrates on finishing her oil painting.

HARD AT WORK—Kris Jost concentrates at finishing her pencil drawing.

CREATIVE—Robyn Schutte starts on a new oil painting.

FRAMED—Miss Schneider helps Sherri Duerksen frame a painting.

CRITIC—Lois Epp observes the pencil drawings displayed at the Art Show.

Closing

WELL GUYS, WHAT DO YOU THINK?—Tim Peters flashes the camera a not too sure glance.

WHAT'S NEW—While munching on popcorn at the school fun night, Lisa Bezdek, Jenny Thouvenell and Melody Heidel discuss the latest news.

"DANCING ON THE GREEN"—Girls' glee members Sheila Delk, Megan Barkman, Veronica Weems and Christy Isaac rehearse a 1920's song for the spring concert.

AT LAST!—Shaking hands with Loren Neufeld, Chris Liles receives his diploma as he graduates from Hillsboro High School.

ISLAND IN THE STREAM—Among palm trees, students dance the night away at the Junior-Senior prom.

WHAT A DISHONOR—Mr. Cummings presents Mark Dalke with the Gold Brick Award because "he displayed qualities that were a marvel of negligence and inactivity."

FOOD AND FUN—John Shriver, Steve Schale, Rob Delk, Stuart Schale and Scott Kelsey enjoy the Hawaiian leis and the banquet dinner.

THE THREE NOMINEES ARE...Awards are presented to seniors by Marci Helmer and Kathy Penner

AT YOUR SERVICE—Dressed in white pants and Hawaiian shirts, Shari Duerksen and Arlin Funk serve glazed pineapple and coconut cake to the juniors and seniors.

Sail away to another world

Walking over the bridge to the banquet, the juniors and seniors were caught up in the festive atmosphere of a Hawaiian island. Red, yellow, orange and green streamers decorated the boundaries of the room. Along one side an authentic looking brook flowed silently and palm trees grew in various places around the room. Before being escorted to their seats, everyone received a brightly colored lei.

When everyone was seated, Vice President Lori Dyck dedicated a poem to the seniors and gave the welcome. Angie Helmer gave the response, and Mr. Born shared some statistics concerning the Class of 1984. The servers, dressed in Hawaiian shirts, white pants and thongs, then served the dinner which consisted of a fruit slush appetizer, baked ham, saffron rice, green beans and glazed pineapple and coconut cake.

Following the meal, Kathy Penner and Marci Helmer presented some awards such as first to be married, last to be married, most successful, worst attendance and most flirtatious teacher. Mr. Cummings presented the traditional gold brick award to Mark Dalke and runner-up Stuart Schale. In front of the backdrop depicting a sunset, President Marilyn Thiessen gave the closing remarks. Many of the guests then had their pictures taken by Don Ratzlaff.

At 8:30 pm the dance started. Phil Thompson from T-95 provided the entertainment while the juniors, seniors and their guests enjoyed a late night of dancing. The evening ended with an early breakfast or a midnight movie.

AT YOUR SERVICE—The sophomore servers at the Junior-Senior Banquet are Anita Klassen, Arlin Funk, Jason Vajnar, Layne Wiebe, David Funk, John Goertz, Cheryl Wiens, Suzanne Loewen, Debbie Penner, Lisa Friesen, Melody Heidel, Sherri Duerksen and Tina Huang.

I'M GOOD—Troy Williams demonstrates some fancy dancing.

ONE LAST HUG—Angie Weibert gives Corey Jost one last hug before the graduation ceremonies begin.

REFLECTING BACK, LOOKING ON—Lois Epp gives her valedictory speech with pride.

UH, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—John Klaassen begins his senior speech with an impersonation of Mr. Sextro.

HORRIBLE, NO-GOOD HHS YEARS—Tammy Penner gives a humorous speech depicting the "horrible" times spent at HHS.

WE'RE GRADUATING—With huge smiles, Ricky Medley and Maura Janzen give each other a big hug on graduation day.

I'M READY—Chris Liles is ready to begin the graduation ceremonies.

A time to laugh—a time to cry

On May 17, 1984, as "Pomp and Circumstance" once again filled the gym, 44 anxious seniors graduated from Hillsboro High School. The evening ceremonies began with a welcome presented by Senior Class President Angie Helmer, followed by the invocation led by Rev. Roger Siebert. Co-Salutatorians Vonda Thiessen and Greg Goering gave speeches and then Thiessen sang "So Far." John Klaassen and Tammy Penner, chosen representatives by their classmates, were senior speakers.

Mr. Born presented the new President's Academic Fitness Awards to Bryan Funk, Greg Goering, Corey Jost and John Klaassen which was then followed by a small senior ensemble singing "Friends." Lois Epp then addressed the crowd with her Valedictory speech. The Citizenship Awards were presented to Tammy Penner and Paul Reimer. Following the mixed chorus singing "The Shepherd's Heart" and "Up Where We Belong," Richard Bahrke was introduced as the special speaker.

Finally after receiving their diplomas, Rev. Erwin Klaassen gave the benediction and the Class of 1984 met in the commons area to be congratulated.

WE MADE IT—Steve Schale, Glen Herbel, Scott Kelsey, Brad Dies, Mark Dalke and Kirk Gillett are glad that they can get on with life after high school.

WE'RE SECOND TO NONE—As Co-Salutatorian Greg Goering addresses the audience with his speech.

A SPECIAL GRADUATE—The gym is filled with a warm round of applause as Geoff Dyck receives his diploma.

GRADUATING AT LAST—John Shriver, upon receiving his diploma, is ready to move on.

WHAT AN HONOR—Mr. Born awards Bryan Funk with one of the four President's Academic Fitness Awards.

Looking back

At the close of the 1983-84 school year, there were many memories to look back on and to relive. Many of the friendships formed will last long after colleges and careers separate the classmates. Yet, new faces will be ready to join old ones who are returning to high school.

Preparations had already begun for the next school year. Student Council, classes and other organizations held their elections. There were also cheerleading and Spirit-n-Celebration tryouts. These and other extra-curricular activities were important factors in high school.

As it can be seen, memories and "looking back" usually led to looking ahead into the future. Students did this by making plans for the summer, and many seniors made applications or final arrangements with the colleges of their choice.

Since reflecting on the past causes one to consider the future, the past affects the future and what type of person an individual may become. With another year gone by, H.H.S. has been looking good, so look out, because now we're really looking good!!

I WANT YOUR VOTE—Placing her vote, Marci Helmer marks the Student Council election ballot.

SENIOR SNEAK—Marty Dalke bites into a juicy barbecued hamburger at the senior picnic at the park.

READY AND WAITING—[Name] waits his turn to enter the familiar strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" fill the room.

CATCHING THE RAYS—Kay Duerksen and Dale Klassen are convinced that the best way to paint is outside in the sun.

DOGPILE—Showing Mr. Cummings how much they appreciate him, John Klaassen, Joel Schroeder, Greg Goering, Corey Jost, Richard Bahrke, Paul Reimer and Bryan Funk prepare to dogpile him one last time.

TRACK MEET—Vajnar displays himself while racing on track meet.

TIME MACHINE—Kay Duerksen, God of the Future, sits in the chair of the future.

TIME OUT—Kay Duerksen and Dale Klassen take a break at the Hillsboro track meet.

FROM YOUR BLUE BIRD SCHOOL BUS DISTRIBUTOR

Tabor promotes Christianity and it shows in the attitudes of the people. Most everyone is friendly and easy to get along with. I feel secure here knowing there are people around who care.

Stacey Liles
HHS Class of '83

I enjoy the Christian approach to subjects that the professors at Tabor use and the overall atmosphere that is radiated by the students and faculty here.
